The Duties on Salt Scare.

The Toronto Mail says:—"The people of the Maritime Provinces hold Mr. McKenzie's trumpeters at their proper value. For instance, how often has the Globe told them that a protective tariff will tax all the articles used in the construction of vessels—because they do so in the States. "Awful!" says the Globe, "you Maritimers will all be ruined when Sir John gets in!" Then it tells them that their fisheries will be all hampered by the salt they need being taxed. "The States do it, you know, and so will Sir John! Terrible!" And the quiet Maritime man, who knows a good deal more about United States tariffs than the Globe thinks, remembers that passage in the United States Act which admits free for ship-building purposes all "lumber, timber, hemp, manilla, and iron and steel rods, bars, spikes, nails and bolts, copper and composition metal," and that other United States Act which allows imported salt to enter free of duty whenever needed for curing fish, and says to himself, "Yes, I fancy the rest you say about Sir John is just as true as this. We must have him in next election." And, speaking of this article of salt, we must again beg the "Globe" for the credit of its order, to learn something of that it means to speak of. Yesterday, it gravely told us, in an article on salt, that "practically, no British salt comes into Ontario. It is consumed almost entirely by the Maritime Province fishermen." Well, there is such a place as Liverpool. If the Globe man will go down one block to Colborne Street, and talk with the pork-packers, they will tell they pack with nothing but Liverpool salt, Goderich not answering so well. They each use from 500 to 2,000 bags yearly of British salt, and Ontario uses many thousand bags of it. Now, when our worthy Bluenose friend, who knows pretty well where the salt which passes in ballast goes to, happens to see the Globe next week, what will he say? "Why, here's a fellow who knows all about me. He knows my politics, who I'll vote for, all about me. But he doesn't know what salt's used next door to him in his own packing establishments." And our Grit contemporary will be properly set down as either ignorant or dishonest.

Canada's Wonderful Twins.

NOW ON EXHIBITION AT THE NEW YORK AQUARIUM.

On the 28th of December last, there was born at San Benoit, a village some forty miles north of Montreal, a pair of twins—both girls, who were joined together in the most remarkable manner, different from the Siamese twins, though, and mentioned at the time in these columns. These are now on exhibition in New York, at the Aquarium, the proprietors thereof having perfected an engagement with the parents. The following is a description of nature's novelty, in the freak of nature referred to.

From their heads to the first lumbar vertebra, the children are possessed of perfectly formed and entirely distinct members but below that point the bodies become one. There is not the slightest deformity about any of their organs. They have two distinct sets of internal organs and four arms, but only one abdomen and two legs. Each child controls one set of organs, but only one leg. Piercing one leg with a pin will produce signs of pain in the face of one child, while the other will be perfectly free from any sensation. They did not act in unison. While one laughs and plays the other sleeps or cries from hunger. Sometimes they both sleep together, and when they both are awake, they have the greatest desire to play with each other's hands. The features are very regular and the face of each child is very pretty for a baby only seven months old. The limbs are as large as those of an ordinary child. Where the two bodies grow into one, the bulk is not increased, but gradually decreases into the usual size. They were exhibited to a number of physicians on Saturday who pronounced the pair to be one of the greatest freaks of nature they had ever seen. They thought the two bodies were merged into one most naturally, and believed the children would live to the average age. The children have been named Rose and Marie.

The parents are Sinn and Anne Doruin, who were born in Marseilles, France, their grand parents still living there. A few years ago Mr. and Mrs. Drouin emigrated to San Benoit and engaged in farming. They are both twenty-six years old, the husband being four days older than the wife. They have only one other child, a girl who is two years old, and who enjoys the best of health and suffers from no deformity. The father is tall and stout. He weighs 180 pounds, is six feet high, and has the appearance of a farmer. The mother is short and stout, and weighs about thirty pounds less than her husband. Both parents are of dark complexion. They speak no English. One child looks very much like its mother, while the other bears a striking resemblance to the father. A very neat cradle and canopy covered with blue silk have been constructed at the Aquarium for the twins. Several elaborate silk dresses have also been prepared for them. Two rooms have been fitted up in the Aquarium for the residence of the parents.

Yellow fever seems to be spreading in the Southern States, Vicksburg being the latest place where it has appeared.

The Depression.

The following remarks of Dr. Tapper (at Sydney) have the true ring about them:—

Now, I may be asked is not the present state of Nova Scotia a state of great depression; and whether the Union is not one of the means which has led to that depression. I answer unhesitatingly and boldly, No. Will any intelligent man in this county or this county pretend for a single moment that the Union has depressed the coal industry of Nova Scotia? Every person knows that the Reciprocity Treaty was repealed before Confederation. I shall show before I sit down, and, I trust, entirely to your satisfaction, not only that it is not in the Union that the cause of the depression of the coal trade is to be sought, but that the only means through which we can hope to see the industry restored is the fact that we have accomplished this Union—(hear, hear.)—and that we have this great Dominion at our back to aid and assist us in restoring it. Every person knows that the shipping industry of the country is depressed; will any man tell me that the Union has depressed it? I say, No; and I will also show you that if that industry is to be improved it will not be by destroying the Union but by supporting it. Will any person tell me that the West India trade of Halifax, the West India trade of Nova Scotia, a very large source of wealth to this country, has been changed in any measure by the fact of Union? I say this: that you understand now that we can only hope for the bringing back of the West India trade by having a sugar trade and sugar refining at Halifax for the Dominion. You understand well that neither the coal industry, the shipping industry nor the sugar refining industry have been injured by the Union, and not only that, but that the only means we have of restoring those industries is to be found in the fact of Union, and that otherwise we could have no redress whatever.

The Smallest of Mothers.

A WOMAN ONLY THIRTY-TWO INCHES IN STATURE—HER MATRIMONIAL EXPERIENCE.

(From the St. Louis Times.)

Mrs. W. H. Bristol, better known as Fannie Burdette, who has been travelling for years with Forepaugh's circus, gave birth on Wednesday night last, in the Commercial Hotel, to a child weighing eight pounds. The mother weighs about fifty pounds and is only thirty-two inches in stature. Her husband is of full size, being six feet in height and weighing 145 pounds. The infant was healthy and well developed, but in order to preserve the life of the mother it was necessary to sacrifice it. The pangs of maternity lasted seven hours, beginning at 8 a.m. and ending at 3 p.m., and had the little woman not possessed an iron constitution she must have died. During the whole of these long hours of agony she maintained almost complete silence, uttering only few moans, and struggling against all extraordinary exhibitions of pain. The couple have been married two years, and this is their second child. The first was much smaller and was still-born. Mr. Bristol was formerly a door-keeper in the employ of Forepaugh's circus, and in this capacity became acquainted with his wife, who was then travelling under the management of that show with a twin brother, who is an inch shorter than herself. They were called the Burdette twins, and always travelled together until Mrs. Burdette's confinement last spring, when the brother continued the engagement alone. They are in the twenty-first year of their age. Mrs. Bristol was born in Montgomery county, Maryland, on a farm near the little village of Damascus, where her parents still dwell. She has a brother and a sister of the ordinary size, and her father is above six feet.

There are rumors of a Russian loan of 400,000,000 roubles being negotiated with the Rothschilds.

The result of the German elections, which took place on Tuesday, it is estimated will retain the Liberals in power.

The evacuation of Shumla was carried out on the 20th instant, the Russians as they entered the city being cheered by the Christian population.

The attention of Mr. Everts has been drawn to the fact of slavery existing in Cuba, and requesting the United States to protest against it.

The Rome Liberator talks of a Franco-Italian union in defence of the Hellenic cause, and for the mutual benefit of their common interests in the Mediterranean.

An Astonishing Fact.

A large proportion of the American people are to-day dying from the effects of Dyspepsia or disordered liver. The result of these diseases upon the masses of intelligent and valuable people is most alarming, making life actually a burden instead of a pleasant existence to be. There is no good reason for this, if you will only throw aside prejudice and skepticism, take the advice of druggists and your friends, and try one bottle of Green's August Flower. Your speedy relief is certain. Millions of bottles of this medicine have been given away to try its virtues, with satisfactory results in every case. You can buy a sample bottle for 19 cents to try. Three doses will relieve the worst case. Positively sold by all druggists on the Western Continent.
