Master Clem O'Reilly, son of W. J. O'Reilly of the P. E. I. R., city, who has been undergoing treatment in the City Hospital and who recently suffered a relapse, is now doing nicely and is out of danger. The little chap's many friends will be delighted to hear this.

Yesterday afternoon about five o'clock a scrap occurred on the Market Square in which Henry Welsh was one of the participants. Officers appeared about the right time and Henry was taken in charge. When the police arrived on the scene the party had disappeared.

The Guardian is informed that, on account of the late hour the express train from Summerside to Tignish in the evening reaches Tignish and intermediate stations especially when it is detained in Summerside to connect with the steamer, and as the through passenger traffic for stations west of Summerside will be getting very late in a short time, Superintendent Sharp, is considering a change so that trains can leave Summerside on time when a report is received from the I. C. R. people stating that the steamer is one half hour or more late. In the past considerable dissatisfaction on the part of local people who were detained in Summerside waiting for the steamer has been noticeable and this change, if put into effect, would remove this objection.

The annual meeting of the M. P. A. A. this year should prove an important one in the history of our sport. President Johnson and Secretary McMillan have already shown that they are not to be hoodwinked, and have on more than one occasion acted with a promptness and fearlessness that others failed to show. It is evident that they have no intention of allowing hypocrisy in our amateur sport, and when the semi-professional idea comes up it will not be dealt with in a common sense manner. The M. P. A. A. is right, and when the move to permit semi-professionalism is put, the M. P. A. A. will be doing a great thing for sport in the Maritime Provinces, if it passes a resolution to that effect.—Halifax Herald.
