

MOVIE TOWARDS FREEDOM
 BERLIN (AP) — Communist East Germany announced Wednesday that it will no longer impose political indoctrination on youths who are learning a trade. West-ern observers view the move as another effort to pacify the East German population, grown more restive since the anti-Soviet upheavals in Poland and Hungary.

Don't irritate child's intestines with "too-strong laxatives"
 Science at last has developed Children's Own Tablets for your child's protection — No cramps! No gripes! No bad taste!
 Stop using harsh laxatives that may irritate the tender walls of your child's intestines, causing cramping, gripes, or weak, uncomfortable feelings. Large, harsh, adult-size laxatives are often too strong for children. They work, but they irritate the delicate membranes in the intestines. Medical science has at last developed Children's Own Tablets — clinically-tested for children's needs — just strong enough... not harsh... in tablet form, pleasant-tasting, easy to take! Relieves upset tummies, too. So try Children's Own Tablets today — made by the makers of Baby's Own Tablets. See if they are not the answer to your child's laxative problems.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:
 One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, K for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Study Effect Of B-1 On Activity
 CHICAGO (AP) — Evidence that massive doses of vitamin B-1 will "supercharge" athletes with energy was reported by a doctor today.
 Dr. A. Lee Lichtman of Manhattan's Polyclinic Hospital, New York, also said that modern medical techniques can supply some protection against black eyes and body bruises and speed healing when they do occur.
 He based his views on his experiments with athletes who appear in Madison Square Garden. He told members of the Illinois Academy of General Practice that bruises and black eyes can be reduced in severity if the athlete is conditioned in advance with vitamin B-1.
 He gives athletes hesperidin, the meaty substance found in citrus fruits — and ascorbic acid (vitamin C).
 Dr. Lichtman said better supply of oxygen to the muscles, either by breathing oxygen-enriched air or by better utilization of oxygen in ordinary air, is the key factor in bringing about better performance over sustained periods.
 Preliminary experiments with vitamin B-1 appears to act on the oxygen-carrying hemoglobin in the blood, had provided "hopeful results" of achieving a goal similar to inhalations of oxygen-enriched air.

Bobby Coon Worried
 Worry never is of use. But for it some find excuse.
 —Old Mother Nature.
 Bobby Coon sat at the entrance to his little cave among the rocks of the ledge where he had sought safety from hunters the night before. He had slept most of the day, but all the time that he was awake he worried. He had worried about what he should do. If he went back to the Green Forest he was sure that sooner or later those hunters would return and he would have to run for his life. If he lived for a while over here in this rocky ledge he would have to be constantly on watch for Yowler the Bobcat, who also lived there. So Bobby worried. And, of course, it was about himself.
 Bobby had seen Yowler start out hunting. He knew Yowler had left the ledge and gone over to the Green Forest. This would be the safest time for him to go out himself to look for dinner. He was getting hungry. It was long since his last dinner.
 He worried about what he should do.
 He was just about to come out of his den when he heard a sound over the Green Forest that made him stop. It was the voice of a dog barking. Bobby knew that voice. It was the voice of the very dog that had chased him up on that ledge. It meant just one thing: that those hunters were back in the Green Forest. He didn't dare go over there now. He squeezed his way up through the small doorway and stood in front of it to listen.
 At first there was only a bark now and then. Bobby knew exactly what that meant. The dog had found just a little scent of some one, but not enough to follow it yet.
 "That Dog is over where Mrs. Bobby often does a lot of hunting. I hope it isn't her scent he has found," thought Bobby. It was still. Not a single little Night Breeze was moving. There was no sound whatever from over in the Green Forest. The stillness was broken by the hunting call of Hooley the Owl. Once more the Dog barked.
