When a personal allowance for which she does not need to give an account... Personal dignity and economic expediency demand this. How to get it? Ah, there's the rub, but you might try a sit-down strike on at least one of your jobs.

Miss Nissen cannot reply personally to readers but will answer problems of interest through this column.

Strange But True

By F. H. MacArthur

The secret of the fine tones and workmanship of the famous violins of the Middle Ages was that the makers had the tree felled at a particular period of its growth.

The next step was to cut the wood into small pieces and expose it to the heat of the sun and to the winter's storms. After this seasoning process, the wood was bent, rubbed, polished, and finally put together with incomparable skill.

This is how the Stradivari was made, whose music still charms the world.

The leaves of some trees actually roll over when rain is about to fall, so that the rougher undersides may catch the moisture more easily.

It used to be an unwritten law in the province of New Brunswick, to permit a ship builder to enter the forests, cut down and carry off trees suitable for ship masts, on his paying the owner at the rate of a shilling per ton.

A glance through the history of any country will show that the vast majority of the world's successful men in every field were poor boys at the start. Pushed forward by the goal of necessity, they went tolling upward in the night while their companions slept. In Canada's ten Provinces there are 20,100 persons ninety years of age and over, and of this number Prince Edward Island can boast of 400.

It would be interesting to know how many of these nonagenarians are twins. It would be a simple matter to find out if the twins themselves would furnish the information either by forwarding to me or to this paper.

Delivering the first triplets born in Conn., in forty-seven years fell to the lot of Dr. Reuben Rothblat, one of the triplets born to Mr. and Mrs. Hyman Rothblat in 1906.

I see by the papers where the U.S. Army has recognized chlorophyll as a valuable treatment for battle wounds which present an odor problem. A certain Montrealer is said to have used $25 worth of Voids tablets before he found out that wasn't why people avoided him.

Three sisters all in the maternity ward at the same time, caused certain doctors and nurses to raise their eyebrows recently in a Cleveland hospital.

Lars Jensen, 80, of Utah, is one fellow who believes in putting everything shipshape around his final resting place. Now his vault is complete. Tombstones and coffin are ready for Jensen, and believe it or not, Jensen is ready for his final abode, though he says he expects to live another fifteen years.

In the good old days it took a lot of company to eat the family out of house and home. Now in many cases the family is doing it.

He got his daughter off his hands. His joy was not complete. For then and there he had to put her husband on his feet.

Lots of money is being made these days, but the only kind that is worth having is clean money.

Despite physical handicaps, Isaac Watts was a prodigious worker. Chalked up to his credit is one of the grandest hymns written in English, "O God, Our Help in Ages Past."

A broken arm made a successful woman of Margaret Teare of Buffalo, N.Y. She found that the home-made sling supporting her broken arm was awkward and uncomfortable.

Then she devised a new one. It worked. The demand became so great that she put the gadget in the hands of a sales firm. Margaret now runs the show herself and has outlets in many of the nation's medical supply companies.

According to police records, its the men, and not the women, who do most of the shoplifting in our busy centres.

The carpenter who built the stocks in Boston was placed in them as prisoner number one.

Men are said to like dogs because they provide them with the esteem which Victorian man demanded from women; and women like dogs because they are said to be less exacting and more faithful than men.

Seven-year-old Karan and Carmilla of Lenax, N.C., are Triplets and twins. Their last name is Triplet.

Sign on a truck in Seattle, Washington: "S-L-O-W Spring has sprung And grass has ris Where last year's Reckless driver is."

"See Venice and die," somebody has said, and no wonder for this queen city of Italy sits proudly on her one hundred and twenty islands. Many of its streets are waterways, with narrow lanes between houses.

Three hundred and seventy-eight bridges span its many canals. And you don't need an automobile in this ancient city. No siree, all you need to get around is a small gasoline launch or a plain everyday gondola. These and other features makes Venice different from any other city on earth.

"The place to pass on curves, you know, is only at a beauty show."
