

Dr. Chase's Ointment Cures

Fergus, April 10, 1894
To Robert Phillips, Fergus.
This is to certify that I have suffered from piles for a long time and tried several articles recommended for this complaint, but none of them relieved me till I used Chase's Ointment, which has completely cured me.
MRS. JOHN GERRIE, K. Phillips, Jr., Druggist, Fergus, Ontario.

"My six-year-old daughter, Bella, was afflicted with eczema for 24 months, the principal seat of eruption being behind her ears. I tried almost every remedy I saw advertised, bought numerous medicines and ointments, and took the child to medical specialists in skin diseases, but without result. Finally, a week ago, the first application showed the curative effect of the remedy. We have used only one-sixth of the box, but the change is very marked; the eruption has all disappeared, and I can confidently say the child is cured." "This was one of her off days, for we hadn't made more'n a hundred yards 'fore she sot a foot in a prairie dog's burrow and I kisses the sod all spraddled on it."

"Of course I gets my gun up as quick as I could, fur I see that on-eyed critter on the Mexican pin-a-comin' at me like a shot upon a gun."

"Wal, would you believe it, I find that I left all my shot to him, an' ain't got nary a thing to feed the weapon with but powder, an' not much of that."

LOSS OF FLESH

is weakening. You cannot afford to fall below your healthy weight. If you will take Scott's Emulsion of Cod-liver Oil with Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda when your friends first tell you you are getting thin, you will quickly restore your healthy weight and may thereby prevent serious illness.

Persons have been known to gain a pound a day by taking an ounce a day of Scott's Emulsion. This seems extraordinary, but it is absolutely true.

Don't be persuaded to accept a substitute. Scott & Bown, Belleville, 50c. and $1.

"That was a dangerous predicament to be in," ventured the doctor.

"Wal, you'd ha' thought so ef you'd ben there. What do you suppose I done? My thinking hung on a hair trigger, so down the barrel of my shooting iron I poups the hull box of your pills an' rams 'em down. Just as that 'ere land pirate shows his red nose above the dust I let him have the hull cargo plumb in the waist-band."

"Mebbe he didn't yell! Oh, no! He lets loose a howl like a she-bear with a load of buckshot in her trousers. The last I seen of that misguided cayuse as I sashays off on Mary Belle he were a chawin' grass like a hungry beaver."

The Major's Prescription.

"Doc," said Maj. Dawkins, of Creede, as he entered the office, "that 'ere last prescriber of yours were the means of savin' my life an' Mrs. Dawkins from entirely widdlerhood."

"I was sure it would help," smiled the doctor. "Never fails. Got all rid of your heart trouble, eh?"

"But you said—"

"Just what I said. That 'ere prescriber was the means of savin' my life. This is the way it was. Ye see me an' Mary Belle was a lepin' over the prairie one afternoon (Mary Belle's my horse). We was on the lookout for that warty thimble or walkin' cat that would vary the theme of jack rabbit an' fried hominy. We didn't sight nothin' but prairie dogs and coyotes and sich truck, an' was gettin' ready to pint for camp when some 'un with a voice like a cinnamon an' gin me seen a-ridin a Mexican plug—a tough-looking' cayuse a-comin' at me with two guns up—a droppin' cuss words as he come enough to sot the prairie afire. I didn't stop to argue no more with this here misguided varmint, for there was a look in his eye (he only had one good 'un), what seemed to say, 'thars gunt ter be a one-ering circus here pood soon, and I counts on you ter perrive the amusements."

"Wal, I wa'n't in no mood jist then to do with this here coyote on the silver question, nor the morality of Tribly, bein' on'y provided with a shotgun. I jist gin Mary Belle a hoof in the porterhouse an' of we cahoots."

"Me an' Mary didn't let up until we draws in at the Gringo's ranch on Four Forks. I were powerful hungry, an' after fillin' away my grub staker I turns in an' sleep the sleep of a man wath his hands behind his community. THE STUDY OF EACKS.

A Man's Face May Deceive, But His Back is as True as Steel.

There is much fascination in study of the palmistry or phrenology or physiognomy, but we doubt if many persons have ever attempted to study the backs of men and women. In the "Commonwealth" of last week Irving Winslow has an article upon this subject, which is interesting if not profound. Most people will be inclined to doubt the foundation of such a statement as this: "In a large assembly one would hardly go wrong in a majority of cases, in gathering up a general idea from the backs of those before him, of the actual tone of thoughts and words, as well as of temperament and disposition."

Where does the skill and experience of the palmist lie in guessing the back of the wealthy man's seat or the great man of the village president?

Continuing the writer says that "engagements have been predicted, tragedies in affairs pro gesticated, coming events of the most various and sometimes complicated kinds foreshadowed by speaking backs." The reader longs for instances to refresh his memory upon this point. Yet there is much of interest in this article, and a possible study of such novelty is suggested by the few lines here which suffice to give an idea of the range of observation covered in this entertaining article:

"So, as we stand or sit behind our friends, with an observant eye, we watch them from their guard and often unwittingly play the eavesdropper. The study of physiognomy has been so engrossing that bodily expression resolves little attention except from specialists. As the face is only an exposure of the natural enough, and the mouth and nose are the organs of the person, and especially the back, being forgotten by its possessor, though concealed by clothing, exposes the truth more fully than the countenance. Think of the vain backs, with the conscious wringing of the high chairs of conceit, the frowning pride, the dishonest cringe; and the bending of reverence, the droop of the lowly of modesty, the contortions of laboring affection, the distortions of habit and of pain."

THE FERN CRIMINAL.

I arrived in Paris in 1861, a boy, with my head full of philology and comparative physiology, and I spent the first serious lack in this science was that of anatomical and anthropological knowledge. The study of the back in general and individual instances, I insisted that we should study lunatics as we would a special variety of the human race, noting the skin, the form, the skull and particularly the functions, sensibility, etc. My colleagues laughed at me and called me the "Doctor of the steelyard." Little by little the idea prevailed, and now they almost assume to have forgotten me. It was that introduced the new somatic school. I have a strong desire to study the morally insane who have shown to be the born criminals. It was a principle of mine to deny everything which I did not see, and as there were none of these in our clinic I was inclined to deny their existence. Nevertheless, to make sure of the fact, I commenced to occupy myself with criminals, to frequent prisons, and carefully to gather skulls and brains of prisoners. One evening there died in one of the prisons of the city a celebrated brigand, robber and incendiary, who had often escaped by means of his great agility. Upon the death of this man, who was a true type of the born criminal and morally insane, I examined his skull. It presented an enormous median occipital fossa in an angle of the occipital median spine which occurs in the interior of the skull. This is a characteristic wanting in the superior ages and existing in all vertebrate animals made the autopsy in the yard of the prison in the early hours of the morning. The day was very foggy, in the winter of 1864. The weather and the place did not seem well to make a thorough autopsy, but I recollect how, at that moment, the whole idea of my future work rose before me like a picture. I instantly perceived that the criminal must be a survival of the primitive man and the carnivorous animals. The idea, though yet embryonic, was perfect a few days later, when I was called as an expert by the tribunal of Bergerac in the case of a sort of Jack the Ripper— one Verzett. This young peasant, with crossed eyes and enormous jaws, was possessed with a desire to disembowel his wife and eat morsels of women, young and old, who happened to cross his path. He afterwards confided to me in secret the great erotic pleasure which he experienced in this.—Forum.

Value of Pleasant surroundings.

A party of women once had the privilege of inspecting a factory devoted to the manufacture of spool thread. The place was the property of the largest and most complete in the world. But what most impressed the visitors was not the size and evident prosperity of the plant, but the hygiene of the place. Not only was every hygienic and commercial comfort attended to, but, so far as possible, every aesthetic consideration was given to the factory. The figures upon the friezes were a dainty dancing company, beautiful in color as well as in form, and fit to grace the walls of a dwelling rather than a mill. Finally, one of the women, a practical plain-dressed dame, asked the mill owner why he made beauty such an object. "I don't see the use of a frieze like that in a factory like this," she said. "But, 'Why do you have it there?' he will answer smiling. 'Well, come to think of it, it is a very practical reason,' he said. 'I find that it makes better thread.'

Social Equality a Beautiful Thing.

Equality is such a beautiful thing. I wonder people can ever have any other ideal. It is the only social joy, the only comfort. If you meet an inferior or a superior, you are at once stretched. Do you have any pleasure of the man who stands behind your chair at dinner? No more than if the man across the table who because he is richer or of better family, or of greater distinction, treats you as an inferior. You spoil the joy of life for your inferior, just as your superior spoils the joy of life for you. The sense of inferiority infuriates; the sense of superiority intoxicates. The madness is more or less violent, as temperament varies; but in some form it is felt wherever inequality is seen; and good society, with all its advantages, instinctively does its best to ignore inequality. Of course it can do this only on a very partial and restricted scale, and of course the result is an effect of equality, and not equality itself, or equality merely for the moment.—(From "Equality as the Basis of Good Society," by W. D. Howells, in the November Century.)

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

MOTHERS, Do You Know that Paregoric, Batesian's Drops, Godfrey's Cordial, many so-called Soothing Syrups, and most remedies for children are composed of opium or morphine?

Do You Know that opium and morphine are stupefying narcotic poisons?

Do You Know that in most countries druggists are not permitted to sell narcotics without labeling them poisons?

Do You Know that you should not permit any medicine to be given your child unless you or your physician know of what it is composed?

Do You Know that Castoria is a purely vegetable preparation, and that a list of its ingredients is published with every bottle?

Do You Know that Castoria is the prescription of the famous Dr. Samuel Picher. That it has been in use for nearly thirty years, and that more Castoria is now sold than of all other remedies for children combined?

Do You Know that the Patent Office Department of the United States, and of other countries, have issued exclusive right to Dr. Picher and his assigns to use the word "Castoria" and its formula, and that to imitate them is a state prison offense?

Do You Know that one of the reasons for granting this government protection was because Castoria had been proven to be absolutely harmless?

Do You Know that 35 average doses of Castoria are furnished for 85 cents, or one cent a dose?

Do You Know that when possessed of this perfect preparation, your children may be kept well, and that you may have unbroken rest?

Well, these things are worth knowing. They are facts.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Picher is on every wrapper.

"Fine Feathers Make Fine Birds"

Women are not all beautiful but all women are attractive who are beautifully dressed.

Beauty undomated may do in poetry, but the nicely fitting gown is the desire of every true woman. Priestley's dress fabrics have done much to realize a woman's ideals by offering in their texture, appearance, fit and wear, a character and distinction, which no other dress goods, however excellent, have quite attained to. And now Priestley's have something new. The "Eudora" is all the rage. It is even better than the Henrietta so much admired. The "Eudora" has something which the Henrietta lacks—to wit: greater width, greater weight, and a superior dress shredding quality. And then it has an exquisite surface which gives it an almost regal presence. Wrapped on "The Varished Board," and the name, Priestley, stamped on every five yards.

Ye Ancient Colony

A gentleman leaving for Newfoundland to reside, was offered for his AMERICAN RANGE the price he had paid for it, but refused, saying: "I'm going to take it with me, for I don't believe there was ever a better Stove made. I wouldn't exchange it for a new one of the same kind for fear it wouldn't be as good."

We sold this wonderful Range and have others like it for $20.

Stylish Clothes

give a man an appearance, which is a good deal in this working-day world. An air of solidity makes a man worth more in the opinion of his fellows. To have the real genuine solid air about you, it's necessary to have your clothing made to order, so there'll be absolutely no defect about the material, the makeup, the finish or the fit. High-class tailoring, such as we produce, is indispensable to correct attire. Keep your clothing above par by ordering it of us, and you'll be rated at 100. There's nothing in Charlottetown to equal our stock of Woollens, and the way we make them up is a sartorial marvel.

Those BEAVER OVERCOATS we are selling for $18.00 are the best value we ever had. See them.
