Flyers And Saints Play 4th Game Of Tight Series Tonight

The entire complexion of the Island Senior B final playoff series between the Parkdal Flyers and St. Dunstan's University will be changed toattehgointsph snrrtA-changed tonight at the sports Arnna when the two teams meet in the fourth game.

With a 2-1 lead in games the Flyers could take a commanding 3-1 spread with a victory and virtually sew up the best- of- seven series. On the other hand a win for the Saints and it will be a brand new series with each team needing two wins to take home honors.

Game time is 8:30 sharp.

The two teams will lineup like this:

Saints: goal Gillis; defense Mullins, M. MacDonald, Hoache, L. MacDonald; forwards Davy, J. MacDonald, E. McaDonald, Roy, Gionet, Veilleux, Burns, Kane, MacInnis.

Parkdale; goal Roper; Defense Moore, A. MacLeod, Ready; Forwards A. Carver, S. Carver, Hurry, Dunn, Gregory, J. MacLeod.

IN THIS CORNER

Beliveau Emerging As Top Star Of Cup Playoffs

Les Canadiens sont la! Or almost anyway. Tonight in Montreal the Habs will get a chance to wrap up the series in quick fashion when the weary and battered Detroit Red Wings hit the Canadian metropolis for the 5th game. Rated by many hockey experts as one of, if not the greatest hockey team in the history of the National League, the Canadiens so far haven't experienced any, what might be termed, stiff competition from the Red Wings. Reason for this might be that the Detroiters left a good deal of their vim and vigor in Toronto. The Wings took the Leafs in 5 games, the same number used up by Habs in their conquest of New York. But the Toronto—Detroit series was a lot tougher and rougher and it could easily be that it cost the Red Wings heavily in drive.

The Red Wings went into that series rather battered and came out of it in even worse shape. Both all-star Red Kelly and youngster Larry Hillman received injuries that must have lessened their effectiveness in the Montreal series and the overall punishment dished out by the fast-skating, hard-hitting Leafs didn't do the Wings any good whatever. In the meantime the Canucks were hardly working up a sweat while handing the Rangers a lacing and went into the finals in top shape.. ....

Probably the gentleman who most wishes the series was over is linesman Doug Davies. Davies could be excused for thinking that the players were waging a personal war against him. In the semi-final Detroit-Toronto series he came out of one game wearing 6 brand new stitches and Sunday at Detroit he became involved in a minor melee and got clipped with a stick, good for 3 more stitches. Also in that nightmarish semi-final game Davies stopped a hard shot with his shins.

The player emerging as the top star of the series bears a distinct rememblance to "Le Gros Bill" Beliveau. In fact it is Beliveau. The big guy needs only one more goal to tie teammate Richard's playoff record of 12 and two of them were used Sunday slapping down the Wings. Probably no player in the history of the National League came into the big time preceded by so much hoopla and ballyoo as greeted Beliveau's arrival. It took him just three years to win the scoring title and his three-year record is well ahead of those of both Howe and Richard during the sa e period. If may be an unfair comparison with Howe for Detroit's big man was just a youngster when he arrived and it took him a few years before he really got in stride. .....

Tonight at the Sports Arena the Parkdale Flyers and St. Dunstan's go back at it again for the fourth game of their finals series. Leading 2-1 the Flyers can get a pretty tight grip on the title if they can come through for a win but a victory for S.D.U. would put the teams back where they started two weeks ago. The Flyers almost found themselves in trouble during a practice session over the weekend when goalie Frank Roper stopped one of Jim MacLeod's hard drives with his chin. The cut required seven stitches to close but Frank will be fit as a fiddle for tonight's game.

About 700 wise fans showed up at the Sports Arena last Thursday during the advance sale to purchase ducats. It was the largest pre-game sale of tickets for any game during the playoffs and it considerably lessened the congestion at the box office in the evening. In view of the fact that an even larger crowd than the estimated 2500 that saw the third game will turn out tonight those wise ones will be early for tickets and be early for the game also. With no reserve seats the motto is "first come first served". Fans responded to the request to refrain from smoking during the game but it could be better. It not only hurts the players inasmuch that it impedes their breathing but also has an adverse effect on the ice conditions and by the time the third period rolls around the ice becomes watery and soft and another impediment to the caliber of hockey is added.

AROUND AND ABOUT — In the third Detroit-Montreal game won 3-1 by the Wings Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion knocked Glen Hall off his feet with a hard shot. . . Toe Blake is high on the performance of Henri Richard. . . Said Richard exceeded all expectations both during the regular season and playoffs. . . It is about time something was done about the dirty end of the stick handed annually to Maritime hockey teams competing for the Allen Cup. . . The Beavers may beat out Chatham in any event but their chances would have been doubled if they were able to play one or two games at St. John with a friendly hometown crowd to cheer them on.....A Beaver victory or even a close series would go far in giving Maritime hockey a decided boost.....Next year (if indeed there is a next year for the ACSHL) this matter should be pushed by Maritime Hockey heads.....Even neutral ice for the playoffs would be a lot better deal than the Beavers are getting this year and other Maritime squads have gotten in the past.....Here's an interesting problem. If "A" hoc key team takes out its goalie in an effort to tie the season "B" team and a "B" team player is deliberately tripped from behind when he is riding in the clear on an open net to return to the ice?.....The rule-makers say that the goalie is allowed to return. It is never presumed on any play that a goal will be scored. The player in question may fall before he gets his shot away or miss the net altogether.
