Carved His Epitaph and Died.
"John Harmon died here from the bite of a rattlesnake."
This is an inscription on a beech tree standing on the knobs, in Monroe township, back of Jeffersonville. A date once followed the words, but it is now indistinct. There is a strange story connected with the inscription. An old resident relates it.
"Years ago, when that section of Indiana was little explored and when the heavy bush was the dwelling place of the wild turkey, deer and rattlesnake, John Harmon started to Charlestown to attend court. He was armed with an old fashioned rifle. A rattler bit Harmon's leg. Harmon killed the reptile. Then he began to prepare for death. It was he who carved the words in lighter lines on the tree, with the request beneath, long since obliterated by the tree's growth, to bury him on the spot. A few days later Harmon's body was found. A grave was dug by the tree and there it can be seen today."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Excessive Precaution.
A southwest Georgia couple going to be married, the prospective husband said:
"Molly, the last time I was married I lost the ring 'fore I got to the parson's. But I'm shore of it this time."
"Whar is it, John?" she asked.
"I've got it in my mouth," he said.
"I'm shore of it now."
But when they stood before the preacher the latter asked:
"Where is the ring?"
The groom gulped—choked—stuttered, and finally exclaimed in despair:
"Fore de Lord, I done swallered it!"

MAXIMS ON LOVE.

With true love there is trust.—Regnier.
To love is only in the power of the wise.—Epictetus.
If passion drives, let reason hold the reins.—Benjamin Franklin.
Love and religion are both stronger than friendship.—Benjamin Disraeli.
Who has loved well will never seek the loved one's ill.—Calderon de la Barca.
A mother alone knows what it is to love and be happy.—Adelbert von Chamisso.
There is nothing in love but what we imagine.—Charles Augustin Sainte-Beuve.
Love and death are the two great sympathies on which all human sympathies turn.—B. R. Haydon.
Love, like fire, cannot subsist without continual motion, and ceases to exist as soon as it ceases to hope and fear.—Francis de la Rochefoucauld.
Love is the most terrible and also the most generous of the passions. It is the only one that includes in its dream the happiness of some one else.—Alphonse Karr.

Overruled in rhyme.

In a Georgia court not long since a case involving a jackass came on for trial. The attorneys after indulging in a fine frenzy entered the following inspired motion on the docket:
"If the court will consent, we will take up a case;
It treats not of section, country or race;
It is of no interest to any, be it ladies or lass;
It begins and it ends with a humble jackass."
Thereupon the judge, hastily summing his muse to his assistance, entered up the following order:
"This case coming on this day to be heard, (Considered by the court to be quite absurd), And the motion herein the court doth decide To be hereby overruled and denied, And the movers thereof shall not be exempt From a fine of one dollar each for contempt, Which said, until paid, the court further passes. As sentence, that they be deemed said jack asses."
—Law Notes.

Paying Through the Nose.

This is to be indirectly swindled in a transaction or to pay an exorbitant price for a thing in consideration of long credit. A variant is "to be bored through the nose," "bored" here having the meaning of cheated, deceived.

At this instant he bores me with some trick.
"Henry VIII," l. i. 123.
One that hath guiled you, that hath bored you, sir.—"Life of T. Cromwell," 1602, II. ii. 103.

And Howell in his "Instructions For Forren Travell" (1650), page 59, "had known divers Dutch gentlemen grossly gull'd by this cheat (the selling of forged manuscripts to young travelers in Italy), and some English bor'd also through the nose this way, by paying excessive prices for them."—Notes and Queries.

Theaters in Spain.

Theaters in Spain have no programmes. A bill in the lobby sometimes gives the cast, but most of the actors remain unknown by name. The curtain is devoted to advertisements, and in Madrid theaters advertising cards are affixed with the numbers on the back of each seat.

Dainty Fruit.

First Proud Parent—I am a daddy, and it is a peach.
Second Proud Parent—I am a daddy, too, but it is a pair!—New York Tribune.

The Poor Wife.

"John Henry, it isn't any good, I know, that keeps you down town so late, when you ought to be at home with me and the children."
(Shrugging his shoulders.) "Honi soit qui mal y pense," my dear."
"That's right! Swear at your wife in Latin."—Chicago Tribune.

Caper Sauce Capers.

The caper, familiar in caper sauce and used also as a garnish for salads, is imported from Spain and France. Capers are grown in Italy, but none is imported from there into this country.
Capers are sorted into four sizes, of which the smallest are known commercially as nonpareils, and the next larger as surfines. The next larger in French capers are capucines, and the largest capotes, while the next to the largest and the largest of Spanish capers are known respectively as capotes No. 1 and No. 2. The smallest capers are the most desirable and bring the most money. French capers sell for more than Spanish. Capers are imported almost wholly in bulk in kegs of 15 or 16 gallons and barrels of about 40 gallons in brine or vinegar. A few capers are imported in glass, but they are mostly put up in this country. Capers grow on a bush.—New York Sun.

Royal Hotel Keepers.

The king of Wurttemberg may be regarded as a hotel keeper as well as a monarch. This has long been a tradition in his family, but not until lately was it discovered by the rulers of the beautiful little German kingdom how profitable innkeeping can become. When Peter the Great was traveling incognito through Europe, he refused to stop anywhere but at an inn. To circumvent this whim the then king of Wurttemberg put a tavern sign outside one of the royal palaces and, dressed as an innkeeper, himself welcomed the czar. This royal personage's descendant now owns two large hotels, from which he is said to derive a revenue equating $50,000 a year.

Important to Athletes.

Mr. Mack White, the well-known trainer of the Toronto Lacrosse Club and Osgoode Hall Football Club, writes: I consider Griffiths' Menthol Liniment unequalled for athletes or those training. I have used it with the best success, and can heartily recommend it for stiffness, soreness, sprains and all forms of swelling and inflammation. All druggists, 25 cts.
