PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND MAKES PEOPLE WELL.

Thankful People Everywhere Gladly Endorse the Great Medicine.

It is a Blessing to the Whole Canadian Dominion.

Physicians Acknowledge its Great Curing Virtues.

It Makes Strong Nerves and Pure Blood.

IT CURES DISEASE AND LONG-STANDING TROUBLES.

An Ontario Man Strongly Testifies.

"I am a living witness to the worth of Paine's Celery Compound."

This is the statement of Mr. G. J. Smye of Sheffield, Ont.

It makes people well!

This fact is so widely known and so fully borne out by thousands of magnificent cures, that the simple statement is in itself sufficient.

The whole Dominion has been blessed by the marvellous work of the great medicine, and an army of rescued and saved men and women bless the noble discoverer, Prof. Edward E. Phelps, M. D., LL. D.

Master minds amongst the medical men of the present day readily acknowledge the potent and curing virtues of Paine's Celery Compound. They find that it makes strong nerves and pure blood, two essentials necessary for perfect health and strength.

Long-standing troubles and diseases are cured by Paine's Celery Compound when all other medical agencies fail in their work. For kidney and liver troubles it is the infallible remedy. Nervous debility, exhaustion, sleeplessness and headaches are quickly swept away by the curing powers of Paine's Celery Compound.

This is the season when the sick must, of necessity, recuperate lost strength, and gain the healthfulness so necessary to make life pleasurable for the summer. All should bear in mind the fact that Paine's Celery Compound "makes people well."

The following letter from Mr. G. J. Smye, of Sheffield, Ont., speaks of a wondrous cure after all ordinary means had failed to do the work:—

"It is with great pleasure that I testify to the value of your great medicine, Paine's Celery Compound. For nearly two years I suffered from indigestion, kidney and liver troubles. After trying several medicines that did not effect a cure, I decided to try your Compound. Before using it I was so low in health that I could not eat or sleep. I could not lie in bed owing to pain in my back; it was only by resting on elbows and knees I was enabled to obtain a slight degree of ease. Before I had fully taken one bottle of your medicine I began to improve. I have in all taken fourteen bottles with grand results. I am a farmer and am now working every day. Anyone may refer to me in regard to those statements, or to any of my neighbors around Sheffield, where I am well known. I am a living witness to the worth of Paine's Celery Compound."

BRAINS ON THE FARM.

A LAWYER'S UNIQUE EXPERIENCE AND HIS NAIVE CONFESSION.

Some Fundamental Truths Spoken by the Governor of One of the Southern States—His Remarks, However, Are Apropos The World Over.

Governor Northern has a very sensible article in the Southern Cultivator on the subject of brains on the farm. Governor Northern tells us of an eminent lawyer who, as the result of experience on the farm, arrived at the conclusion that it took more brains to manage his farm than to manage his law office, for he succeeded best in law. This, our distinguished writer concludes, was rather a matter of aptitude than a matter of brains. After some discussion of the question he says:

"It is a great mistake to adopt the generally received opinion that any man can successfully farm if he will only stick at it and put into it plenty of elbow grease and personal sweat. I do not believe this to be any nearer the truth than that any man of ordinary intelligence can practice physic carefully simply because he stays steadily beside the bedside of his patient and industriously administers medicine at every apparent change of symptom.

"Just so long as we believe and practice the belief that any stupid dolt that never had an original idea in his life and has given evidence of no higher capacity than to hold a plow and beat and starve a mule, will make a good enough farmer to till our lands and make our material wealth, just so long will we invite ruin to our agriculture and desolation for the best interest of our sections. We must away with such suicidal practices and put more brains on our farms. Let muscle do the work, but intelligence direct the management and the methods."

Governor Northern brings out a great fundamental truth in the following sentence:

"In the soil God has given an inheritance not exclusively to the generation that now butchers it on our farms, but to generation after generation to follow, and we have no more right to turn loose upon it such savage slaughter than allow hordes of quack doctors to become unrestrained vendors of poisons to the destruction of human life."

There are few more pitiable industrial spectacles than that of a farmer reducing the fertility and character of his farm. It is a standing advertisement of his mental incapacity and sluggishness and his entire failure to seize upon the grand fact of a very plain fundamental obligation of life. One who is satisfied to leave the world poorer than he found it has not the ring of true manhood in him. The whole class of soil robbers and farm dispollers are not only, as Prof. Robertson concludes, traitors to their country, but they are more—they are traitors to nature and to their God. We want a race of men and women on the farm far above the low ideal of agriculture that governs many farmers.

Physical Culture.

In walking the heel should not be brought down too firmly. A part of the weight of the body belongs upon the toes, and when a due proportion is thrown there it gives an elasticity to the gait which is lost when it is not properly distributed. Walking with the heels raised from the ground is a good exercise although a fatiguing one. Hopping on each foot alternately is another. Dancing is a valuable accomplishment for children. The consciousness of being able to dance well gives ease and self possession to many a young man and woman who were otherwise bashful and awkward on their first entrance into society. The little people usually delight in the rhythmical motion, and if it is not combined with late hours it does them nothing but good, says a writer in the Ladies' Home Journal, who adds:

All outdoor games that involve running and active movement of any kind are useful adjuncts in physical development. An immense amount of exercise is taken under the guise of diversion. Battledoor and shuttlecock, which was long a favorite amusement, is a capital indoor game where there is room to play it and might be revived with advantage. Bean bags, colored bags filled with beans and aimed at a ring or other mark, and the form of quoits played on shipboard with rings of rope may be utilized to furnish exercise on rainy days. Especial attention should be paid to ventilation when the children are exercising indoors. The respiration is quickened, the lungs demand more air, and there should be a plentiful supply of oxygen to meet it.

Uses of Beef.

In an interview a large foreign shipper of dressed beef makes a statement which is not entirely in accordance with the facts. This meat exporter, who sends weekly to England thousands of carcasses, explains the fact that the choice cuts of beef may be purchased abroad at a lower price than with us by saying that here every one demands the choice portions, and consequently three-fourths of the animal must be sold at actual cost or even below it. All the butcher's profit must therefore come from the remaining one fourth. In England, on the other hand, every part of the beef is in demand and sells at a good price, which enables the choice cuts to be disposed of at a lower price than with us. His explanation of this is that the English understand far better than we do how to cook in a tempting way even the rough meat. While this explanation would twenty years ago have been plausible, it is not so at the present time. The demand in this country for every part of a dressed beef is as great as in any other nation. This has come about through the large accession to our population of people of the Latin race, who have a thorough knowledge of how to utilize even the most indifferent portions of a slaughtered animal. The reason why foreigners are able to purchase our beef at a less price than ourselves is that they do not have to contribute to the profits of jobbers or middlemen. While the prices of all other commodities have fallen largely, that of meat remains at a maximum figure.

Some Schoolboy Answers.

Here are some schoolboy answers to examination questions: "A point," wrote one boy, "is that which will not appear any bigger, even if you get a magnifying glass." "Two straight lines cannot inclose a space unless they are crooked," said another who may have had Irish blood in his veins. "Parallel straight lines are those which meet at the far end of infinity," is equal to some poetry. "Things which are impossible are equal to one another," is common sense, even though it is not exactly mathematical.—Living Church.

"We Thought He Could Not Live."

POOR INFANT DIET NEARLY ROBBED A MOTHER'S HEART OF ITS TREASURE.

A lady whose little one was saved by the use of Lactated Food, says:—

"When quite small baby began to fail, and we had to give him the bottle. We thought for some time he could not live. Our doctor recommended us to use Lactated Food, and baby began to improve immediately. We continued giving it until he was a year old, when he was a fat, healthy boy. I keep one of the boxes for him to see, when he grows to the age of understanding, what saved his life. I can never say enough in praise of Lactated Food."

Try Lactated Food, dear mother, at this season, if your baby is weak, sickly, cross and peevish; it will work wonders for the little one.

EMILE ZOLA.

The Prince of Realistic Fiction.

Thus looks the master of realism. This is the man who has produced more work, excited more comment, probed more moral anatomies, than any living author. Needing a strengthening stimulant, Zola drinks "Vin Mariani," of which he says that "it is the elixir of life, combating human debility, and giving vigor, health and energy." This is high praise, but it is consonant with what has been said about this great tonic-stimulant, by all the celebrities of the day. "Vin Mariani" is the great nourisher. It strengthens the enfeebled constitution, makes the convalescent strong and well; is very palatable, never produces constipation, but rather aids digestion and assimilation. If you send your name to Lawrence A. Wilson & Co., Montreal, you will receive a little album of portraits of celebrated people, and you will thus learn something, not merely of the celebrated coca stimulant, but of the great people who drink it.

ANOTHER GLACIAL PERIOD.

Geologists Think the World May Be Frozen Up Again.

The question is again being discussed whether recent and long continued observations do not point to the event of a second glacial period, when the countries now basking in the fostering warmth of a tropical sun will ultimately give way to the perennial frost and snow of the polar regions. The researches of geologists have proved the existence of Greenland and other arctic lands of fossil palms and the tropical plants, which shows that these regions were once covered with a rich vegetation, which only equatorial climes can now produce.

Then came the great age, which buried this vegetation beneath the mantle of cold which still prevails at the polar extremities of the earth. Is this kingdom of ice and snow again extending its sway toward the equator? From the arctic circles we have no data which supply an answer to the question, but it is asserted that the climate of Norway, Sweden and Iceland is annually becoming more severe. Great masses of ice are frequently observed by navigators in far more southerly position during the summer months in the Atlantic than was the case a few years ago, and the effect of these icebergs was to materially reduce the temperature of Scandinavia and Iceland. The latter island in late years has been suffering so severely that corn no longer ripens there, and the inhabitants, in fear of approaching famine and a still colder climate, are emigrating to North America.

The influence of the gulf stream on the climate of Norway, which has not been less marked than its effects on the coast of Ireland and Scotland, is being effaced by the intensity of the cold brought by the masses of ice which it is for the gulf stream to carry toward the eastern side of the north Atlantic. This extraordinary cold appears, however, to be rather a periodical occurrence than of gradually and annually increasing in intensity, and the existence of larger quantities of ice than usual in the Atlantic rather points to warmer weather in the polar regions than to an unusually intensely and extension of the region of the polar cold. The annals of history show that from time to time since the advent of man into the world remarkable rigid winters and torrid summers have upset the calculations of learned geologists and ruffled the equanimity of the inhabitants of the temperate zones. Several times the frost king has been known to come down from the heights of Europe and seal the water of the Adriatic. In 860 and 1234 the ice formed a secure bridge from Venice to the opposite Dalmatian coast, and in 1709 the Adriatic was completely covered with ice. All the rivers in France were frozen in the years 1305 and 1364, the ice on the river Rhone being in some places 15 feet thick. The winter of 1788-9 was rigorous throughout Europe. The Atlantic froze along its coast to a distance of several leagues, and vessels were unable to approach within some miles of Ostend, in Belgium, a port that ordinarily is open throughout the year. The winter of 1812-13 is memorable for its extreme degree of cold. Snow fell in England in every month of the year in 1816, and the weather was so uniformly chilly that scanty crops of every sort were harvested. On the 15th of May, 1824, snow fell to the depth of a foot.

In the winter of 1851-2 the Susquehanna river at Havre be Grace, Md., was frozen so hard that trains of the Philadelphia, Wilmington and Baltimore railroad ran over it. The large ferryboat which carried the cars across the river failed to keep the channel open, and there being no bridge at that time the track for the railroad cars was laid on the ice precisely as it was on land, with sleepers crossties and iron rails, and the cars were run across.—New York Times.

Oats and Scotland.

When Dr. Johnston had defined oats as a "grain which in England is generally given to horses, but in Scotland supports the people," Lord Elibank triumphantly retorted, "But where will you find such horses and such men?" We may admire the patriotism but we must regret the loyal mendacity of his lordship, for he must have known how dirty, slow and slovenly his rural countrymen were.

The food of the people was poor, for they had nothing to cook except oat and barley meal and greens from their yard, for no other vegetables were known, and beef or mutton they seldom saw, and pigs flesh they would not eat if they had it. Their drink was fermented whey, kept for a year in barrels, or ale made from oats and heather. Milk they rarely had, for the meagre cows provided only two or three pints a day, and that was kept sour from being in foul dishes.

So averse were the people to cleanliness that the butter owed its consistency to the number of cows' hairs in it and was churned in kirns, which were kept filthy because it was "uncanny" to wash them. The men clad in their rugged, home woven plaiding coat, with shirts changed twice a year—at Martinmas and Whit Sunday—and feet without shoes, save on Sabbath and in winter snow, were miserably dirty, and their skin hard and withered from exposure outside and the peat reek indoors and subject to the obnoxious diseases that dirt alone engenders.—Scottish Review.

A Writer's Trials.

"The man who writes," remarked a young fellow who has done a good deal of work for newspapers and periodicals, "has grief the great world wots not of."

"For instance?" inquired his listener.

"In respect to several things," he went on wearily. "If I happen to write a verse in an album for some of my autograph friends, the first thing they ask is 'Is that original?' when at the very time they can read their own names on it or a description of themselves. Then again if I send anything to anybody—it doesn't make any difference what it is—that person gets the idea somehow that I wrote it, and the first question is, "Did you write it?" Sometimes I send my own things, and then the question is not so inappropriate, but when I send something by some great writer, and the same old question comes to me, I want to rise up and hit somebody over the head. By jove," he concluded, striding up and down the room, "do you know that last week I gave a handsomely printed copy of 'Beautiful Snow' to an acquaintance, and as sure as you are alive she looked over it a moment and exclaimed: 'Oh, isn't it charming? Did you write it?' Now what do you think of that sort of thing?" and the rising genius kicked an ottoman quite over the goal.—Detroit Free Press.

An Apt Comparison.

The man who boasts that he works with his head instead of his hands is respectfully reminded that the woodpecker does the same and is the biggest kind of a bore at that.—Waterloo Courier.

"For a number of years I have been troubled with a general tired feeling, shortness of breath, pain in the back, and constipation. I could get only little rest at night on account of the pain and had no appetite whatever. I was that tired in my limbs that I gave out before half the day was gone. I tried a great number of medicines but did not get any permanent relief from any Dairymen, Attention!

Of the Cheese and Butter Factories in operation in 1894, we furnished, to the satisfaction of all concerned, the necessary apparatus for the following:—Winsloe, Hampton, Tryon, Crapaud, Grand River, Dunk River, Mount Stewart, and Vernon River Bridge.

In the summer of 1894 we made nine Cheese Vats (each holding from 650 to 700 gallons of milk), and two Butter Vats (each averaging 400 gallons of milk); no complaints were made—satisfaction given.

From our large experience in the past we are now better than ever prepared to meet the wants of Dairymen. We guarantee satisfaction, and respectfully solicit the patronage of those who are contemplating the erection of Cheese or Butter Ftories.

Our make of Vats is superior to all others, and our fifteen and twenty gallon Cans are the best and cheapest in the province.

Terms to suit puchasers.
