By PIUS CALLAGHAN

SAINT DUNSTAN'S University Varsity hockey team fooled just about everybody Saturday with their 6-5 victory over Pete Kelly's Red Raiders from the University of New Brunswick.

It was the last chance for the local Red and White to chalk up a victory in the N.B.-P.E.I. intercollegiate hockey loop and you couldn't find a person—even among the most ardent Saints' supporters—who would give you a plug nickel for the locals' chances to grab a win at the expense of the Fredericton scholars. Saints had lost two games to Saint Thomas, two to Mount Allison and one to U.N.B. before Saturday night's battle. Last weekend they had visited Saint Thomas and the Red Raiders were beaten 10-0 and 8-0. In view of these blankings one could hardly be expected to get excited about Saints' chances on Saturday.

HOWEVER, as we have stated many times before, you can't figure out these college teams. The very time you expect them to fall easy victims, they'll bounce right up with a performance that is good for victory. Saints seemed almost certain to go through this season's intercollegiate play without a triumph. Saturday was their last chance and it didn't look the least bit hopeful. However, those Red and White players didn't like the thought of S.D.U. history having it to say that the Varsity squad of 1958-59 couldn't win an intercollegiate game. That would not have made very interesting reading, so the young hockeyists went to work to see to it that history would not have to record such unpleasantness. They grabbed that early 4-0 lead and then managed to hang on against the visiting collegians.

THIS SEASON'S edition of the local Saints will certainly not go into the record books as an outstanding team. They've looked awful in a lot of their play and never were serious contenders for top honors, either in intercollegiate play or in the Charlottetown and District League. But in both these competitions they managed wins that gave them terrific satisfaction. The first one was that surprise 5-4 victory over Summerside Aces and, of course, the other was Saturday night.

Saturday's triumph didn't do anything for Saints but save them a bit of prestige. But it did do something for those U.N.B. boys. It cost them a playoff against St. Thomas. The Red Raiders lost second place to Mount Allison when they failed to beat Saints Saturday. And nobody on that Fredericton squad had, for a moment, expected anything like this to happen.

But it did, now, U.N.B. like Saint Dunstan's, will watch the playoffs from the sidelines. And in those playoffs, the Mounties from Sackville shouldn't prove any great puzzle to the Tommies from Chatham.

TONIGHT IN SUMMERSIDE'S Civic Stadium there is supposed to be a hockey game that will decide a winner in the C and D hockey league semi-finals. Summerside Aces and Navy Tars are deadlocked 1-1 in a best-of-three series with tonight's winner scheduled to meet the survivor of the Royals-Juicer Garrison series.

But as we write this column, there are many queer things supposed to be going on. Navy wants the first game, which they lost 6-3, thrown out because Phillips, the referee that Summerside took along, wasn't approved by the league. Summerside, on the other hand, have a counterclaim. They don't think Friday's game (they lost that one 6-3) should count because Apps Arsenault, who was thrown out of Thursday's game for his attack on Phillips, was allowed to play. They contend that Apps' case called for an automatic suspension but the league didn't take action.

Perhaps the league, minus its president Commander John N. Kenny who is out of the province, will have acted by the time you read this column. Even if it has, we contend the meeting is much too late. This referee question has been a joke all year long with persons handling games that had not been approved by the clubs. Then occurrences such as Thursday's happenings take place then the league should definitely take action before the teams meet again. This the league didn't do and Friday's game went ahead with no consideration given to Thursday's wild scenes.

THIS SHOULD certainly be the end of an 'outlaw' league. All winter lineups were juggled crazily around with players on one team tonight and tomorrow on another. There were a few wild protests but if the league took any action to halt the nonsense, we failed to hear about it. We understood there was a league deadline for players but if there was everybody must have forgotten about it. It would seem that the league was allowed to slip out of control and once it had drifted away, no attempt was made by league officials to get it back on the right path again.

Attendances have been horrible all season but we think the way the whole show has been conducted has done much to discourage folks from turning out. If the league executive don't show interest, there's little chance of the general public getting excited about what's going on.

It's been a really sad show right from the beginning.

PRINCE OF WALES Juveniles won another game over the weekend to close in on the Saint Dunstan's Juveniles who are leading the City Juvenile loop with three wins and one loss. That loss, that the Red and Whiners suffered came last Wednesday at the hands of these same Welshmen who are serving notice that they intend going all out to cop provincial juvenile honors.

It looked at first like Saints were going to run off with this City League title. However of late, the city collegians are showing plenty of class and are at least even choices with the Saints. Abbies, who dropped that 3-1 decision to P.W.C. on Saturday night, had better get moving fast if they want to make these city playoffs. We understand the first two teams are to play off for the Charlottetown crown with that victor meeting the winner of the Summerside-Kensington series.

Saturday's Minor Hockey Results

Saturday was another busy successful day for the city's minor hockeyists at Sports Arena. Following are the results in which it will be noted three game forfeitures took place because of teams using players not registered on their lineups.

Teams are again reminded that regardless of their goals scored, etc., they can win games only with their own players.
