ELLEN'S DIARY

August Days Are Mellow Overlaid With Sunshine

Never do we come to the August days, overlaid with mellow sunshine, with dancing leaves' shadows on the grass, that we do not follow in mind, up to their schools, to the schools we have known, those which generations of a name have come in their turn and time, to learn the rudiments of an education, some of which course are not learned from a contributing factor enters into it, items of knowledge picked up here and there, and often absorbed unwittingly, and from unsuspected sources, along life's days. Now if you were to teach again, what most would you stress? We inquired not long ago of a former schoolmate, an one who had given a goodly share of her year, with much success, to the work. "That's an easy one!" she chuckled. "Good manners! I believe that is one of the first requisites of an education. It not only stands for good in the classroom, but is an undeniable asset when one goes out into the world."

Three weeks on the Island with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sterling MacLeod, Dundas Centre. Mrs. William Chapman and children, Debby and Joseph, city, also Jackie Imough, Toronto, Ont., spent the past few days at Ina at the home of Mrs. Chapman's uncle and aunt Mr. and Mrs. Charles McGuigan and family.

Dennis MacKay, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph MacKay, Bangor, was among the 24 students who returned to the Island recently after a trip to Manitoba with the student exchange. A grade 10 student at Morell Regional High, Dennis led Kings County in the provincial examinations.

Escorted to a seat of honor by Mr. and Mrs. Donald Nicholson, the couple were presented with gifts which were accompanied by an address read by Mrs. Nicholson. Assisting also were Catherine MacLeod, Mrs. Marcel Mayard, Linda MacLeod and Mrs. Roy Gillis.

Music for dancing was furnished by Alex MacDougall and Preston Hume. Refreshments were served.

Mrs. Edward Smith (nee Hilda Garrett) Boston, Mass., is assisting with her brother Russell and Mrs. Garrett, Red Point, and with her sister, Mrs. Harold Hunter and Mr. Hunter, North Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Lannigan and family have returned to their home in Burlington, Ont., after spending holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nick Lannigan, St. Mary's Road.

Montague Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star held a church parade Sunday night, attending in a body the evening service at Holy Trinity Church in Georgetown. C.A. McMillan, the student in charge, conducted the service and preached the sermon. Refreshments were later served in the hall of the United Church in Georgetown.

Miss Walker returned to Toronto on Saturday, accompanied by her sister, Florence, who accepted a teaching position in that province for the coming year.

to greet him smilingly on his return. When Peter becomes a schoolboy, it will leave the houses at Alderlea and the surroundings, quite forlorn for a while. "But you must!" we overheard him say to his sister when they spoke recently of the holidays. "Run out. Before you and Mack and Alex go off to your schools, we just have to go up to September Island and the spring!" A cow lows through the dark from the rise across the stream. It is a contented sound, we think, one which declares it is good to be back from the continuing days of the Fair, come to the open fields again. "Do you find that Fairs are an actual holiday for an exhibitor of livestock?" we inquired today of the younger farmer, Mack's father. "I wouldn't say so," he replied. "But," he smiled, "there is something about them—the challenge, perhaps it is, or more likely it is the education one gains from being a competitor, that is fascinating. One wants to learn more."

"That's so," James agreed. "There is something about it that charms." And another summer day smiles now... and goes. Until tomorrow — Diary — Good-night.

MARY HAWORTH
He Took To His Heels To Prevent Breakdown

Dear Mary Haworth: I am 53 and Jack is 55. We had been married 12 years when he deserted me a year ago. I am still shocked, I can't become reconciled, I can't start a new life at my age. I want only our life together as before; but he won't have anything to do with me. He wrote me, after he left, that he didn't want me chasing after him. I don't know his present address or phone number. Evidently he has turned against me completely, which seems so strange for a man of his caliber, a college teacher. For two years before he left, he was under treatment for high blood pressure and I think the doctor influenced him against me. My sister said his letter to her, explaining his side of things, would indicate that he'd been influenced by someone. He also wrote to my brother, giving his version, and spoke of it to others, which embarrassed me greatly. About six months before he left I had spent eight weeks in a hospital, emerging with a total loss of interest in former hobbies, and with a fear of dying. Jack seemed so concerned for me then. Later he remarked several times that I didn't "share his interests," to which I paid little heed, as he was always of the go, like a teen-ager, rehearsing in amateur theatricals, etc., and his debts nearly ran me crazy. But he seemed to have changed. He stopped incurring debts, I took over the bill-paying, we didn't fuss and fight. I thought we were just another settled-down couple, with all adjustments made. Later I learned he'd been voicing little complaints to relatives. Will he ever come back to me? What can I do to reach him? I want him back in spite of everything. Otherwise the rest of my life will be as lonely as it was before I married him. Please answer soon. V.C.

'O Perfect Love' Is Sung At Mt. Stewart Wedding

St. John's United Church, Mt. Stewart, was the setting for a summer wedding when Wilma Laura, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence N. Coffin became the bride of Harry Wayne Hamblison of Mr. and Mrs. Willam L. Hambly, 132 North River Rd., Charlottetown. Rev. D. R. McLennan officiated at the double ring ceremony. The church was decorated with baskets of mixed flowers and the guest pews marked with daisies. Organist Roland Jay, uncle of the bride, accompanied Cynthia Jay and Margaret McCannell as they sang "The Wedding Prayer" prior to the ceremony and "O Perfect Love" during the signing of the register.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length empire styled gown of silk-faced lace. Embroidered Alencon lace adorned the high waist. Her gown featured a modified A-line skirt which was highlighted with a floating chapel train. An organza petalled rose held a three tiered scalloped veil of tulle illusion. She carried a bouquet of yellow roses, stephanotis and ivy.

Matron of honor Mrs. Sharlene McLearn of Halifax was in a sheath dress of turquoise polka dot with a semi-overskirt of turquoise organza. Her matching flowered headpiece held a double veil and she carried a nosegay of Shasta daisies.

The bridesmaids were Miriam Jay, Mt. Stewart, cousin of the bride; Suzanne Coffin, Mt. Stewart, sister of the bride; and Kathy Hambly, Charlottetown, sister of the groom. They were gowned in dresses similar to that of the matron of honor and also carried nosegays of Shasta daisies.

The best man was a David Clark, and the ushers were Raymond and Sterling Coffin, brothers of the bride, and William Hambly, brother of the groom. At the reception for 150 guests held at the Charlottetown Hotel, the bride's mother received wearing a beige lace jacket dress with beige accessories and a corsage of yellow sweetheart roses. Mrs. Hambly, chose a pink sheath dress with matching pink accessories. Her corsage was of pink Sweetheart roses.

The bride's table was centered with a three tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature
