NOTES AND COMMENTS.

—Ex-President Cleveland is going to Ottawa soon to fish in Canadian waters.

—The Indians of British Columbia on several important reserves are finding excellent precious metal prospects and are wishing to transfer their interests to white investors. As, however, the law will not suffer white men to enter and work on the Indian domain, it is suggested that the Indians should form mining, industrial organizations of their own. This is not altogether unlikely, as many of the coast and some of the inland Indians are well fixed, and some living near the sea own and manage successfully smart sealing and fishing sloops. The Indians of British Columbia are in the upper country, partly occupied in placer mining, but they have not hitherto attempted quartz working for the precious metals. The latest Indian gold finds are in the reserve at Saanich, near Victoria, where they have obtained, it is said, surface showings of $12 a ton.

—The make-up of Sir Henry Irving as Napoleon, in "Madame Sans Gene," is thus graphically described by the London Times: "The house rubbed its eyes with astonishment. For there before it, in the undoubted person of Sir Henry Irving, stood the short, fat, traditional figure of Napoleon. How the transformation is accomplished we do not profess to say. A coat cut high over the chest, together with high shoulders and heavy epaulettes, has a wonderfully shortening effect on the actor's figure; padded hips and legs seem to do the rest. But when all allowance is made for these sartorial devices and for the alert, bustling manner and rapid, staccato utterances which Sir Henry Irving (unlike himself) assumes, the result is still a marvel."

Moncton Times: The Charlottetown Patriot puts the total consumption of burning oil in Canada at 30 million gallons a year, and the advantage to the people as the result of the reduction in the duty from 6 to 5 cents with the permission to import in tank vessels at $1,200,000 a year, or about $1.20 per family of five persons. There is something wrong with the Charlottetown grit organ's calculation. The total consumption of coal oil in Canada—American and Canadian—is not 30 million gallons, but about 18 million gallons a year, of which less than 8 million gallons is imported, the total duty on which at the old rate would be, not a million two hundred thousand, but less than half a million dollars. So that if oil had been made free the saving would not have been as great as the Patriot estimates will accrue from the patry reduction made. The removal of taxation from the people by the reduction of one cent per gallon in the duty is a simple sum in arithmetic and the working-man and farmer will be able to estimate, at the end of the year, how much of a cut it has enabled them to effect in their oil bills.

His Excellency Marquis Iton has left Japan on the steamer Empress of India en route to England to represent Japan at the Diamond Jubilee.

An interview with Grumbkoff Pasha, the German officer who re-organized the Turkish artillery and who entered Larissa at the head of the Turkish troops, is published. Grumbkoff dwells upon the splendid conduct of the Turks and says the capture of Larissa did not cost them a single man. Continuing, the German officer says the works constructed by the Greek engineers of Larissa are deserving of all praise and he fails to understand why they were abandoned. The Turkish army in the field, he further remarks, is one of the finest Turkey ever possessed, and he says no praise is too great for both soldiers and officers. Grumbkoff Pasha gives many instances of the self sacrifice and enthusiasm animating the Turkish troops. In regard to the Greeks, the German officer asserts that both officers and men were seized with panic, and that great numbers of Greeks, in the face of their enemy, stripped themselves of their uniforms, donned civilian clothes and beseeched the Turks to spare their lives. In conclusion he says that the Turks treated all their prisoners and wounded with the greatest care.

ASTORIA, Ore., May 10.—According to private advices here F. M. B. Litchenburg, a young Englishman, who arrived in this city about two years ago and left a year later, has met a horrible fate at the hand of cannibals in the South Sea Islands. Litchenburg went directly from Astoria, together with an ex-missionary, whose name is not known, to trade with the natives of the Santa Cruz Islands, which have a population of about 30,000. The ex-missionary who had traded with them before and had been among them in his religious capacity, entertained no fears for the safety of himself and companion. The men, says the letter, procured traders outfits and set sail from Australia for the islands. The natives who are reputed to be more ferocious than any African tribes captured and held them for some time. Later they were killed and eaten. The story gained circulation through half civilized native, who witnessed the awful feast. Litchenburg belonged to a prominent London family. His father is said to be very wealthy.

AN ETERNITY OF LOVE

One bright thought flashes across my heart,
And gleams through the gloom of my sorrow,
That though on earth from each other forever we part,
With God's help we shall meet on that Eternal tomorrow.

Where'er thou goest, near or far,
Thou art fated to shine forth like some bright star,
Pointing wrecked humanity across the bar
Out of Hell's depth, towards Heaven's beacon tower.

God speed thee on thy way,
And fill with love thy spirit forever;
This be my prayer, that his bright guiding ray
Shall shed o'er thy path a radiance that faileth never.

Deep in my breast a memory's locked—
'Tis thin;
"Sorrow's pale hand keeps the key,"
The lock bathed in tears shall closer grow with time,
And never opened be until Eternity.

And then, oh! precious thought sublime,
When duty is done, with mutual love our souls shall meet.
And free from carnal thoughts and earthly crime,
Together we shall meet at Jesu's feet.

WHAT WOMEN WEAR.

The new straw hats are in red, magenta, mauve, heliotrope and various shades of green.

The softest shades of tan are correct for gloves now that we have so much color in our gowns.

Veiling with large dots is decidedly passe, and all the latest novelties have very fine dots and many of them none at all.

Narrow fancy belts are quite as popular as ever, and the latest novelty is of white leather, with clasps of gold and turquoise.

The new spring coat will have variety in style to recommend it, but the one which is expected to lead is the wateau sack, with plain, straight fronts and a plait in the back, and cut so that it outlines the figure at the side.

Cordings are a feature of the new dress models, and small cords, two or three close together, are set in around the bodice of a foulard gown 1½ inches apart. The material gathers on these cords just enough to give a soft, pretty effect.

The collar band with its decoration has been a prominent feature of fashion for some time, but now the latest models have quite plain collars, with a very modest fringe of lace or chiffon at the back or two pointed tabs of velvet or silk.—New York Sun.
