

RELIGION AND LIFE

BY VERY REV. GEORGE C. PIDGEON, D.D., LL.D.
First Moderator of the United Church of Canada

GOD'S CAUSE SPANS TIME AND ETERNITY

My attention has just been called to St. Paul's teaching on the gifts of the Spirit. To him they bulk so large that he deals with them at length in two chapters and refers to them many times more. They are so obviously a feature of the Christian life that he assumes that when Christ enters any man's life He brings with Him powers and opens up possibilities that will make the believer a greater man than he could ever have become in any other way.

Now is that so in our time? If so, what are the forms in which it appears?

For one answer take the example of one of the heroes of my youth, a pioneer for whom we boys had unbounded admiration. We never saw him face a difficulty in the primitive conditions of those days that he did not think through and master. He had been brought up in a Scottish home where the discipline was strict and stern. As he grew older it bred in him resentment against authority and he became wilful and self-assertive. He never yielded to the evil influences around him; he was straight and strong and true; but he was not easy to live with or follow.

A CHANGE
One day there came a change. He never told us how it came, but from that time on he lived on a higher level. In the first place, he had entered a new world of reality. What had been inherited doctrine became personal experience. Christ had entered his life as a personal presence and had taken command. The nature of that new Reality made all the difference. It was Love that claimed for him the best and the most that he was capable of receiving—or becoming.

He responded with a loyalty that was all-pervading and all-controlling. What observers called his principles were to him the will of God, and that will to be obeyed regardless of cost.

For example, we knew of him in a lumber-camp in the American west standing alone for the commands of God as he understood them, and at the same time doing two men's work with an efficiency that never failed.

What about the gifts of the Spirit in such a man who seemed to observers so self-contained and self-controlled. GIFT OF GOD
He would have been the first to say that his strength was the gift of God.

More than once St. Paul mentions "prophecy" as the first of the gifts of the Spirit. What form could this gift take in such a life?

New Testament prophecy meant insight into God's truth and God's will for one's own time plus ability to express what he saw in glowing speech. This man was a constant reader of his Bible and was familiar with its teachings. A mind stored with such literature has treasure for every demand life can make. This man understood not only what the inspired writer meant to say, but also its bearing on his own life and on affairs around him.

When he spoke to us boys about any article of his faith it was with a deep concern about what it should mean for us, and about the kind of men we ought to be. Now that was love in the New Testament sense, love with out a trace of sentimentality, love that was purposeful, penetrating, conscious of its source

P. W. C. Elects Student Council

The P.W.C. Students' Council is elected yearly from representatives of the Student Body. This year, as in previous years, a number of parties are formed for the election. Each party publishes a list of candidates, and pledges a platform consisting of what they hope the student body in general would like to see promoted during the coming year.

This year two parties: the Red and Blue, commanded by Frank Burke, a fourth year student, and the collegiates, led by Jim Norton, a third year student, published their platforms and generally threw their hats into the circle of college politics. The result was an overwhelming victory for the Red and Blue with 18 of their 20 candidates gaining office.

The procedure from the election on, runs true to higher politics, the leader of the victorious party, being elected president of the executive. In his hands now rests the hope of the Student body, for he is the go-between the Faculty and the Student. He alone will be responsible to see that the 1957-58 council keeps up the fine work done by its predecessors, who have donated and promoted such works as the Memorial Plaque dedicated in memory of P.W.C. Graduates of W.W.II; a sound system for the auditorium and many more achievements in sports, socials, and literature.

Comments On Next Election

KENTVILLE, N.S. (CP) — Revenue Minister Nowlan said Friday night another Federal election "will come in due course and without undue delay."

He spoke at a meeting of the Kings County Progressive Conservative Association Executive.

Mr. Nowlan said it isn't pleasant to have an adverse vote in Parliament but this was an occasion when the Government would welcome one.

A Federal program now being worked out would reduce power costs in the Maritimes. Old age pensions would be increased but how much wouldn't be known until legislation is presented in parliament.

He said the Diefenbaker Government will pay cash advances to Western grain growers and will also make a start on tax reduction.

Winsloe Men's Association Meet

Reports from the Stanhope Conference by men of the Charge featured the regular monthly meeting of Winsloe Men's Association held on Thursday evening, September 26 at Winsloe Road Hall. The President, Russell Diamond was in the chair.

The reports from the conference were given by Clayton Cudmore, Leonard Cudmore and Lea Toombs. All spoke in glowing terms of the inspiration which had been received at the meeting which was attended by over 100 from all parts of the Province.

Following Grace said by Leonard Cudmore, the ladies of the Winsloe North served a delicious supper. Birthday and wedding anniversary greetings were extended to members to whom these events applied during the month. A hearty sing-song was enjoyed with Mrs. Stanley Younger at the piano.

In the business period which followed the matter of laymen's Sunday observance was discussed. It was decided that the lay-

Died Suddenly On Return From Sister's Funeral

The death of Ernest O. Bradley formerly of Charlottetown, look place in Edmonton Alta., with tragic suddenness on Saturday Oct. fifth as he stepped aboard his train to resume duty following leave of absence to attend the funeral of his sister, Miss Florence Bradley, whose death took place in Charlottetown on Sept. 22.

Mr. Bradley, who was 53 years of age, left his native Province thirty-three years ago and shortly after arriving in Calgary entered the employ of the Canadian National Railways, with headquarters in that city until a year ago when he transferred to Edmonton. At the time of his death he was baggagemaster on a regular C.N.R. run based in that city.

Mr. Bradley, who is survived by his wife, a former resident of Winnipeg and one step daughter Joan, also leaves to mourn his only surviving sister, Mrs. Laurie J. Bellevue of Moncton, N.B.

The funeral will take place in Calgary.

death of her sister Florence, two weeks ago. Mrs. Bellevue has for the third time in several months been called upon to suffer bereavement which began with the death of her brother Frank on Feb. 11.

The funeral will take place in Calgary.

POLICE PROTECTION

MONTREAL (CP)—City police Friday protected the unloading of a shipment of copper from the strike-troubled Gaspé Copper Mines in Murdochville, Que. The shipment, aboard the vessel Mont St. Louis, consisted of 634 plates, weighing 628 pounds each.

The meeting closed with worship conducted by the Minister.

TURN DOWN ROLES

LONDON (Reuters) — British actors were told Friday to turn down parts in a proposed South African company of The Pajama Game because of color bar problems. The order was issued by British actors' Equity after it had failed to gain assurances from the South African producer that a definite proportion of the performances would be set aside for Negroes and colored (mixed blood) audiences.

THE OATH OF MAIMONDES

Thy eternal Providence has appointed me to watch over the life and health of Thy creatures. May the love for my art actuate me at all times; may neither avarice nor miserliness, nor thirst for glory, or for a great reputation engage my mind; for the enemies of truth and philanthropy could easily deceive me and make me forgetful of my lofty aim of doing good to Thy children. May I never see in the patient anything but a fellow creature in pain. Grant me strength, time and opportunity always to correct what I have acquired, always to extend its domain; for knowledge is immense and the spirit of man can extend infinitely to enrich itself daily with new requirements. Today he can discover his errors of yesterday and tomorrow he may obtain a new light on what he thinks himself sure of today. O God, Thou hast appointed me to watch over the life and death of Thy creatures; here am I ready for my vocation, and now I turn unto my calling.

PHARMACY WEEK

Pharmacy Week is observed annually by the retail and hospital pharmacists of Canada and the United States early in the month of October. During this week they honor their pharmacist colleagues in manufacturing and research and try to tell you a little more about the profession to which they belong.

Apothecaries in olden days guarded their secrets diligently. The modern pharmacist makes no mystery of his dispensing skill. The thing he guards is your health through his accurate compounding of prescriptions and safe storage of drugs.

Young people today who wish to enter pharmacy may do so. The only factor considered is the high calibre of their studies. There are many branches to the profession of pharmacy besides retailing: hospital, research, teaching, manufacturing, control, medical detailing. The retail pharmacist is the man who meets the public, he is the man behind the prescription counter in your pharmacy.

When he fills your prescription, remember the many pharmacists behind the scenes who have brought this medicine to you. Pharmacy Week pays homage to the great heritage of the past and looks toward the brighter horizons of new and more wonderful life-saving drugs which pharmacists around the world are finding, studying, testing at this moment.
