

Guide Leader Is Chosen To Attend World Camp in England

won the top award in an essay contest sponsored by the Journal Pioneer. Margaret, after three years as a Brownie has spent 5 1/2 years as a member of the Girl Guides, and is the holder of 17 proficiency badges. She is presently working towards her Gold Cord, the highest Girl Guide award. Some of the other highlights in her association with Girl Guide activities include attendance at the visit of Lady Baden-Powell in Summerside; and escort of an honor guard during the visit of Mrs. W. Rankin Nesbitt, Dominion Commissioner, in 1955, at which time she received her First Class badge. Margaret will be sailing to England from Montreal on the Empress of Britain about the latter part of July.

Greater Productivity Will Prevent Inflation, Senator

OTTAWA (CP) — Liberal Senator A. N. McLean of New Brunswick, one-time banker, suggested Thursday that the federal government is trying to fight inflation with a "money squeeze" and high interest rates which in themselves are inflationary. The Saint John businessman said in the Senate that the only real cure for inflation is greater productivity. This could not be accomplished with high interest rates that made money scarce and a bank rate that was inflationary in itself.

Canada now has a "jumping-jack" bank rate, he said. In addition, credit restrictions sent Canadian borrowers to New York to get loans at lower U.S. interest rates. "There is no reason why money could not be borrowed as cheaply in Canada as in the U.S. Interest payments on these loans further aggravated Canada's huge adverse trade balance with the U.S. It was "one of the penalties we pay because of the monetary policy of the central bank (the Bank of Canada) which apparently seems to have seceded from Parliament."

Yemen's Laws Challenged, Unchanged In 1,000 Years

By WILTON WYNN
HODEIDAH, Yemen (AP)—The man who touched his forehead with the stump of his forearm. His right hand had been chopped off. With his left hand, he picked up the dismembered hand and held it in the air as a salute to his king. The man was a convicted highway robber, and his hand was chopped off as the traditional punishment for such criminals in the Arabian peninsula. Such punishments sound savage to Westerners, but the Yemenites have one answer: They rarely have to inflict such punishments. This primitive country claims a low crime rate. Yemen has lived for more than 1,000 years with its own system of laws and traditions virtually unchanged. Based on the Koran and ancient custom, these laws have proven adequate for settling disputes and maintaining an orderly society in a region which has led the rest of the world pass by in their domain.

Following that, a school essay contest was held on the subject "Why I would like to help the world's children." The Saskatchewan boy won a trip to the UN and formally presented his schoolmates' contribution to Maurice Paton, director of the UN Children's Fund. Frank McKittrick of North Battleford was selected from more than 300 school children from all 10 provinces to represent Canadian children for the presentation. The $42,000 was collected for the UN by Canadian children last Halloween. Lower right another group of Guides and Brownies enjoy the action taking place on the stage. Photo by Wotton ing a troublesome group of Yemenites called the Free Yemen Committee, who advocate overthrow of this regime and establishment of a Western-style constitution. This committee almost succeeded in 1948, when they assassinated old Imam Yahya and temporarily took over. Imam Ahmed, Yahya's son, came back to power soon, however, with the support of leading tribes and popular demonstrators shouting "constitutions are for infidels." Today the term "constitutionalist" is a derogatory epithet in Yemen. The Koran and Moslem traditions always have served as a constitution for this country. REBELS PUNISHED The leaders of the 1948 revolution got the punishment prescribed by this country's stern penal code—their heads were chopped off. In Hodeidah, a straw hut on a mound marks the spot where murderers and traitors are executed in public. In Taiz, there is a headman who can kill a man with a single stroke of his sword or with a dozen strokes, depending on how severe a punishment is needed. Highway robbers have a hand chopped off. Slave traders may have both hands cut off. The Imam has made up his mind slave trading must stop. Those who have committed minor crimes may be allowed to move about freely—but they drag chains manacled to their hands and feet.

Y's Men Hear Talk On Mental Health Work And Problems

Dr. M.N. Beck of Charlottetown was the guest speaker Thursday evening at the regular weekly meeting of the Summerside Y's Men's Club. Chairman of the meeting was Roy Boates. A highlight of the meeting was the presentation of a suitable gift by the president, Jack Hopkirk, to Y's Ralph Degraese who has been transferred to Crapaud as Manager of the Bank of Nova Scotia. In his talk to the members Dr. Beck, who was introduced by Frank Cameron, outlined various aspects of his work as child psychiatrist. He said that eighty per cent of his time was spent in dealing with emotionally sick children. Children, he said, are more prone to emotional upsets than adults due to the fact that they are not in control of situations they find themselves in. He said that sometimes, due to a home life which was unsatisfactory to them, children express themselves in acts of delinquency. STIGMA Dr. Beck said that there has been a sort of social stigma attached to psychiatric treatment of any kind, a fact that greatly hindered him in his work. The people of Summerside would very soon be able to help out in the work of the Mental Health Clinic and he said he would like to interest the citizens of the town in the formation of such classes. Prince Edward Island, Dr. Beck stated, greatly needs an institution for helping retarded children. He was thanked, on behalf of the club by Y's Moyses. The chairman, Roy Boates, suggested that official receipts for donors to the Radio Auction be made available. Regarding the proposed broom-ball game between the Summerside Y's Men and the Lions Club, George Key Jr., said that he would like to have a show of hands of those members interested in playing on the Y's Men's team. The challenge, he said, had been accepted by the Lion's Club. The club decided to place an entry in the forthcoming Music Festival Lack of information of the Y's Men's Maritime Convention was discussed and it was decided to write to the Fredericton Club for more details. Art Robinson asked for any ideas from the members for the Radio Auction and called for volunteers to assist in setting up radio auction equipment this Saturday afternoon. Y's Cecil Webber was finesmaster and Maynard Schurman acted as songleader. Guests present were Walter Simons, John Staines, Mayor W. A. Currie and Ralph Degraese.

Observe 100th Anniversary Of Lord Baden-Powell

Boy Scouts, Girl Guides, Wolf Cubs, and Brownies, of Summerside, presented a special program during the regular school assembly Thursday, marking the occasion of the birth 100 years ago, of the founder of their organizations. The program was presented in the civic auditorium which was filled by students from grades 1 to 8, who were present to hear the story of Lord Baden-Powell and his work among Scouts and Guides throughout the world during his lifetime. Brownies, all dressed in their respective uniforms, took turns in also telling about the training and activities which they enjoy. Some of the other leaders who were present included Mrs. Ferno Rogers, Mrs. Layton Schurman, Elizabeth Gallant, and Mrs. Wilfred Perry. The chairman of the program was the School Supervisor, Mr. Clarence Mercer, and musical accompaniment was provided by the school's music instructor, Mr. Gabriel Chaisson. B.P.

Dock Strike Continues In Spite of Union Leaders

NEW YORK (AP)—East coast longshoremen defied their union leaders Thursday in a one-for-all, all-for-one continuation of a Maine - to - Virginia waterfront strike. At the same time, New York dockers voted during the day on a master contract negotiated with shippers here in the nine - day strike. A hard core of Manhattan dockers is opposed to its terms and would be delighted to see the rank - and - file scuttle the whole agreement. William V. Bradley, president of the International Longshoremen's Association (I.L.A.), had ordered his 45,000 striking dockers back to the piers at 8 a.m. Thursday on the basis of the tentative contract agreement. WORKERS REBEL However, the I.L.A. in Baltimore was unable to reach contract agreement with shippers there, and 7,400 Maryland dockers stayed out on strike. In Norfolk, Va., 2,500 others remained idle in a dispute over local contract issues. In New York, Philadelphia and Boston, thousands of rebellious longshoremen sided with Baltimore and Norfolk in open defiance of Bradley's return-to-work mandate. It was the most serious defiance of Bradley's authority since a 1954 wildcat dock strike was puled TUGBOAT STRIKE ENDING While the longshoremen's strike kept the vast New York harbor in a turmoil, a 21-day-old strike of 4,000 tugboat operators neared an end. If a tentative agreement reached early Thursday is approved in a vote today by Local 333, National Maritime Union, 400 tugs will go back into operation. The tugboat strike began Feb. 1. For a time it threatened to curtail the city's supply of coal and fuel oil, normally brought in by tug-shepherded barges. However, mild weather plus an emergency fuel lift by truck staved off critical shortages. The tentative tugboat agreement runs for six years with wage reopening permissible every two years. It provides an 11-per-cent increase in the first two years in wages that range from $1.76 to $2.80 an hour. The longshoremen's strike is a continuation of last November's nine-day walkout. A 32-cent an-hour wage increase spread over three years was generally agreed to. Present wages average $2.48 an hour. The master contract negotiated in New York was agreeable as a general pattern to all ports except Baltimore. There shippers held out against it, despite pressure from shipping interests in other ports. "We won't double - cross anyone," said Harold Bowers, boss of Manhattan's west side "pistol" Local 824. The local, which gets its nickname from its past history of violence, has been a spearhead in the current I.L.A. revolt. Fred Field, secretary-treasurer of lower Manhattan Local 85 declared of the impasse in Baltimore: "They went out for us and we stay out for them."

Successful Flyers Will Receive Wings

The semi annual inspection of No. 53 squadron Royal Canadian Air cadets will be held in the recreation centre of R.C.A.F. Station Summerside, on Monday evening, February 25 at 8 p.m. Following the inspection, wings will be presented to two cadets who successfully completed flying training scholarships last summer. David MacDonald, son of Mr. and Mrs. Duncan MacDonald will receive his wings and Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Arsenault, parent of Arthur Arsenault will accept wings for their son, who is now a member of the R.C.A.F. and stationed at Clinton, Ontario. Promotions within the squadron will be announced and film and slides, "The Air Cadet Story," will be shown. This film which has just been released shows many of the advantages and opportunities available to boys who enroll in this youth movement. The public is cordially invited to attend this inspection. Special invitation is extended to all parents of cadets and prospective cadets.
