Grim Silence And Growing Bitterness In Rail Strike

MONTREAL (CP)—Grim silence and growing bitterness were the weekend features of the Canadian Pacific Railway strike that has paralyzed the coast-to-coast system since Wednesday. Both the CPR and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen (CLC) appeared to be sitting tight pending possible action by the federal government. The cabinet is to meet Monday and Parliament convenes in regular session Tuesday.

Ottawa informants said federal officials have not yet decided the type of possible legislation nor whether it would be presented to Parliament. One authority speculated that views of the government's common supporters from across the country would be studied for a sampling of public opinion. The strike, and the simultaneous tie-up by CPR, left 70,000 employees idle across the 17,000-mile system and thousands of industrial workers also have been laid off as their plants run out of essential supplies.

The strike followed union rejection of a conciliation board report that approved a company plan gradually to remove firemen-helpers from diesel locomotives on yard and freight service. The company accepted the report that also recommended a 12-per-cent wage increase, effective in two stages, compared with the 25-per-cent boost asked by the union.

TRIBUNAL SUGGESTED CPR president N. R. Crump charged Friday that the union placed "its own selfish motives above the interests of Canada."

That brought a quick response from W. E. Gamble, Canadian chief of the Brotherhood, who said: "We feel we are defending the interests of the people of Canada in insisting that firemen are not removed from yard or freight diesels as we consider such a move definitely unsafe."

Mr. Gamble started his career as a fireman in 1915 and served as a "front-end" man, with Canadian National Railways, steadily until 1948, when he became a high officer of the union.

Mr. Gamble has repeatedly said that all other North American railroads have contracts providing for firemen-helpers aboard yard and freight diesels, while Mr. Crump replied that this was not general practice in Europe.

Terminating safety a vital part of the union's argument, Mr. Gamble said: "No union anywhere has accepted compulsory arbitration on the duties of specific trades. We have all to lose and nothing to gain by compulsory arbitration in the diesel issue. The railway has all to gain and nothing to lose."

He also said it is not the intention of the union to let areas isolated by the strike suffer and promised to co-operate in running relief trains should serious hardships develop.

"TEA AND SYMPATHY" OUTSTANDING DRAMA CAPITOL SUMMERSIDE

One of the year's outstanding motion pictures is brought to the Capitol screen this week with the showing of "Tea and Sympathy," M-G-M's film version in CinemaScope and color of the great Broadway stage success.

The picture retains the stellar team of the original cast, Deborah Kerr and John Kerr, with the screen version written by the play's author, Robert Anderson. He has done a masterful job in transferring this compassionate, dramatically cogent story of a seven-year-old prep school boy caught up in an infatuation with the wife of his housemaster to the wider canvas afforded by the CinemaScope cameras.

Without sacrificing any of the intimate touches, the screen offers the playwright a far wider range in presenting background and local color. What was the play was confined to two sets, the film version of "Tea and Sympathy" ranges from the housemaster's home and garden to sequences on a beach, at a golf club, an ice-cream parlor hangout and a variety of scenes involving student activities, including a rousing Pajama Fight between the old and new boys.

Debate Scheduled On Korean Reunification

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) The United Nations Assembly's political committee scheduled a renewal of debate today on the long-deadlocked question of Korean reunification.

The discussion was expected to start with the usual Soviet-bloc bid to invite Communist North Korea and Red China to sit in. Such attempts have always been beaten down, although South Korea has been invited to send an observer team.

The committee voted 58 to 8 Wednesday night to lead off its agenda with Korea and to place disarmament second. The Soviet bloc tried unsuccessfully to give the arms question the top spot and place Korea at the end of the work sheet.

The United States did not dispute the prime importance of disarmament, but indicated that it wanted a week or so to prepare for the debate.

PACKED AGENDA The committee, whose work has been delayed nearly two months by General Assembly meetings on the Hungarian and Middle East crises, has a packed agenda.

Following Korea and disarmament it will take up the nationalist rebellion in Algeria. After that comes the British-Greek dispute over Cyprus and Indonesia's claim to Dutch-held West New Guinea.

Korea is still divided and the uneasy truce continues. At its 1955 session, the assembly expressed hope that it would "soon prove possible to make progress towards the achievement of a unified, independent and democratic Korea under a representative form of government."

Star Has Skated On Both Sides Of The Iron Curtain

Skating star of "Ice Varieties" appearing at Summerside Civic Stadium next Friday and Saturday, Miroslava Nachodska, was the pretty 16-year-old daughter of a middle class Prague insurance company executive when the Communist coup of 1948 imprisoned Czechoslovakia in the Russian orbit.

She became her country's third-ranking figure skater. The communist line meant nothing to her. In fact, she much prefers to follow another line—the Dior line.

After Miroslava had won the nation's figure skating championship in 1951, the government began to show an interest in her existence. In January 1952, Miroslava Nachodska, better known as Mila, was entered as Czechoslovakia's representative in the European figure skating championship. Suddenly her scheduled trip was cancelled through the Iron Curtain.

She was told her political reliability was being questioned. She could not understand this as she had no politics.

At that time, throughout the Russian orbit, athletics were given a new dimension. Instead of being an amusement, it was now of state importance. Instead of the "Bourgeois" amateur sports clubs, the state clubs were formed. The strongest of the new clubs, the UDA (Central House of the Army) invited Mila to join.

HAVE THE BEST She, of course, would have to straighten herself out with the committee and become a member. She decided to join the UDA so that she would be able to continue skating. Her salary, because she was a champion, was about $200.00 a month. Only part of this, however, was paid out by the Ministry of Defense. This second half of her salary was called "calorie money". It was to be spent in the canteen for fresh fruit, imported cheese, etc. The army felt the good athletes should have the best.

Miroslava had to pass two tests, the physical and the oral. The physical was rifle marksmanship, swimming, broad jumps and last but not least, a 15-mile hike carrying full army field equipment. The oral was on "Marxist ideology". Having passed both, she was given a diary to record all of her moods, mangers, state of nerves, training programs, and even to the point of over-sleeping, skipping practice, or any so called sin. If Mila herself did not mention some of these obligations there was always someone who was eager to do it for her.

AGAIN WITHDRAWN Mila began her career as a hired amateur by winning the 1953 national title, a "2" which she was sent to Moscow and Leningrad for
