The Dead President

LONG BRANCH, Sept. 20.

Dr. Bliss says the moment he entered the sick room last night he saw that the President was dying and immediately sent for Doctors Agnew and Hamilton. The former arrived, but the latter could not be found and was not present when the President passed away. The doctor attributes death to neurgia of the heart, which caused the formation of a blood clot, thereby preventing the proper circulation of the blood. The President's remarks to Colonel Swain, who was with him when he awakened from his sleep, were, "Oh, Swain, what a pain (placing his hand on his heart), can't you do something for me? Oh, Swain." At this time Mrs. Garfield had been out of the room for about fifteen minutes, and had retired for the night. Previous to going into his room, Dr. Bliss says he conferred with Mrs. Garfield on the general condition of the President, and says that she expressed the opinion that her husband was not weary, and that he had awakened feeling comfortable and experiencing little or no pain. It was about ten minutes past ten, said Dr. Bliss, that the President awakened and complained of the pain in his heart.

The following were present when the President breathed his last: Doctors Bliss and Agnew, Mrs. Garfield and her daughter Mollie, Col. Rockwell, O. C. Rockwell, Swain, Dr. Boynton, Private Secretary J. Stanley Brown, Mr. and Miss Rockwell, Executive Secretary Warren Young, H. L. Atchison, John Ricker, S. Lancaster and Daniel Spriggs, attendants, the last named colored.

The Ball Found in the Region of the Heart.

LONG BRANCH, Sept. 20.

The autopsy has been in progress more than an hour. One of the first discoveries made was a large clot of blood in the heart, which corroborates the opinion of the attending surgeons regarding the immediate cause of death.

The report that the ball has been found in the region of the heart has been verified, and it is stated on authority that the developments of the autopsy prove that death was inevitable, and the President's life was only sustained by his most excellent nourishing and constant care. The details of the autopsy are being compiled and will shortly be made public.

The Post-mortem Examination Concluded.

LONG BRANCH, Sept. 20.

The following official bulletin was prepared at 11 o'clock to-night, by the surgeons who have been in attendance upon the late President. By previous arrangement a post-mortem examination of the body of President Garfield was made this afternoon in the presence and with the assistance of Drs. Hamilton, Agnew, Bliss, Barnes, Woodward, Keyburn, Andrew H. Smith, of Elberon, and acting assistant surgeon D. S. Lamb, of the Army Medical Museum, Washington. The operation was performed by Dr. Lamb. It was found that the ball, after fracturing the right eleventh rib, had passed through the spinal column, in front of the spinal canal, fracturing the body of the first lumbar vertebrae and driving a number of small fragments of bone into the adjacent soft parts and lodging just below the pancreas, about two inches and a half to the left of the spine and behind the peritoneum, where it had become completely encysted. The immediate cause of death was the secondary hemorrhage from one of the mesenteric arteries adjoining the track of the ball, the blood rupturing the peritoneum and nearly a pint escaping into the abdominal cavity. This hemorrhage is believed to have been the cause of the severe pain in the lower part of the chest complained of just before death. An abscess cavity, six inches by four in dimensions, was found in the vicinity of the gall bladder, between the liver and the transverse colon, which were strongly inter-adherent. It did not involve the substance of the liver and no communication was found between it and the wound. A long suppurating channel extended from the external wound between the loin muscles and right kidney, almost to the right of the groin. This channel is now known to be due to the burrowing of pus from the wound which was supposed, during life, to be on the track of the ball. On examination of the organs of the chest evidences of severe bronchitis were found on both sides with broncho pneumonia of the lower portions of the right lung, and though to a much less extent of the left. The lungs contained no abscesses and the heart no clot. The liver was enlarged and fatty, but free from abscesses, nor were any found in any other organ except the left kidney, which contained near its surface a small abscess about one-third of an inch in diameter.

Lord Granville's Message.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.

The following has been received:—

To the Secretary of State, Washington, U. S. A.

I request you to assure Mrs. Garfield and the Government of the United States of the grief with which Her Majesty's Government has received the announcement of the President's death. Palliations is not sitting, and is thus prevented from giving a formal expression to the sorrow and sympathy universally felt in this country, a feeling which has been deepened by the long suspense, and by the courage, dignity and patience shown by the illustrious sufferer.

(Signed) LORD GRANVILLE, Walmor Castle, England, Sept. 20, 1881.

English Sympathy.

LONDON, Sept. 20.

In London the opinion to be heard expressed by all classes is that the event is doubly sad after the gallant struggle for life made by the President. The balconies of the American Exchange are draped in black, and flags, which adorn many places of business in the west end of the city, are half-masted.

LIVERPOOL, Sept. 20.

The announcement of the death of the President was received here with universal expressions of profound regret. Special editions of papers published the news, with heavy mourning borders; flags are at half-mast on the Town Hall, on a large number of public and private buildings, and on the shipping.

The Feeling at Ottawa.

OTTAWA, Sept. 20.

The announcement of President Garfield's death caused universal sorrow here. The citizens appeared to feel it as a family bereavement and flags were everywhere at half-mast. The intended demonstration and presentation of a long civic address to Sir John A. Macdonald was postponed in consequence, till after the President's funeral. The Globe, Gazette, and leading dailies dressed in mourning. Upon receipt of the tidings of the President's death, Deputy Governor General Ritchie telegraphed to the British Minister as follows:—

Be pleased to convey to the President and through him to the people of the United States, the deep sympathy felt by the Government and people of the Dominion of Canada, for the sad loss the United States have sustained in the melancholy death of the late President.

The New President Sworn In.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.

In accordance with despatches received from the Cabinet with regard to taking the oath of office, the messengers were sent to the different Judges of the Supreme Court. The first to appear was Judge John R. Brady, who was closely followed by Justice Donahue. The party composing the Vice-President and the Judges named, besides District Attorney Rollins, Elihu Root, and the eldest son of the now President, assembled in the parlor of General Arthur's residence, where the oath of office was administered. The President has not signified his intention as to when he would visit the Capital; and he declined to be interviewed as to his future course.

Secretary Blaine arrived here this morning and is now with President Arthur.

President Arthur Officially Claimed.

LONG BRANCH, Sept. 20.

To Mr. Lowell, Minister, London:—

James A. Garfield, President of the United States, died at Elberon, New Jersey, last night, at ten minutes before eleven. For nearly eighty days he suffered great pain and during that period exhibited extraordinary patience, fortitude and Christian resignation. The sorrow throughout the country is deep and universal. Fifty millions of people stand as mourners at his bier.

To-day, at his residence in the city of New York, Chester A. Arthur, Vice-President, took the oath of office as President, to which he accedes by virtue of the Constitution. President Arthur has entered upon the discharge of his duties. You will formally communicate these facts to the British Government, and transmit this despatch by telegraph to American Ministers on the Continent for like communication to Governments to which they are respectfully accredited.

(Signed) JAMES G. BLAINE, Secretary of State.
