NEED $10,000 OR MORE

Catholic Social Welfare Drive Opens Monday

In an effort to raise funds with which the Catholic Social Welfare Bureau can continue its aid to the needy during the coming month, beginning next Monday a week-long campaign will be conducted in the adjoining parishes of St. Dunstan's Basilica, Holy Redeemer, and St. Pius Tenth. Plans for the tri-parish drive were completed at a meeting of the campaign workers held in the Bureau's headquarters last night. It is hoped that in the vicinity of $10,000 may be raised by this means, a committee spokesman stated.

CAMPAIGN LEADERS Heading the canvass groups that will operate in each of the three parishes are: Robert Bradley and Roy MacGillivray (St. Dunstan's); Frank MacDonald and Frank Strain (Holy Redeemer); Reginald MacCarville and Dr. Leo McIsaac (St. Pius Tenth). In addition M.F. Hagan will be in charge of the canvass in the Village of Southport.

This present week, various local business houses and individuals are being contacted by a "Special Names" committee headed by Mr. Bradley and Mr. MacGillivray. Earl Nicholson and J.T. Doyle are general chairmen of the drive.

At the general meeting last night it was stressed that all funds realized from the Campaign would be spent within the confines of the three parishes. Campaign leaders noted that this was possible due to the fact that the Bureau staff, all of whom are trained professional social workers, receive no remuneration.

SPENT $27,000 Last year the Catholic Social Welfare Bureau spent approximately $27,000 to help the needy in the three local parishes.

This sum was expended for the following purposes: child maintenance, $11,500; food, $7,000; fuel, $3,000; clothing, $3,000; medicine, $2,500.

In all assistance was given to 400 families during 1957.

In addition the Bureau placed 104 children in foster homes, completed the necessary adoption arrangements for 20 children and partially completed similar arrangements for 33 others.

Last year Bureau nurses visited 1,250 patients, and gave 926 treatments. Another 4,000 persons were interviewed at the Bureau concerning social problems, and 2,500 others were called on at their respective homes.

Pickersgill Sees Compliment To The Liberals

OTTAWA (CP) — J. W. Pickersgill, former Liberal immigration minister, was pleased with Prime Minister Diefenbaker Thursday night.

He said so out loud. The reason: To Mr. Pickersgill's thinking, Mr. Diefenbaker had paid the former Liberal government a high compliment for devising the present system of equalization payments to the provinces under tax-sharing agreements.

Mr. Pickersgill, speaking near the end of the Commons throne speech debate, said Mr. Diefenbaker had acknowledged in an earlier speech that the only way to help the provinces and municipalities was through payments from the federal treasury.

It was "a high compliment to promise to call a federal-municipal conference was a projected meeting with representatives of the Canadian federation of mayors and municipalities—"exactly like those held since 1945" by the former Liberal government. Mr. Diefenbaker had finally realized, like the Liberal government before him, that the only way the central government could deal with the municipalities was through the provinces.

Want Long-Term Coal Assistance OTTAWA (CP) — Long-term coal subventions were suggested in the Commons throne speech debate Tuesday by Robert Muir (PC — Cape Breton North and Victoria).

Mr. Muir said the federal government should establish subventions for five-year periods instead of on a year-to-year basis as at present. The subventions are a transport subsidy to help Maritime and Western coal compete in Central Canada markets.

He said coal producers in Nova Scotia now find it difficult to enter long-term sales agreements because they are not assured of subventions beyond one year. He also suggested tariffs on imports of fuel oil to enable the Maritime coal industry to recapture some of the markets it has lost. Mr. Muir said it is ironic that last year Canada imported 20,000,000 tons of coal while Maritime coal miners were working on a part time basis.

Mass Murderer To Be Hanged

GLASGOW (Reuters) — Peter Anthony Manuel, a swarthy ladies man, Thursday was found guilty of seven murders and sentenced to death.

The handsome, stylish Manuel shot most of his victims—five women, a man and a boy—while they slept in their beds. He was acquitted of an eighth slaying.

The convictions were the largest number of murders attributed to one person in the modern annals of British Crime. The jury of nine men and six women was out only two hours before finding him guilty of two triple murders and a single slaying.
