City Paving Crews Are Busy

Night crews working for the City Street Department worked all through Tuesday night in order to complete the work done on Grafton Street with as little inconvenience to the public as possible. The street from Queen down to the Prince Edward Theatre was torn up, and an entirely new stretch of foundation and asphalt topping laid. Last night the crew again worked on Kent in front of the Old Spain Restaurant laying a new stretch. Pownal near the Charlottetown Hotel was also torn up and replaced earlier this week. It is expected that general patching of city streets will be completed within a week, and the Department has many other jobs lined up. Among these are paving of the parking areas between the street and sidewalk on Great George and on Queen Street, concrete sidewalks to be laid in many parts of the city, and seeding to be done in the west end of Victoria Park.

Mother Perishes In Rescue Attempt

GUILFORD, Me., May 24 (AP)—A young mother perished today with three children—two of her own—she tried valiantly to save from their flaming farmhouse. Neighbors saved two other children from a downstairs kitchen of the two-story dwelling. Another child ran to safety. None of the three was injured. The dead were: Mrs. Lillian Sprague, 25; her daughter, Sandra, 3; her son, David, 4; and a niece, Carol Ann, 3, whose last name was not available.

A fire broke out shortly after George Sprague departed for work. Elmer Huff and Lawrence Priest, neighbors, saved Robert Sprague, 2, and Thomas I. George, Jr., 5, raced from the farmhouse. "Mummy ran upstairs and didn't come down," George told Huff.

Warm, sunny weather prevailed throughout most of Canada. It was the first really summer-like day in the Maritimes, with a high of 82 degrees at Blissville, near Saint John, N. B. Halifax, near the baseball season opened before good crowds. At Quebec, although Provincial Government employees and provincial courts were on the job, the Federal and city offices and banks were all closed. French-speaking schools remained open and held celebrations for Dollard Des Ormeaux — the patriotic figure who is said to have saved Montreal in a last-ditch stand against the Trojans in the battle of the Long Sault.

The holiday was only partially observed in Montreal where some department stores remained open and the city courts did business as usual. Large crowds were at Blue Bonnets for the horseracing and at the International baseball game between Montreal and Buffalo. At Toronto, large crowds turned out at the Ontario Jockey Club's race meeting at Woodbine, at an International Baseball League double-header in which Toronto Leafs lost two to Rochester, and an international soccer match in which the English Inter-Nationals defeated Ontario All-Stars 4-1.

At Ottawa, members of Parliament and the Railway Commission remained on the job, civil servants took a holiday and stores were closed. Boating and fishing were enjoyed by hundreds of city-dwellers who spent the day in the country.

In the Manitoba flood districts, celebrations naturally were quiet.

EARL WAVELL

"Archie" behind his back. He also believed that bold stratagems and gambles were the mark of the successful general.

Gained Sudden Fame With these as his precepts, he gained sudden fame with his amazing counter-offensive in 1940-41 which drove Italian troops 500 miles across the barren desert in 60 days. Starting from 130 miles inside Egypt, the drive was not halted until it had wrested most of Cirenaica from the Italians and taken 140,000 Italian prisoners.

Many Italians surrendered because they believed Lord Wavell's forces were overwhelming. Hungry, tired, and demoralized, they were taken by surprise by the real guns, and the explosions of firecrackers fooled the enemy, calling for many changes of emotion. Miss Wavell captivated the audience completely with her capable handling of the part.

Miss Moran complimented the director, Mr. Arthur Vesey on his production of the play and A. H. Brown on the sound effects. Two minor roles taken by Joan Vevey, (Mrs. Perkins) and Jackie Andrews (Rudolf Von Hapsburg), also received praise from the adjudicator for characterizations and make-up.

Plan Study Of Fish Movements

OTTAWA, May 22 (CP)—Where do the Atlantic's schools of fish go in their wanderings? Canada is one of a number of countries that have agreed to try to find out, according to a notice given on the Commons order paper today. Parliament will shortly be asked to ratify the document that will launch or speed that and other studies about undersea life.

The document is the International Convention for the Northwest Atlantic Fisheries which was signed in Washington in February 1949.

A fisheries official said Canada already is making some of the statistical and other studies envisaged by the convention but this will speed them. One was the search for more knowledge about the wanderings of fish.

Red Invasion Of Formosa Delayed

TAIPEI, May 23 (AP)—Nationalist Chinese say the Communist schedule for the invasion of Formosa has been disrupted by the bloodless withdrawal from the Chusan Islands. Apparently the Communists did not figure on Nationalist abandonment of the Islands, 100 miles southeast of Shanghai. The move saved 150,000 troops who have been moved to Formosa. Because of this increased strength here, Nationalists say the Communists must revise their invasion plans.

Clinton Entry In Drama Festival

Carmen Woodside was awarded first place for male actor in the Clinton production of "Sauce for the Goats" at Clinton on Monday evening, May 22nd.

One of the junior entries in the Provincial Drama Festival, "Sauce for the Goats" was the only play to be adjudicated by Miss Mary Moran.

In her comments, Miss Moran complimented the community very highly on their excellent hall, which she stated was ideal for this type of entertainment. The stage is excellent, and the dressing room facilities are even better than many seen in halls in the cities.

Cast of the play was as follows: "Richard Taylor", Robert Haney; "Margaret Taylor", Shirley Woodside; "Robert Taylor", Roger MacKay; "Elizabeth Taylor", Gloria Haney; "Martha Lee", Louise Woodside; "James Ward", Carmel Woodside; "The Maid", Geraldine Woodside. Director, Miss Patricia McNeill.

Queen's County drama groups are eagerly awaiting the announcement tomorrow of the plays eligible to compete in the Finals to be held the first three days of next week. Each adjudicator has marked on the point system, and the two highest for each County will be selected to compete.

Had Colourful Career As C.N.R. Telegrapher

HALIFAX, May 24 — A lifetime occupation for Miss Mary Robinson, telegraph operator with the Canadian National Railways at Halifax started from a youngster's curiosity in her grandfather's office at Mount Unlace, earned her a dollar-a-day at sixteen and took her from Atlantic to Pacific is included in her widespread and colorful career that has taken her through the pioneering days of telegraph communication since the turn of the century.

Her greatest thrill came in 1939 during the visit of Her Majesties, King George VI and Queen Elizabeth, to Halifax on the Royal Tour of Canada and the United States and she was assigned to handle the telegrams here. It was in that same year that she first settled down at Halifax, and didn't move about from place to place. Before that, however, she had worked at numerous Canadian National Telegraph offices in the Maritimes including offices at Digby, Sydney, North Sydney, Charlottetown, Moncton, Saint John and Edmundston. In five summers, moving from one job to another from Atlantic to Pacific, she travelled more than 30,000 miles.

While Miss Robinson was born in North Sydney, she moved to Mount Unlace when she was ten with her mother upon the death of her father. There her grandfather, Richard McLean, agent, conceived the idea and built the first private telegraph line in Canada from Mount Unlace Station to the gold mines about four miles distant. One of the sons who helped construct the line is M. M. McNeil, retired C.N.R. chief dispatcher at Moncton. Before it was built communication with the mines was by foot or by horse-drawn cart. Messages were sent for ten cents over the new telegraph line. The last for gold was no less than that of today. Miss Robinson worked at the mine for some time. She was "filled with gold" from the grandfather, who himself learned telegraphy on a wooden key which he made while he was assistant agent at Mount Unlace to prepare himself for the agent's job, have sprung men and women who have had great success. One of them is a great success and a brother of Miss Robinson, W. E. Robinson, vice-president and general manager of the Atlantic Region, Canadian National Railways, Moncton. He was born at North Sydney and began his career as an agent-operator at Ingramport, N.S. and served at Bridgewater and Port Wade before moving to Moncton and advancing to his present high post.

Miss Sadie McLean, now 83, Miss Robinson's aunt, still resides at Mount Unlace. It was she who sent the first message over the line from there to the gold mines back in 1881 as a young girl of fourteen.

Allied defeats in that theatre caused him to be returned to India, and in 1943 he was named Viceroy, with the task of keeping India politically solid for the Allies.

Joined Army At 18 Lord Wavell soldiered in far away places from the time he was 18, joining the famous Scottish Black Watch regiment in 1901.

He was a veteran of skirmishing with tribesmen on India's northwest frontier in 1908. In the early years of the First World War, he was a liaison officer with the Russian army in the Caucasus. He lost his eye, however, in fighting on the Western Front, in the battle of Ypres.

He learned many of the tricks of desert fighting when he joined Field Marshal Viscount Allenby in Egypt in 1917.

He was promoted to Field Marshal in 1943 and his elevation to the Earlom came with his recall from India in 1947.

He was born of a family of clerics and soldiers at Colchester in Essex. His father and grandfather were major-generals. He attended Winchester College in Hampshire and the Royal Military College at Sandhurst.

In 1916 he married Eugenie Quirk, daughter of a colonel, who bore him three daughters and a son.

Ingrid Bergman Weds Rossellini

ROME, May 24 (Reuters)—Ingrid Bergman, Swedish film star, and film director Roberto Rossellini were married today by proxy in Juarez, Mexico.

Renzo Ossello Rossellini, the Italian director's brother, said the marriage was carried out with all legal formalities, and that the documents attesting the marriage are on their way to Rome.

Miss Bergman, who recently bore a child admittedly fathered by the director, recently received a Mexican divorce from her husband, Dr. Peter Lindstrom, Hollywood action. Lindstrom has been taking action in California courts concerning custody of the couple's 11-year-old daughter and their community property.

Safety Parade Held In City

A grim reaper parade portraying the reckless driver and his toll was viewed by many in the city shortly after noon on Tuesday as the Charlottetown Junior Chamber of Commerce struck another note in their extensive program designed for the Island and Highway and Traffic Safety Week.

The half-hour parade through Later the became agent at Mount Unlace succeeding her father and to her a great deal of the credit goes for instilling the interest and teaching the nieces and nephews telegraphy. Miss Robinson says her aunt often speaks of the happy old days when her dad took her to the Halifax Exhibition on railway flat cars with railings set up and to picnics at Birch Cove.
