THE DAILY EXAMINER.

AUGUST 14, 1882.

Blake Under the Friendly Lash.

MR. BLAIN was a Reformer representing West York in the Dominion Parliament from 1872 to 1878. Mr. Blain has published a tender and loving criticism to his leader, and some of the salient points of that criticism are worthy of notice. The Reformer attributes the unpopularity of the Grits to the mismanagement of both Mr. Blake and the Globe, and this is the way he views the last rout of the party at the polls:—

"The Reform party have been so disastrously defeated that its steady supporters admit its absolute destruction, and are now listlessly staring about in vain hopes of finding some way out of the situation. While I do not exonerate the Globe from its full share of the responsibility for the late disaster, a candid enquiry will show that the true cause arose from the course pursued by the leader himself. He (Mr. Blake) has run headlong on the breakers, and has sunk himself and all his followers; it is literally true that he has wrecked the ship."

Mr. Blain does not only demolish in his denunciations, but he suggests a way of rebuilding the shattered frame of the weak Grit body. He proposes either the complete abandonment, by the Reform party, of its antagonism to the National Policy, or else the formation of a third party of Grits who believe in protection. Now these propositions are rather hard nuts to both Mr. Blake and the Globe. The Reformers who are beginning to believe in the future of this splendid country had better throw up the miserable pretence of sailing in the shattered ship of gritism, and join at once the ship which is carrying, and shall continue to carry, the best of Canada's sons on their triumphant voyage of successfully piloting the destiny of Canada.

Was it a Breach of Neutrality?

M. de Lesseps now contends that the passage of war ships through the Suez Canal constitutes a breach of neutrality. M. de Lesseps must have a defective memory. On May 10, 1877, that gentleman presented a memorandum to Lord Derby, acknowledging that the passage for ships of war had always existed, and actually proposing that the freedom should be assured by international agreement. Here are his exact words:—"Since the opening of the Suez Canal, in 1869, complete liberty of passage by the Maritime Canal and the ports connected with it, has been maintained both for ships of state and ships of commerce, even on the part of belligerent powers at the time of the Franco-German war. The Government of ———, this day agree to uphold the same liberty for every ship of war or of commerce, whatever be its flag, and without exception."

Arabi's View of Ramleh.

THE EXAMINER has already published General Alison's official report of the Ramleh affair. Arabi has sent his "official" telegram to Constantinople, and it states, among other things, that, "in two engagements the English have been beaten, leaving forty killed." This military report business is as bad as some political reporting. It was only the other day that one of our contemporaries stated that the local government on this Island now stood 15 to 15. The The curious computation was made in this way:—"The Conservatives had a majority of one, and they have just gained a seat for Mr. Prowse, which makes the House 15 to 15." That's the way the grits console themselves. But they ought to have known better than to teach Arabi such tactics.

Education and Taste.

Education should tend to make the senses delicate, the perceptions accurate, and the moral character of the man steruly true. It should teach us to be pleased with quiet instead of with gaudy colour, with graceful instead of coarse and vulgar form. It should not foster pride peculiar to itself, which leads men to found the pleasure they take in anything, not on the worthiness or beauty of the thing, but because it indicates some greatness, some aping of taste, some display of riches. That is unreal and vulgar. Real Education should teach us never to set custom and semblance above TRUTH. That is, never to like a well said thing better than a true thing; nor a well trained manner better than a sincere manner; nor a chiselled face better than a good natured one, nor to prefer rich and prosperous people to those who are honest. It education forces a well marked distinction between class and class, and causes everything to be more or less despised that has no social rank, then be sure that that kind of education and taste is about as far from the real thing as oleomargarine is from butter.

Burpee's Gift

MR. BURPEE has been showing some public spirit in the formation of a public library. Since then the St. John papers have given Mr. Burpee a huge advertising, and have attempted to make political capital out of the generous act. This is bad taste in its worst form, and the St. John papers deserve severe reproof for this breach of good manners. Why in the name of all that's charitable don't they stop their quarreling over this act? Burpee needs a great deal of white-wash to cover his political stains, but let his charitable bequests speak and work for themselves. Just fancy! the good man will receive his full reward in this world; and what will the end be then?

Distinguished Visitors.

General B. F. Butler, who, it will be remembered, visited this city in his famous yacht America, in 1877, arrived here in the same yacht yesterday morning, and will remain a few days. The General is accompanied by Mr. James Parton, the distinguished author. General Butler is so well known to our readers that it would be idle to introduce him. This we cannot say of Mr. Parton. In the "Men of the Times" we find that Mr. Parton was born in England Feb. 9, 1822, but has been a resident in New York since 1826. He was employed on the staff of the Home Journal of New York for about three years. In 1855 he published the life of "Horace Greeley." His subsequent works have been: "Humorous Poetry of the English Language from Chaucer to Saxe, with notes explanatory and biographical," 1856; "Life and Times of Aaron Burr," 1858; "Life of Andrew Jackson," 3 vols., 1860; "General Butler in New Orleans," 1863; "Life and Times of Benjamin Franklin," 2 vols. 1864; "Life of John Jacob Astor," 1865; "Manual for the Instruction of 'Rings,' Railroad and Political," 1866; "How New York City is Governed," 1866; "Famous Americans of Recent Times," 1867; "The People's Book of Biography," 8 vols., 1868; "Smoking and Drinking," 1868; and "The Danish Islands; are we bound in honor to pay for them?" 1869. Mr. Parton has also contributed to several biographical works, and has been a very constant writer for the "Atlantic Monthly," "Our Young Folks" and "Harper's Monthly."

A short description of the yacht in which this noteworthy gentleman arrived may not be amiss: The "America" was built by Mr. George Sears, of Brooklyn, N. Y., in 1849, and rebuilt seven years ago. In the spring of 1851 the "America went to England and raced for the Queen's Cup, beating all the crack English yachts and bringing the cup to America, where it has remained ever since. Her dimensions are: 101 feet 6 inches over all, 90 feet 6 inches keel, 22 feet 6 inches beam, and 12 feet 9 inches draft of water amidships, having what is called a rocker keel, and 89 tons new American measurement, which is equal to the same number of British tonnage. The following are the dimensions of her spars: mainmast, 81 feet 6 inches; maintopmast, 45 feet; main-boom, 68 feet; foremast, 79 feet; foretopmost, 39 feet; fore gaff and boom, 26 feet each; bowsprit with 17 feet outboard, and the spread of canvas, with all sails set, over 3,000 yards. The "America" lays off the Railway Wharf. She is a general attraction, and was visited by a large number of our citizens to-day.

Description of the "Mosel"

The "Mosel" which lies wrecked near the Lizard was built by Messrs. Claird & Co., at Greenock, on the Clyde, in the latter psrt of 1872. She arrived in New York on January 20, 1873, having accomplished her initial voyage across the Atlantic in twelve days ane six hours. She was an iron propellor, and her dimensions were;—Length 355 feet, beam, 40 feet; depth of hold, 35 feet. Her gross tonnage was 3,500, and her bunkers carried 1,000 ton of coal. She was full-rigged,, had eight metallic lifeboats and two gigs and her decks were of East India teak. Her original machinery was powerful and fine, consisting of inverted direct acting engines of 800-horse power, nominal, with the capacity of working up to 2,500. She had two cylinders 72 inches in diameter, with five feet stroke. The boilers were six in number, with four furnaces to each. The "Mosel" was finely furnished throughout She could accommodate ninety first-class 126 second-class, and 680 steerage passengers, and cost a little over $500,000. She is now valued at $425,000. In last September she was fully repaired and refitted at Glasgow at an expense of $125,000, Her hurricane decks and her turtle backs were renewed, and the second cabin was removed to the main deck, forward. Now engines were placed in her, greatly exceeding in power her old ones The "Mosel" was commanded by Captain Hesse, who has long been in the service of the owners, and possesses their entire confidence. In 1875 a memorable crime was committed by a passenger on the Mosel. In December, while she was lying in Bremenhaven, a case of dynamite was exploded on the wharf, sixty-eight persons being killed and thirty three severly wounded. The vessel was but little injured. The author of the catastrophe was W. H. Thomassen, who had been a blockade runner during the American rebellion, but had latterly lived in Germany.

Mining Boom in Nova Scotia.

Copper is now coming to the front with the rich showing of the Copper Prince Mine at Digby Gut and the sulphurets now being opened at Cape Breton. Throughout the Province the rocks are impregnated with mineral riches that only await the coming of men with knowledge and capital to develop Nova Scotia into the richest mining district of America.

Montague, only seven miles from Halifax, shows as brilliant a record as California in its palmiest days, in proportion to the number of men employed and days' work done. From Strawberry Hill Mine, at Tangier, over $100,000 has been taken. At salmon River, Mt. Uniache, Lunenburg, Chezzetcook, and Oldham thousands of dollars worth of gold has been poured into the laps of the patient miners.

At the Montreal Caledonian Society Gathering, on the 5th inst., the celebrated athlete, Donald Dinnie, took the lead in many of the games. For the information of our Island Competitors, and others interested in these sports, we give the following from the Prize List at Montreal:—

Putting the Light Stone, 14 lb. 1st prize, Donald Dinnie, 46 feet 3 inches; 2nd prize, A. McDonald, Glengarry, 45 feet 6 inches

Miss Fanny Parnell's Remains.

It is the intention to send the body of Fanny Parnell to Ireland by the American teamship line. Mrs. Parnell says that no response has yet been made to the cable message sent Mr. Dillon relative to the interment of the remains in Ireland. The day of the funeral will not be fixed until Mr. Dillon is heard from.

The Hay Crop in England.

Rain has caused the complete failure of the English hay crop, and the loss is estimated to be equal to £10,000,000. For three weeks during the haying season there was a heavy down-pour every day, and it was impossible to get the hay into the rack-yard. It was consequently ruined on the ground. A daily rain for three weeks is too much of a good thing.

Ontario and Quebec Crops.

The crop reports, gathered from about 120 places in Ontario and Quebec, show that the fall wheat is proving to be one of the best crops on record, and that the spring wheat promises rather more than an average yield. Hay is a fair average, barley rather over than under average, peas and oats heavy crops, and roots promising well.

Revival of Ancient Discipline.

The New York Herald's London cable despatch states that, on Sunday last, the unusual spectacle of a young man publicly performing penance in a church was witnessed at Clevedon, Somersetshire. The ceremony consisted in the reading of a confession of guilt by the culprit, and the imposition of a penance by the minister from his pulpit The young man accepted the penance and cheerfully performed it.

Arrest of an American.

Henry George, the American economist, accompanied by an English radical gentleman said to belong to the democratic federation, visited Mr. Matthew Harris at Ballinasloe and afterwards went to Loughrea. There both gentlemen were arrested last Wednesday under the curfew section of the Crime act and kept in custody until they could give a satisfactory account of themselves. All the papers found on Mr. George were taken possession of and retained by the police.

Tour of Boston Clerks.

President Grevy last Wednesday received the deputation of Boston dry goods clerks. One of the deputation made an address to M. Grevy, who replied very cordially, and warmly congratulated the firm who sent their clerks to study the processes of European industry. He hoped that this example of practical democracy would be imited. Tho clerks were to be received by Victor Hugo on Wednesday evening, and by the Prefect of the Department of the Seine on Thursdey, On Wednesday they were present at the sitting of the Chamber of Deputies. Who would'nt be a Boston Dry goods clerk?

Chicago Corners in Pork.

Never in the history of the Chicago market has such a remarkable succession of corners been attempted as during this season. It is now stated that Mr. Armour, the great packer, is manipulating two huge pork deals in connection with Fowler Bros., the Chicago packing company, Higgins & Co., and Murphy & Co. This combination is long, at least 500,000 barrels of pork, which were purchased for August delivery at about $19 30, when there were only 200,000 barrels in sight. This option has advanced $2, and the clique is still pushing it. [Armour yesterday shipped five cars of pork to Kansas City, in order to create the impression that there was no pork there, and the market advanced fifty cents as the result. The plan is to force August pork up and squeeze the shorts. The same deal is manipulating a deal on long futures. Year pork is being heavily bought at about $19.50, with the purpose of forcing November and December up at least $24 per barrel. The combination represents $4,500,000 of capital.

Hard on the Potatoe Bug.

In addition to tho remedies already published in the EXAMINER we publish the following from the Farm:—

After a field is attacked, the usual remedy, as recently stated by us, is ditching. On level ground also, the roller has sometimes been effectually used. Of course this cannot succeed as well where the ground is rough and uneven, for the worms always take shelter in the hollows. The best time to roll is while the worms are feeding, and up among the leaves, for then they are sure to be crushed; at other times they are sheltered and a great number will escape. Anything applied to a field for the purpose of making the foliage distasteful or poisonous to the caterpillars, would ruin the crop and involve great danger both to man and stock; better far to burn the crop at once. As soon as the crop is removed from an infested field, turn in all the hogs you can and also chickens and turkeys; ducks will do a great deal of good by searching for and eating the caterpillars. All these animals will eat the fallen grain, and thus saving it in making flesh and fowl. Sheep turned into the field will kill many of the worms by trampling upon them; especially will this be the case if the flock is large. If crows and blackbirds are visiting the fields, do not let them be disturbed; there never was a crow or blackbird that would not prefer a fat caterpillar to a grain of corn, oats or wheat.
