ADMIRING the "Manning Trophy" are Mrs. Fred L. Macmillan and J. Russell Finley, two members of the very active Red Cross blood donor committee for Charlottetown. This committee is the proud possessors of this trophy which they won for the outstanding results achieved at the 1961 blood donor clinics.

Blood Donor Days For City In April

Blood donor days for Charlottetown have been designated as Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, April 10, 11 and 12 for the spring Red Cross clinics, according to an announcement made by Fremont Archer, chairman of the Charlottetown committee which met at Red Cross headquarters last night to make the preliminary arrangements.

Mr. Archer said that Zion Church basement hall will be the locale for the April clinics and expressed appreciation to the board of trustees of Zion Church for its generosity in placing the hall at the disposal of Red Cross for this three-day period.

At last night's meeting the committee set the quota for the three days of clinics at 1,065 donors which is based at 60 per hour for the day-time sessions and 75 per hour for the evening. All clinics throughout the province are set on this same basis in order that all the centres competing for the "Manning Trophy" will have an equal chance to win this coveted award which is now in the possession of the Charlottetown committee.

The Zion session of the April clinics will be held at St. Dunstan's University on Tuesday afternoon, April 10 with a quota of 225 donors. Desmond Duffy, chairman of the Red Cross blood donor committee for the Students' Council at SDU, will again be in charge of the arrangements for the clinic at the college and is now setting up his committees.

Janet is one of 10 Guides and two Rangers chosen to attend the camp. They will be accompanied by two guiders, Mrs. C.S. Kennedy of Rosemere, Que., assisted by Mrs. R.T. Staton, Scarborough, Ont. The tour will include Scotland, England, Norway, Sweden and Denmark.

3,000 Acres Of Crops Said Needed By Plant

SUMMERSIDE — About 3,000 acres of crops will be required this year from local farmers by the New Annan frozen food plant of Seeman Bros. (Canada) Ltd.

The only farming that will be done by the company will be about 150 acres, and this for experimental purposes, to test different vegetable varieties and fertilizer levels.

This comment was made yesterday by the food plant manager, Murray MacEwen, as the result of recent remarks in the provincial legislature, in which C.C. Baker, MLA, was quoted as saying that there was some apprehension in the area that the Seabrook people may be shaping up to grow their own produce".

Mr. McEwen said that the company had stated several times that they had no intention or desire to participate in the farming end of the business except on a very small scale for experimental purposes.

He said they are contracting with farmers in the area for next summer's crops, and are experiencing wonderful co-operation.

Contracts are being made with farmers for the growing of peas, broccoli, cauliflower, Brussell sprouts, and potatoes, and he said they also hope to experiment with spinach.

He said that the company is using a carload of potatoes daily at its plant in the processing of frozen French Fries, and said that contrary to some reports, the company would not be growing any potatoes themselves, even on an experimental basis, because they believed the Island farmers had achieved good methods in the growing of potatoes.

The pallbearers were six nephews: Walter Gill, Clarence Walker, Norman MacKenzie, Harold MacKie, Louis Henry, and Norman Rankin.

Interment was in the Peoples Cemetery.

CARD OF THANKS

The brother and other relatives of the late Annie I. Walker wish to take this opportunity to thank all their neighbors and friends for their many acts of kindness during their recent sad bereavement. Also those who sent flowers cards, messages and letters of sympathy.

A special note of thanks is extended to Rev. Donald Campbell who conducted the funeral services

Research Officer Is On Committee

L. C. Callbeck, research officer, Experimental Farm, leaves today for Ottawa where he will participate in the organizational meetings of the National Committee on Pesticide Use in Agriculture on March 19-21.

Mr. Callbeck has been invited to serve a three-year term on the new committee which has been set up under the chairmanship of Dr. Henry Hurtig, pesticide expert with the research branch of the Canada department of agriculture, who recently took part in discussions on the aspects of human hazards of agricultural pesticides at a joint meeting of the World Health Organization and the Food and Agricultural Organization held in Rome.

The membership of the new committee, lately announced by Dr. S. C. Barry, deputy minister of agriculture, is composed of authorities drawn from the Canada department of agriculture, the department of health and welfare, universities, and industry.

Hong Kong Puts Quotas On Cotton

HONG KONG (Reuters)—The Hong Kong cotton advisory board Friday clamped quotas on cotton exports to Canada and the United States.

The board had been seeking a formula to introduce quotas on products likely to touch off further restraining requests from the U.S.

The Canadian quotas came in answer to a request for a hold-down on exports of cotton slacks, jeans and shorts to 345,000 dozen a year. Hong Kong shipped 121,000 dozen to Canada in the last five months.

Quotas for the U.S. and Canada will go into effect April 1.

P.E.I. Cancer Society Elects Ralph Jones As President

A new president for the Prince Edward Island Cancer Society was named last night at the society's meeting held at the Charlottetown Hotel.

Chosen as president was Ralph Jones of Charlottetown, who succeeds W.H. Beaton, also of Charlottetown. Mr. Beaton was named honorary president.

Other officers elected were C. William Peters, vice-president; Miss Gertrude Coady, secretary; and J.T. Place, treasurer, all of Charlottetown.

Named as directors were G. Graham Bennett, Alberton; Dr. J. C. Simpson, Summerside, Miss Camilla Walsh, RN, Souris; Dr. Temple Hooper, Dr. Lloyd S. Cox, Dr. A.L. Saunders; Robert G. MacLeod, Miss Miriam MacDonald, Dr. Allen MacMillan, Mrs. Walter Morrissey, Hon. J. David Stewart, Frank MacDonald, Wilfred Driscoll and Allison Jewell, all of Charlottetown.

The nominees to attend the Grand Council meetings are C.W. Peters and Frank MacDonald, both of Charlottetown.

Mr. Beaton indicated in his annual report that the P.E.I. Division "has undergone few changes and it is pleasing to report steady progress in every field of endeavour."

NEW PAMPHLET

He noted that considerable emphasis during the year had been placed on distribution of pamphlets and in particular, a new pamphlet, "To Smoke or not to Smoke".

"This pamphlet is designed primarily for circulation among the teenage group, and sets forth the disadvantages of acquiring the smoking habit, yet does not actually forbid the use of cigarettes, but leaves the decision to the young person concerned," Mr. Beaton stated.

He pointed out that it is planned to place these pamphlets and an associated film strip in every high school in the province.

Noting that welfare activities have developed into a most important segment of the society's program, Mr. Beaton stated that the dressing committee, under the direction of Mrs. J.L. Beaton, Charlottetown, and Mrs. S. Beaton, Summerside, provided 15,000 dressings for 28 cancer sufferers.

It was pointed out that the directors of the society felt the usual Sepember campaign should be withdrawn in order to leave the field open for the United Appeal to carry out its campaign to a successful conclusion.

"A decision has been made to launch the cancer campaign in April of this year, and no further requests will be made for funds until April of 1963. An extensive review of experience in the society's divisions across Canada, has led to a policy of adhering to an independent campaign," Mr. Beaton noted.

The treasurer's report was given by J.T. Place while the minutes of the last meeting were read by Ralph Jones. The report of the executive secretary was given by Mrs. J.G. Dennis.

Delivery Service Further Explained

SUMMERSIDE BUREAU OF THE GUARDIAN

"All mail will be delivered to the home" when the letter-carrier service is inaugurated, Postmaster Charles Peters stressed yesterday, commenting on an apparent misunderstanding by some residents, who are of the impression that only letters will be delivered under the new system.

Mr. Peters said registered mail, ordinary parcels, COD parcels, all types of mail will be delivered to the home by the letter carriers and by mail trucks which will transport all parcels weighing over two pounds. Registered mail will be signed for at the door by the addressee.

MUST HAVE NAMES

The postmaster emphasized that the post office must have the name and street address of each resident 16 years of age and over, and added that the cards which were sent out to obtain this information have been returned steadily, with about 2,500 now in the hands of his department. He stated that anyone 16 years or over who hasn't received such a card should pick one up at the wicket.

Such places as trailer courts and groups of homes located off the route designated for the carrier, which will not be easily accessible in winter, will receive their mail through group mail boxes. These are metal boxes about five feet high, each with ten compartments. One compartment will be assigned without cost to each household being served.

Each householder will provide a lock and key for his compartment.

Lock rental boxes now in effect will be drastically reduced when the service is commenced and those that do retain them will be required to pay much more than the present rental cost per annum.

Mr. Peters said it appears that a large number of householders have had mail delivery facilities installed, but again stressed that 80 per cent of homes must be provided with slots or boxes before the service will be started.

Red Cross Drive Total Matching Last Year's

This year's returns to date in the Red Cross campaign are just about equal to those received at the same time last year according to a statement released last night by W. R. Jenkins, provincial chairman and total $5,156.30 of the $30.000 quota set for the province.

Included in this amount are the returns made by 24 out of the 27 convassers in the special names division of the Charlottetown campaign organization headed by co-chairman. Fulton Pierce and Cyril Flinn whose objective is $5,500 of the $11,000 quota for Charlottetown.

Very few returns have as yet been received from the 150 canvassers who comprise the general canvass for Charlottetown which got underway early this week under the general chairmanship of H.H. Bartlett, and headed by the following division commanders, Lt.-Col. Keith Johnstone, Wilfred Driscoll, Claude Whitenect, Gordon Roper, Norman Stewart and E.C. Taylor. This section of the campaign has not as yet progressed sufficiently for any winners to be declared in the "hat" competition but campaign officials hope to be able to make the awards by this time next week.

Canvassers are also at work in Summerside under the chairmanship of Alexander W. Campbell who is being assisted by Daniel R. Morrison and a ladies committee headed by Mrs. Wendell Muttart.

Mr. Jenkins also stated last night that collectors are at work in about 70 per cent of the 467 districts to be covered throughout the province and that every effort is being made to secure canvassers for every district.

Copters Are Used To Service Lights

In order to ascertain that light stations in the Gulf of St. Lawrence and Atlantic coast areas will be in top notch condition for the opening of the 1962 navigation season, E.K. McNutt, district marine agent, department of transport, Charlottetown, said yesterday that the department is continuing an operation which started in this area about two years ago.

In this operation, the marine department, using helicopters from the D.O.T. air services division at Moncton, N.B., to transport mechanics to the various isolated light stations, for the purpose of inspection and servicing.

Mr. McNutt pointed out that many of the light stations are a considerable distance from open highways and railroads besides being completely cut of from water approach due to ice.

This year the operations have been expanded, he said, in that some of the installation work, which is normally delayed until the spring breakup, is being done now. In these instances, light supplies and equipment are moved to the location by the helicopter.

PLANES HIT GUERRILLAS

SAIGON (Reuters) — South Vietnamese air force bombers and fighters Thursday strafed and bombed 200 Communist guerrillas north of Saigon, killing or wounding about 50, reliable sources said. The guerrillas had ambushed a government column, killing its commander and about 30 of his troops.

Farmers Week To See Several Meetings Held

Some years ago when more effort was required on the part of farm people to get to Charlottetown, Farmers's Week extended for a longer period. The meetings started earlier in the week lasted longer and made up a greater variety. More recently with delegates being able to attend an afternoon or evening meeting and return home, there is less evidence of the effort justifying the term "farmer's parliament."

The horse breeders and the potato growers no longer come together, the egg and poultry association is now a memory, and the swine breeders meet at a different time. However, all this doesn't mean that the meetings to be held next week are not important. The Dairymen's Association is increasing its activities year by year and interest runs at a level comparable to the highest at any time during the past 63 years.

A new feature is being added to the dairymen's meeting with the Fluid Milk Association newly formed last September holding its semi-annual meeting on Wednesday afternoon at the YMCA. The usual banquet will be held at the Charlottetown Hotel, and will feature as the guest speaker the newly appointed secretary manager of the Dairy Farmers of Canada, John T. Monkhouse. Mr. Monkhouse's experience ranges over the field of practical agriculture, management of a large dairy and poultry co-operative in Manitoba, and as the vice-president of the Dairy Farmers of Canada. The program includes entertainment by three young ladies and the presentation of prizes for excellences in dairy work.

On Thursday the sheep breeders meet at 10.30 a.m. in Birch Court and the Central Farmers Institute meet at the same location in the afternoon. That evening the action shifts to Montgomery Hall when the Federation of Agriculture sponsors a public meeting for the purpose of directing attention to the marketing of farm products.

The main speakers will be the directors of marketing from the provinces of Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island - James MacNeil and Reid Sangster.

In addition, a panel discussion will be presented featuring potato, fruit, poultry and eggs, and beef marketing. The main purpose of this meeting is to establish what level of interest there is on the part of producers in marketing matters. Following the more formal part of the meeting an opportunity will be provided for questions from and discussions on the part of the audience.

On Jan. 16, the minister of agriculture announced in Ottawa that for the first time in more than a decade, grain delivery quotas had been lifted in many parts of the prairies and that producers were free to market as much grain as they wished. This relaxation of quotas became effective in some 500 delivery points, 149 of these in Saskatchewan, 238 in Manitoba, 102 in Alberta, five in British Columbia and two in Ontario. This open quota policy now applies to some 25 per cent of all grain delivery points in the country, with the remaining locations still on quotas ranging from three to seven bushels per acre. This is the first time since the 1950-51 crop year that these farmers have been able to market unrestricted quantities of their grain, and it is primarily the result of substantial export sales during the last year.

Deliveries on these open quota points are still restricted to producers who hold permit books for those areas, and must be recorded in the 1961-62 permit books.

FAMILY FARM

While speaking before the annual convention of the American Farm Bureau Federation in Chicago in December, U.S. Secretary of Agriculture, Orville Freeman made some comments on the "Family Farm." A digest of these remarks follows:

"It seems that it is very hard to define a family farm. It cannot be defined either in terms of acres or investment. The reason for this is obvious, because mechanization-the technological revolution in agriculture - has constantly increased the size of the efficient farm unit that can be operated by one family. And because conditions vary so widely among different crops, size is not a criterion for the family farm.

"To me the family farm is a unit of agriculture production characterized by the fact that the owner or operator who manages the farm is the farmer himself, and the farmer himself has the incentive to do a good job because he will be rewarded accordingly. Of course he may hire some labour. But the family farm is distinct from the huge corporate farm operating entirely by hired labour. It is different from a state - owned collective farm. Its distinguishing feature is the incentive and enterprise that comes with individual ownership.

"Our family farm economy has developed the world's most productive agriculture, in part because the farmer himself stands to gain by better seed and fertilizer, by better farming practices; in part because his incentive makes it unnecessary for a foreman to check on his hours of work.

"The family farm also represents the best social and cultural values of rural life. It is the only bulwark supporting our towns and villages. It remains one of the greatest strongholds of individual enterprise in our nation. I do not regard these features as of sentimental value only. They are a part of the American way of life.

"Furthermore, I am convinced that, while mechanization has changed the size and nature of operations of the family farm, its basic concept remains the same. The family farm economy has proved its superiority by developing the world's most efficient and productive agriculture. I believe that-on a basis of cold economics-it can compete with any other system, provided we develop the tools necessary to insure the opportunity for the family farmer to earn a fair reward."

FEDERATION BRIEF

The first appearance of the federation brief was, of course, before the members of the legislature. It is, however, to receive a second examination when the agriculture committee of the house proposes to discuss it with the federation executive and others. It can be assumed that at this stage some specific thought will be given to the manner in which the recommendations may be applied in a practical manner.

The agriculture committee of the house has the responsibility of reporting on the state of agriculture to the legislature. It would not be at all surprising if such a report were influenced to a considerable extent by what the farm people recommend through the federation brief.

Deadline Extended

Opening of tenders by the department of highways for the construction of steel protective plates for the piers of the Hillsboro Bridge have been extended to noon, Friday, March 23.

It had been advertised by the department that tenders were to be opened at noon yesterday.

P.E.I. Sealers May Move

Seal hunter Glen Matthews of Alberton said yesterday he is strongly considering moving his operations to the Magdalen Islands.

He blamed the lack of co-operation on the part of the provincial government for the move. He said he applied for a special permit to take a truckload of seals across weight-restricted highways and was refused by the government.

It is useless, he said, to continue to land pelts if he cannot get them to Halifax by truck. He said it would be more economical and profitable to move to the Magdalens and sell the pelts directly to the processing plant there.

He has already delivered two truckloads of pelts to Halifax and has another ready to go. The seals were landed at Rustico by P.E.I. hunters.

Island Native Dies In Quincy

Duncan W. MacLennan, aged 82, a retired carpenter and native of Hartsville, P.E.I., died in Quincy, Mass., on March 10.

He leaves a widow, the former Florie MacPherson, native of North Wiltshire; a sister, Mrs. John D. Nicholson of Belfast, and two brothers Donald K. of Quincy and Alexander of New Haven, Conn.

Following funeral services conducted by the Rev. Walter J. alston, minister of the United Presbyterian Church, the remains were sent to Hartsville for burial.
