Testimonial From Duluth, Minnesota.

DEAR MRS. ROSS.—Having tested your "MAGIC HEALER," I wish to express my gratitude to you by this testimonial, which you can use, if you think it will assist you in selling it: Having cut my hand severely with a chisel, the corner of the chisel having entered the palm of my hand, making a long and deep cut, I applied your "MAGIC HEALER" at once, and after three applications I was able to go to work, and in three days the cut was healed up.
Yours truly,
ALONZO H. LAVERS.

A PROMINENT CLERGYMAN, whose name I am at liberty to reveal on application, writes as follows:—

Mr. A. J. JOHNSON:—
Dear Sir,—For a number of years I have been suffering from indigestion and its consequent troubles. Some months since, however, I was advised to try your "Everybody's Pills," and am happy to say I am now free from any symptoms of indigestion. I regard "Everybody's Pills" as a thoroughly reliable Family Medicine, mild in their action, and having no unpleasant after-effects so common to such remedies, and I would, with confidence, recommend all who have suffered as I have to try "Everybody's Pills."
Yours very cordially,

THE DAILY EXAMINER.

NOVEMBER 27, 1890.

Notes and Comments.

—The captain of the steamer Luzitania reports that while the vessel was passing through the Red Sea a beautiful young English girl, Miss McKnight, who took passage at Melbourne and was coming to England to be married, jumped overboard. She was depressed in spirits, and was heard to regret that she had consented to wed. On the night of November 3rd Miss McKnight suddenly broke off a conversation with some fellow passengers, and mounting the rail leaped into the sea. The steamer was hoisted and boats lowered, but nothing could be seen of the girl. It is supposed she was eaten by a shark.

—There is no boasting about the bush by United States advocates of unrestricted reciprocity. As Mr. Chauncey Depew puts it: "Whatever tariff laws existed in the United States should be adopted by the Canadian Parliament and become applicable alike along all the coasts of this Republic and Canada as against the rest of the world." This is what Erastus Wiman said when he brought the policy into being. This is what the Canadian Liberals would take from Washington. And what a proud sight it would be to see a minority in the United States Congress enforcing a McKinley bill not only on the opposing majority of their own countrymen, but on the whole of the commercially attached Canada!

—Canada, from the physical conformation of a considerable portion of it, abounds in bridges of almost every conceivable style and material. One of the latest and not the least remarkable of these structures is the railway bridge across the Kootenay, near Nelson, B. C. It is one of the longest of the class of single-span wooden truss bridges in the Dominion, the main span being more than 189 feet long. The river at this point is so rapid that it is impossible to put up false work, so that it must be thrown across without the aid of that usual device. The castings for the bridge were made at Montreal, and the heaviest piece weighs 950 pounds. The timber used in its construction was (all except the stringers, which were brought from the coast) obtained at points along the river between Kootenay Lake and Sprout.

—The last number of the Dominion Illustrated contains, as usual, an excellent variety of engravings and letter-press. A charming series of landscape views of the rocky beauties of Muskoka—the sportsman's paradise—deserve special mention, while a couple of fishing scenes in Gaspe are of a character. An admirable summary is given of the recent visit to Canada of the members of the Iron and Steel Institute of Great Britain to which is added an excellent engraving of the whole party on the steps of the City Hall, Hamilton; while the sad event which so lately occurred at St. John, N. B.—the heroic, though unsuccessful, attempt by Fred. Young to rescue a lad from a watery grave—is fully illustrated. The fourth paper of the series on "Historic Canada" is devoted to Fort Gabriel, near Montreal. A faithful portrait and sketch of our famous military writer, Lieut.-Col. Denison, of Toronto, and a lifelike picture of the first eleven of the Vancouver Cricket Club give much additional interest to the publication. Altogether the number is an excellent one, and should be in the hands of all patriotic Canadians. It is published by the Sabiston Lithographic and Publishing Company, Montreal.

—The total quantity of coal mined in the county of Pictou in 1884 was 221,849 tons. If the condition of the mining industry was then flourishing, what shall be said of it in 1889, when the output of the mines in the same county was 431,380 tons. From the Acadia mine alone there was taken last year 257,607 tons of coal, and from the Intercolonial 125,957 tons. In 1884 the total output of all the mines on Cape Breton island was 349,902 tons. The quantity raised in 1889 was 834,458 tons, or considerably more than double the product of the year 1884. In 1884 the Cumberland county coal field produced 18,077 tons of coal. In 1889 the Cumberland yield was 490,432 tons. Twenty-six hundred per cent. will be regarded as a very fair rate of increase. The total output of the mines in Nova Scotia in 1884 was 589,828 tons. The output in 1889 1,756,270 tons—an increase of two hundred per cent. The year 1884 was the tenth full year of the reciprocity treaty. It is not improbable, therefore, that the coal interest of Nova Scotia stands to lose more than to gain by a return to reciprocity in that article. Nevertheless the broader consideration of the greatest good for the greatest number would doubtless lead to the acceptance of free trade in coal if the Americans would only consent.

Literary Note.

The World's Desire, by H. Rider Haggard and Andrew Lang. After Odysseus returns from his second wandering and finds his home at Ithica destroyed, Aphrodite shows him the World's Desire, which is Love, in the form of Fair Helen of Troy, who is still alive. Odysseus forgets his troubles and grows young again at the sight, and after many dangers finds the fair Helen in Egypt. It is the time of the ten plagues, and we have some sensational scenes in this portion of the book. Odysseus allows Sin to overcome his heart's love for the World's Desire, and is deceived by the Egyptian Queen, who is in love with him. He breaks a vow he made the Goddess, and loses Helen. Finally, he dies in a great battle with his own people, and breathes his last in Helen's arms. There is bloodshed and magic enough in the story to satisfy even admirers of She. The aim of the book seems to be to show that when Love and Sin come together, and the latter overcomes the former, nothing but misery ensues. Otherwise the book has little to commend it, although it is exciting reading. Robert Bryce, Toronto, publisher.

The Kings of England.

First William the Norman,
Then William, his son,
Henry, Stephen and Henry;
Then Richard and John,
Next Henry the Third.
Edwards, one, two and three.
And again after Richard
Three Henrys we see.
Two Edwards, third Richard,
If rightly I guess,
Two Henrys, sixth Edward,
Queen Mary, Queen Bess,
Then James, the Scotchman,
Then Charles, whom they slew,
Yet received after Cromwell
Another Charles, too.
Next James the Second
Ascended the throne,
Then good William and Mary
Together came on,
Then Anne, Georges four,
And fourth William all past,
God sent Queen Victoria,
May she long be the last.

Sister's Heroic Sacrifice.

LITTLE EMMA ORESCH GIVES UP A BIG SLICE OF SKIN FOR A GRAFT.

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 24.—A remarkable surgical operation, involving an act of heroic sacrifice on the part of a child, was witnessed yesterday afternoon at Grace hospital. Matilda Oresch, a ten-year-old girl, had her entire scalp and left ear wrenched off last Saturday by her hair getting caught in a shaft. Attempts to place the scalp back and make it grow were futile, and to-day surgeons tried a new tack. The wound was so large that it would require a tremendous graft to save the child. The little girl's sister Emma, 12 old years old, who knew what was wanted, offered to spare her skin for the purpose.

The doctors put both girls under the influence of chloroform, and then cut a piece of flesh eight inches long and five inches wide from Emma's side and breast, leaving one side intact. The loose end was then attached to the flesh on Matilda's head, and the two little ones were bound together so that they could not pull apart. Heroic little Emma will be tied to her sister by those bandages for four days, in which the doctors expect the flesh and the union of the skin to be completed.

It is the first case on record where a graft of this size has been made, and the medical fraternity have been watching the case with great interest.

To Give Stanley Points.

FOUR YOUNG PITTSBURGERS TO EXPLORE THE MYSTERIES OF AFRICA.

Four young men will leave Pittsburg, Penn., on Monday, to imitate Stanley and his co-explorers. They have been reading Stanley's book, letters and lectures, and are of the opinion that he greatly magnifies the hardships and privations of exploration in the dark continent. They also take sides against the great explorer in the Bartlett controversy, and that is one object of their proposed adventure. They think they can get authentic evidence in Africa to prove that Stanley has mis-stated the case. The young men are Michael Hawkins, an iron worker of that city; Thomas Collins, a mill-worker of Cleveland; Martin Conway, a roller in a Youngstown, Ohio, mill; and George Jackson, a roll turner of Akron, Ohio. They will sail from New York to Liverpool on Tuesday. They are unmarried men and have each saved up several thousand dollars, which they propose to spend in seeing darkest Africa. Mr. Hawkins, before boarding the Cleveland train said: "We are thoroughly prepared for the trip, and expect to show the American people that it can be made without so much fuss and with less misfortune, hardship or loss of life than Stanley leads the public to believe. At least what Stanley has done others can do, and we are in for the trial."

Girls Who Make Poor Wives.

I never see a petted, pampered girl who is yielded to in every whim by servants and parents, that I do not sigh with pity for the man who will some day be her husband. It is the worshipped daughter, who has been taught that her whims and wishes are supreme in a household, who makes marriage a failure all her life. She has had her way in things great and small; and when she desired dresses, pleasures or journeys which were beyond the family purse, she carried the day with tears or sulks, or posing as a martyr. The parents sacrificed and suffered for her sake, hoping finally to see her well married. They carefully hid her faults from her suitors who seek her hand, and she is ever ready with smiles and allurements to win the hearts of men, and the average man is as blind to the faults of a pretty girl as a newly-hatched bird is blind to the worms upon the trees about him. He thinks her little pettish ways are mere girlish moods; but when she becomes his wife and reveals her selfish and cruel nature, he is grieved and hurt to think fate has been so unkind to him.—ELLA WHEELER WILCOX in Ladies' Home Journal.
