HARRIED.

In this city, on the 3rd inst., by Rev. S. H. Rice, Mr. William H. Cooper, of Nova Scotia, to Miss Mary E. Blackmore, of Royalty Junction, P. E. Island.

Most people suppose that the manufacture of tobacco consists merely of taking the leaf and pressing it into plugs. The fact is, however, that the process is a very delicate one, and the least false step will injure the flavor. The leaf must be carefully attended to for months after it leaves the planter's hands. It must neither dry too quick nor too slowly. Even after it has reached the factory the utmost delicacy of manipulation is required. The weather must be carefully studied, for if there is too much moisture in the air when it is pressed it will mould, and the same will happen if too much moisture is sprinkled upon it for the purpose of opening the leaf. Again, if it is overried in the oven it will turn crisp, and will nip the tongue in smoking. It is by careful attention to all these points that the "Myrtle Navy" has been brought to such perfection. The firm who manufacture it have their own storehouse in Virginia, and from the time the leaf leaves the planter's hands until it is turned out of the factory, months afterwards, in plug, it is under the care of their skilled and trusted employes.

Some of the Indians who took part in the outbreak at Saddle Lake and afterwards joined Big Bear have returned. They tell how the troops at Pitt were humbugged in the matter of disarmament. Many of the best weapons were not brought in, but were cached safely in the woods. Of those brought in many were taken to pieces beforehand, and as the pieces shown were of no use they were allowed to keep them. Afterwards the pieces were put together and the guns were as good as new.

A JOLLY but not cultured diner-out lately received an invitation with the letters R. S. V. P. in the corner. "H-m-m," said he to himself, meditatively; "R-S-V-P. I know what C. O. D. means, but I'll be blamed if I know what R. S. V. P. means." "Why," said a friend, "that means Rum Served Very Plentifully." "I'll go," he said decidedly.
