Believing that the best is none too good for readers of THE EXAMINER, we have made arrangements whereby we can provide from day to day, stories by the leading authors of fiction. Beginning to-day with A. Conan Doyle's "The Medal of Brigadier Gerard," we will after this publish stories by Stanley J. Weyman, Rudyard Kipling, Anthony Hope, Mat Crimm., Hamlin Garland, and other leading lights of the literary world. Each story will run through two or three issues of THE DAILY EXAMINER, and we promise our readers that they will be enjoyable reading.

THE DAILY EXAMINER.

OCTOBER 26, 1895.

TWO SESSIONS IN THE SCHOOLS.

THE discussion of this question has developed some good arguments from both sides. But upon the whole, we think, the balance of opinion, based upon reason and experience, is decidedly on the side of those who oppose a change. The points made at the beginning by Mr. James and and "A Pedagogue" have not, in our opinion, been met. Experienced teachers, some of whom have retired from work in the schools, inform us privately that, having taught in two sessions as well as in one, they believe that pupils, in the mass, make more rapid and satisfactory progress in one session than in two. It is stated that the studies of the afternoon are invariably more or less broken. Distractions arising in the home and incidents occurring during the dinner hour cause the children to lose time as well as interest in the afternoon studies, while the lethargic interval succeeding a hearty meal is not a good time in which to give, receive, or profit by the lessons that are taught. Upon the other hand, the proposed change will necessarily involve the upsetting of the domestic arrangements of every household in which there are school children,—exept those, situated not far from the school, in which dinner is taken at 12 o'clock. It will involve, moreover, as was pointed out by "Pedagogue," an increased expense for the fuel used in the schools. Some persons have argued that the two sessions should be adopted on the ground that teachers ought to be compelled to work longer hours, and be, in this respect, more like the clerks in our stores. But it need not be pointed out that the constant and heavy strain upon the teachers' nerves is out of all proportion to that upon those who are employed in our stores, the busiest of whom have little intervals during which their minds and bodies may be at rest. However this may be, the object to be kept in view is the education of our children. That object being gained, we see no reason why the teachers should be compelled to labor a greater number of hours merely because the clerks do so. The question might, of course, be put to a vote; but if so, let it not be to all those who go to make up the electorate of the City Council; but to parents, only. The plan proposed by Mr. James is perfectly feasible and perfectly fair; and if there is to be a vote, let that plan be adopted. But we think, rather, that the members of the School Board will act wisely if they let the matter drop.

THE PATRIOT'S PLEA

THE Patriot pleads not guilty to the charge that it has not been doing its best for the benefit of the farmers. While it must, in fairness, be admitted that the Patriot, as a newspaper, has kept its readers well posted as to the doings of the Dairy Commissioner and Mr. Dillon, yet its editorial columns seldom, if ever, agitate for increased facilities for the benefit of the farmers. The claim made that Dr. Robertson, late M. P. for King's County, was the means of getting Prof. Robertson to start the dairy industry in this Island, is not well founded. Dr. Robertson sat in Parliament from 1887 to 1890, yet during that time there was no movement towards starting the dairy industry in this Province. After the election of Messrs. Macdonald and McLean for King's County, in 1891, the matter was brought to the notice of the Dominion Government, and urgently pressed by those gentlemen. In 1892 the dairy station at New Perth was established, and the next session Messrs. Macdonald and McLean again brought the matter before the Minister of Agriculture, Hon. Mr. Angers, who wrote the following letter to Mr. A. C. Macdonald:

"OTTAWA, March 1st, 1893.

A. C. Macdonald, Esq., M. P., House of Commons:

DEAR SIR,—I have receive your letter, written jointly with Mr. McLean, requesting superintendence and management of five or six new dairy companies now being organized in your county. I have referred the same to Mr. Robertson, the Dairy Commissioner, for report, and should he find it possible to undertake the task, I will be happy to comply with your request.

Yours truly,
A. R. ANGERS."

It was, therefore, owing to the untiring efforts of the Liberal-Conservative members from King's County that the Government were induced to lend their assistance to establishing the dairy industry in P. E. Island. In this, like many other matters that proved beneficial to the farmers, after the benefits have become apparent, the Liberals claim credit for their inception.

No matter what the Patriot may claim regarding its encouragement to farmers, the fact stands out in bold relief that the spirit of its editorials has been discouraging to the people of this Province. And even in the editorial in which it enters the plea of "not guilty" it continues the pessimistic complaint that there is no further opportunity for young farmers in this Island. The writer of that editorial surely does not realize the grave responsibility that rests on those who discourage the young men of this Island from making homes for themselves and the fair partners that the "hanging of a new crane" will necessitate their obtaining. Does it ever strike the mind of that writer that his utterances may be the cause of sending some young farmer to the cities of the United States, where he may sink beneath the temptations that there assail him? What a terrible responsibility rests on those who, by inducing the young farmer to leave this Island, prevent him from making for himself a home in this Province, where the virtues so grandly depicted in the "Cotter's Saturday Night" might be exemplified. And further, the prevention of the formation of that home may cause some innocent young girl to seek employment in the cities where pitfalls abound on every side. Is the editor of the Patriot satisfied to assume responsibility for the ill-fate of those who, through the teaching of that newspaper have lost faith in the country of their birth? The Patriot contends that if four sons live on 100 acres of land three of them must be servants of the fourth. Why should this be the case? Are there not business firms with three or four partners, and why should not the business of farming be carried on jointly by all interested? Co-operation is the secret of the success in farming as well as in other trades or professions; and if one brother have the control of the business would not the others be more satisfied working for him than for strangers in a foreign land? There can be no doubt that the Patriot's plea of "not guilty" can not be sustained, and the only favour that can be extended to it is a "recommendation to mercy."

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

—Guelph Herald:—The Globe says there was a "double political significance" in Laurier's Saturday meetings. There generally is when the eloquent leader, who can face both ways with such charming grace, has the floor.

—It is needless to say that in referring to the Patriot's article as "fair and moderate" we had reference to its general tone and to its treatment of the matter in question, and not to its remarks about THE EXAMINER. The Patriot is accustomed to give blows to THE EXAMINER, and those referred to by the Guardian were not even noticed by us.

—The news that Pictou Academy was last night struck by lightning and destroyed by fire will be heard with great regret. It was admittedly next to Dalhousie College among the educational institutions of Nova Scotia. We have no doubt that it will be speedily rebuilt. But its valuable museum and appurtenances will not so be replaced.

—In one of the leading Journals of Montevideo the following advertisement appeared recently:—"A very rich young woman would like to marry a young man of good family. If necessary, she will pay the debts of her future husband. Send answer, with photograph, to I. P., at the office of the Journal." The inserter of this announcement was no other than one Isaac Meierstein, a merchant tailor, who had just set up an establishment in Montevideo. By this plan he procured photographs of many undesirable customers.

—Montreal Gazette:—According to the reports of Mr. Tarte's speech at Galt he and some of his associates got $100,000 for the charter of the Temiscouata railway, with which went sundry subsidies. It does not appear that the holders of the charter had put in the enterprise any of their own money, so that the $100,000 was clear gain to them. This is made to appear more probable by the added statement that $50,000 of the $100,000 went for political subsidies, which expression probably means bribe money of some kind. If there has been any public or semi-public enterprise with which Mr. Tarte has been connected that has not been associated with boodling of some kind he should up and tell of it. His present style of reminiscences is becoming monotonous, as well as disgusting.

—The Toronto School Board is considering means to secure the use of better English among the pupils and teachers under its control. A reporter of the Mail and Empire recently heard the following expressions used at the door of the McCaul school by pupils: "Say, it was dead easy, and we done the whole gang." "Dey don't own de whole eart, and you bet dey found dat out to-day, didn't dey, boys?" "Dat's wha; we'll do 'em again if dey try to run us down, and dat's right." "De gang soak de hustler comin' on his bike." This is not classical English. It is not even up to the standard of the second and other class writers whose works the manufacturers of Canadian school books delight to delve in for models of expression for the rising generation. The Toronto school board has not begun its work too soon, and it may be that other school boards might with profit follow its example.

—A proposition that has much interest in it has been made by the London Advertiser. It is as follows: "Canada does not yet possess all the powers of self-government that would be advantageous to her. She should be given the right to create lords, dukedoms, earldoms; baronies, knighthoods and all the orders of nobility prevalent in Great Britain and other Old World countries. Without that right, without lords, dukes, and earls and only a limited number of imported baronets and knights, Canada must continue to be at a great disadvantage, as we shall show. Imported, duty free, baronets ies and knighthoods have really no material value to this country, but there are many reasons for believing that live lords, live dukes, and live earls, if existing in plenty here, could divert to the Dominion annually many millions of hard cash that are now gathered into the coffers of needy Old World nobility" Coming, as it does, from a leading Liberal newspaper, says the Mail and Empire, it is quite within the bounds of possibility that Mr. Laurier will make the scheme a plank in his trade policy. He has, to be sure, an objection to titles, but if the prosperity of his country could be advanced thereby, he would, no doubt, change his opinion on the subject.

ST. VINCENT DE PAUL.—In consequence of the approach of winter the members of the St. Vincent de Paul conference find their resources altogether inadequate to the calls made upon them by the poor. Consequently they have decided to inaugurate a series of entertainments similar to those which proved so successful and were so liberally patronized last winter. The best talent available will be secured, and those who attend may expect to enjoy themselves, while, at the same time, they will be assisting a most worthy object. The first entertainment will be held in St. Patrick's Hall on Monday evening next, 28th inst.

EXERCISE AND THE BICYCLE.

Written for "American Youth" by Wm. D. H. Brown, M. D., Ph. D., of Chicago.

In this age of advancement man is always seeking out something new and better than the best. In forms of exercise is this especially seen, and enthusiasts of the wheel claim the bicycle to be the exercise, par excellence. Physical exercise is necessary to all mankind, and one of the best promoters of our well being, and each person, as a rule, has his or her favorite. In taking exercise for the best effect, natural position is necessary, and one of the most important factors to be considered is avoidance of pressure or cramping of any of the vital organs of the body. Judicious exercise is needful; extremes are bad. There are few exercises which one is more liable to overdo than in bicycling. One hears it often remarked, "I went so much farther than I expected and did not know how tired I was until next day." This condition of excitement and over-doing tells sooner or later, and exhaustion often follows more frequently than one would at first believe. It is true it has points of excellence over walking in the way of easily getting a change of scenery, the effect of which on the mind is exhilirating, and of great benefit, and becomes fascinating to the point of excitement. But when this is conjoined to the constrained position, the already tired condition of the rider, and the tension of mind and body necessary in looking at and avoiding all the objects that present themselves, exhausts the rider and accounts, in many instances, for the pale and haggard countenances one sees among the devotees of the wheel. The brain centre presiding over co-ordination of movement, is not so much affected after one learns to ride as those of sight and sound. The point of main interest is the amount of physical ability caused by its use, as well as abuse. This is seen in men and women alike. In men no form of exercise tends more to produce enlargement of the prostrate gland from pressure by position on parts beneath, producing, in many cases, inflammatory conditions, by no means easy to get rid of. In women and girls serious trouble is often caused, and many are broken down in health thereby. (This question is considered in its medical aspect in the American Health Journal.) As an exercise, bicycle riding has many advantages, as well as disadvantages, and the wheel must be remodelled before we can expect the most beneficial results.—From American Youth.

THE SCHOOL QUESTION.

MR. EDITOR,—Re our "School Question" we have only this to say, that while the proposed change may better please some who are not very far from the school, we who are at a great distance will be compelled to allow our children to attend but "one session" each day. The majority may of course rule, but the minority have rights which must be respected. We don't believe the majority want any change in favor of which we have not seen one good valid reason. It is utterly impossible for children in this part of the town, during the wet and stormy days of fall, winter and spring, to attend more than one session. Who asks for the change anyway? We advise The Powers to go slow in this matter. There is in this part of the town a very strong feeling against it.

Results of Arctic Exploration

LONDON, Oct. 24.—A long account of the Jackson-Harmsworth Polar expedition, compiled from Jackson's journals is being printed. It is mainly interesting for its amplification of facts and observations which prove the map and character of Franz Josef land, hitherto accepted, to be very inaccurate. It instances the discovery of a sea and islands where the mainland was supposed to be. Markham Sound and the territory to northward are shown to be totally different from their delineation on the previous maps. The mountains mentioned in the accounts of the Austrian expedition are invisible on the clearest day. The experience of the explorers has proved the ponies taken with them to be of the greatest value.

To Druggists and Dealers Generally

Whenever you have a call for that grand pain reliever, Prussian Oil, if you have not got it in stock, send at once for it to Brown & Webb, Simson Bros. & Co., or Forsythe, Sutcliffe & Co., Halifax; T. B. Barker & Sons, or S. McDiarmid, St. John; Reddin Bros., Charlottetown; J. A. Gourlie, Summerside, or to the manufacturers, G. J. Cox & Sons, Halifax.

It is gaining ground at a most wonderful rate everywhere. There is no doubt about it's being "the quickest pain reliever in the world for man or beast." Use it and prove it.

AN ISLANDER KILLED.—The Great Falls, Montana, Tribune, contains particulars of the death of Charles A. McLure, the youngest son of Mr. Alex. McLure, of Bradalbane, in this province. It seems that Mr. McLure was conductor of a freight train which was being made up at Havre. A stock train was en route to Havre from Grand Falls and in hastening to clear the track Mr. McLure, to facilitate matters, went between two cars to make a coupling. The engine of his train was several rods from the cars slowly backing up to them. On the other side of the cars was a heavy train. The engineer was not aboard and the fireman for some unaccountable reason ran up towards the cars between which Mr. McLure was working. The brakeman signalled the fireman to stop. He heeded not the signal and his heavy train striking the other cars Mr. McLure was knocked down and fell directly across the track. Three trucks passed over his body striking him first on the chin passing over the neck and chest and almost severing one leg from the body. The train men discovered the body in a few seconds but life was then extinct. The deceased was about twenty-six years of age, and was deservedly esteemed by all who knew him. His body was interred in Highland cemetery, the funeral being largely attended. The relatives of the deceased have the sympathy of THE EXAMINER in their affliction.

The Mayhew-Stone Appeal Case

OTTAWA, Oct. 26.

Sir Mackenzie Bowell and Sir C. H. Tupper leave to-day for Washington in connection with the Behring Sea matter.

Lieut. C. D. McDonald, Adjutant of the 63rd Battalion, Halifax, is in town. He is interesting himself to secure the reinstatement of Colonel Worsley as D. A. G. for the Nova Scotia district.

In the Supreme Court, yesterday, the case of Mayhew vs. Stone was the only one argued. The appellant was the administrator de bonis non of his father's estate, and the suit was to recover from the respondent $1,000 paid to her by a former administratrix of the same estate. The respondent was step-daughter of the deceased, and went to live with him when 13 years old. She alleged that fifteen years after the deceased moved into a new house and agreed that the respondent would provide for her at his death. Not having done so, she claimed $1,000 from his estate, which was paid her. The Master of the Rolls of P. E. Island held that the agreement for service was not proven. The Court of appeal reversed this judgment, and dismissed the suit. Judgment reserved.
