The Presbyterians

HAVE 164,500 MEMBERS IN THE CHURCH IN CANADA.—LAST YEAR THEY RAISED FOR CHURCH PURPOSES $2,093,278.

At the meeting of the Presbyterian Assembly in Ottawa, a few days ago, the report on statistics was presented. The report is very full and encouraging, showing a hopeful increase in almost every department of the Church work. In the 43 presbyteries there are 975 pastoral charges, having 920 churches and stations, and in addition there are 438 mission stations. In all there are 83,100 families, of which about 22,000 are into the Maritime Provinces. In the mission fields there are 5,140 more. Not connected with these families there are 14,700 sing'e persons. In the whole church there are nearly 164,500 members. 11,750 were added last year on a profession of faith, and 7,592 by certificates. Removals numbered 9,297, being 2,344 by death; 491 or 3 in 1000 by discipline and 7,240 by certificate. The removals by certificate in the Maritime Synod were 1,[illegible]36. The number received by certificate by the whole church was larger than that removed in the same, which shows that our population tends to move westward. There were 10,943 infants and 1,054 adults baptized during the year. The church has 5,853 elders and 9,629 other office-bearers. There are about 15,500 engaged in Sunday school work, and nearly 129,000 in the Sunday schools and bible classes. Of women's foreign missionary societies there are 508, an increase of 40, and 429 others. Of general missionary societies' stations there are 552, of which 37 were built last year; 666 new churches were also built. The amount paid by congregations for stipend was over $741,000, and by mission stations over $24,000. For congregational purposes the amount was $1,640,800, and by mission stations $30,900 more. The total for the schemes of the church was $290,160, made up of—

For colleges, over	$65 600
Home Missions	55 300
Augmentation	32 270
Foreign Missions	91,000
Aged and infirm ministers' fund	13,300
Widows and orphans, over	5,900
Assembly fund, over	100

For all purposes there is a grand total of $2,093,278, being $112,229 of an increase over last year. The Maritime Synod gave $337,790 for all purposes and $46,170 for the schemes of the church, showing an increase in contributions for the schemes of $6,513 over the previous year. In 1878 the reports showed a total for all purposes of only $782,672, and in only one year since has there been any decrease. The average contributions per family for all purposes is $24.72 and per communicant $13; for stipend there are respectively $3.93 and $4.63, and for missionary and other schemes $3.46 per family and $1.82 per communicant, being an increase in every case.

Personal.

W. E. Dawson, Esq., left this morning to attend the Methodist Conference at Fredericton.

It is said that William O'Brien, John Dillon and John Redmond have been appointed delegates to make a tour of America in the autumn in the interests of the Irish Nationalist movement.

A Berlin despatch states that Princess Victoria of Prussia is betrothed to the Prince of Anhalidi Deseu. The marriage will take place ot an early date.

Mr. H. L. Heartz, of Charlottetown, was registered at the Dufferin House, St. John, on the 16th inst. Mr W. S. McKie was registered at the Victoria on the same date.

The Kentucky Leader (June 10) contains a report of the annual commencement of the College of the Bible, from which we clip the following paragraph respecting one of the young men of this Province: "The invocation was delivered by the Rev. J. S. Shouse, after which H. W. Stewart, of Prince Edward Island, the salutatorian of the class of '90, arose and delivered an oration on "Desire for Change Satisfied." The integrity and uprightness of this young man's character was especially commended by the President, and none could doubt his claims to such encomiums after a glance into the rugged honesty of his physiognomy and the keen intelligence of his grey eyes. He spoke forcibly of the inherent distaste of the human mind for monotony, even monotony of beauty, and eloquently drew the mind to how a benign Creator had beneficially furnished diversity everywhere, diversity in the tintings of nature, any one of which is perfect in itself, in the ever-shifting clouds, in the landscapes, in vegetation, and the thousand other things that is afforded for our benefit. With his central theme as an undercurrent, his discourse shifted to things spiritual and abstract, evincing a thoughtful, poetic mind on the part of the speaker, and a deep love of the beautiful, both as regards things spiritual and things material." The Henry W. Stewart herein mentioned is a son of the late John B. Stewart, of Southport, Lot 48, P. E. I.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.—Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used by mothers for children teething for over fifty years with perfect success It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain; and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle. ap18 '90dyeodwkyly

The Berlin Boersen Courier estimates that there are 13,000 different kinds of postage stamps in the world. Last January the Imperial Postal Museum possessed 9,500 sorts, and is now supposed to have at least 2,000 more.

The entire region of the Caucasus in Russia is threatened with devastation by locusts. This may strike with panic the whole population of the district, and cause serious trouble to the government.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Letter from F. W. L. Moore.

SIR,—Finding fault with the present manner of carrying on temperance work, I knew to be a step which would not only earn thanks from nobody, but would bring down upon the head of the critic the wrath of the Pharisees who are, and ever have been, the curse of a good cause.

To convince men of this sort of the possibility of their having made a mistake, in a matter which has been their hobby from boyhood up, is a task which I did not, nor do I now, intend to undertake.

I knew what kind of a nest was being stirred; and, sure enough, out they came, numberless, and nameless—hornets all.

"You must look to yourself," said the Divinity student, "If your notions get into print, you will be fired into from all quarters." "If it were only a bullet, with the marksman's name on it," said the Professor. "I can't stop to pick out the peep-shot of anonymous scribbler's."

One, signing himself "Defendant," has taken up the cudgels in behalf of the Scott Act. Amidst a torrent of abuse, and insinuation, and quotations from authorities which he is either too stupid, or too stubbornly wrong-headed, to see, cut away the very ground on which he attempts to build, the only excuse for a prohibitory law which I have been able to find in his five long letters is this: (1) That intoxicating liquor of all kinds is an evil; that there is no good in it; and (2) that, being such, if the law touches it at all, it must be to suppress it in toto, and not to restrict or lessen its bad effects.

Leaving alone the second part (except to say that it does not follow) the first part of this proposition is contrary to the experience and judgment of all men, in all lands, at all times. Wine and its equivalents have always been used and praised as one of the best gifts of God.

To try to deceive ourselves into the belief that there is no right use for these things, because we see such misery and crime flowing from their wrong use, is to become hypocrites; and to attempt, under pretence of suppressing drunkenness, to deprive others of the right to make a proper use of them, is the part, as it has been well said by Rev. Mr. Little, of Sussex, N. B., of "men who are forever enlarging their own sphere of responsibility, and throwing themselves into convulsions of philanthropic distress over the conduct of their neighbors, whose thoughts and actions they have an unhealthy and unreasonable desire to control and dominate."

As long as the liquor seller is "interested in the abuse of strong drinks," the State will be "justified in imposing restrictions and requiring guarantees" from him; but not in suppressing his shop, because that is "indispensably required for the sake of their legitimate use."

To lay down any universal rule as to what is a "legitimate use" of liquors, is an impossibility; for what may be a good and beneficial use in one case, in another, may be ruinous. Government has often attempted to decide questions of this kind for the people.

In the time of Elizabeth it tried, by monopolies in various trades, to take away the right to buy what goods one likes, from whom one likes.

Throughout the Stuart period every publication was strictly required to pass before a censor, whose duty it was to see that the printing press should be used for none but legitimate purposes.

In our own day we have the Maine law, and the Scott Act, laying down that no one shall obtain liquor, for any but medicinal, sacramental or mechanical uses.

These laws have all been failures. The attempt to decide for people what they shall drink has been a greater farce, if possible, than was the one to dictate for them what they should read.

It is a thing every man must find out for himself. From his training in youth, from the recorded experience of others, and from his own, he should be able to decide this, like other matters of every-day life. "It is the privilege, and proper condition of a human being arrived at the maturity of his faculties, to use and interpret experience in his own way." Some are unfit to make such a decision; some too weak to abide by it. But is society to degrade itself to the level of its lowest? Is it not rather to raise them by education, and example, to what is noblest and best?

Temperance men cannot alter human nature. If they would come down from their high horse, leave alone impossibilities, and go to practical work on the old and God-appointed lines they might do something to better it.

FRED. W. L. MOORE.

News Notes.

A special cablegram from London says the people's delegates from Newfoundland will sail for home on the 24th instant. Nothing further will be done by Lord Knutsford until the arrival of Sir William Whiteway.

The World's Fair stockholders have voted to double the capital stock, making the total $10,000,000. The name of the fair was changed from "The World's Exposition of 1892" to "The World's Columbian Exhibition."

The London Standard censures Mr. Blaine for the sending of "cruisers" to Behring Sea, and says that Britain will retaliate if force is wrongfully used against British subjects or property.

In England, Mr. Henniker Heaton is still keeping up his agitation for ocean penny postage. His figures regarding the growth of over-sea postage in late years show that 1,449,000 more letters were sent to America in 1889 than in the previous year, that the total number of postal exchanges with India rose from 10,000,000 in 1879 to 17,000,000 in 1889, and the total number for Cape Colony from 860,000 in 1880 to 1,500,000 in 1888.
