WE are pleased to see that Mr. D. A. McDonald, Attorney-at-Law, well known in this city, has been placed in an important position by one of the leading law firms of Winnipeg, Manitoba.
THE firm of Hagel & Davis of that city have opened a branch office in the flourishing town of Portage La Prairie. Mr. McDonald has been appointed manager of the branch.
IN announcing the fact to the public, the firm state that they have the fullest confidence that any legal business placed in the hands of Mr. McDonald will be attended to promptly, and give general satisfaction.

BURGALARY.—The residence of Mr. Matthew Redmond, carpenter, who resides on Upper Queen street, has been entered by burglars several times during the past fortnight.
ON every occasion the burglar has been committed in broad daylight, between the hours of seven a. m. and twelve noon.—Mr. Redmond, who is the sole occupant, being away at his work during that time.
THE burglars have carried off a portion of the furniture, breaking doors, besides smashing furniture, breaking doors, glass, etc.
THE attention of the police is called to this case, and we hope they will soon succeed in bringing the offenders to justice.

SNOW-SHOES.—After snow comes the snow-shoe. Yesterday a meeting of gentlemen desirous of forming a snow-shoe club was held in the office of R. R. FitzGerald, Esq.
THE winter's campaign, the prospect of an abundance of snow, and snow-shoe tramps were discussed. A club was formed under favorable auspices, and the following officers were elected:-

President.—Capt. Maxwell, R. N.
1st Vice President.—W. C. Hobkirk, Esq.
2d Vice President.—A. B. Warburton, Esq.
Secretary and Treasurer.—R. H. FitzGerald, Esq.

WE wish the Club a pleasant winter, and every success.

OBITUARY.—The Halifax Herald says:—We regret to announce the death of A. N. Archibald, Secretary of the Book and Tract Society.
TWO months ago while in Cape Breton Mr. Archibald contracted typhoid fever, from the effects of which he died last night, after a lingering illness. He has been engaged some years as a reporter, and three years ago succeeded Mr. McBean as Secretary of the Book and Tract Society.
EARLY in the year he went to Scotland, addressed a number of meetings there, and succeeded in largely augmenting the funds of the society. He was prominently identified with Sunday School work, and every movement for the moral and religious advancement of mankind had his hearty sympathy and active co-operation. He was a good man and a good citizen, and his loss will be keenly felt in the large circle in which he moved, and deeply regretted by thousands of friends and acquaintances in the Maritime Provinces.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Beware of Frauds.
SIR,—I have been informed that an itinerant merchant (I) from abroad is taking orders in the city for plush photograph albums, a sample of which he carries with him. I would not object to his doing so did he not obtain signatures by misrepresentation. One of the parties whom he successfully canvassed has informed me that he was assured that a similar album, sold to him at six dollars, was selling at Chappelle's Bookstore for nine dollars. My informant examined a few of the albums in my stock, and found that these I am selling for three dollars and seventy-five cents are superior to those shown by this canvasser.
ON making this discovery he immediately said that he would refuse to take the album for which he had subscribed, and would advise others to do likewise. I wish to warn the public, both in town and country, against being deceived by these and similar parties who, have no interest in the Province and interfere with legitimate trade.
Yours truly,
THEO. L. CHAPPELLE,
Diamond Bookstore,

DEAR SIR,—I express the feelings of many others besides myself in stating that you acted in a most dignified manner by giving no answer to the emanation in Wednesday's Patriot regarding the "Cruelty to Animals" case which was previously reported. Few in our city but have witnessed some case such as, or worse than, the one described; and the whole community ought to feel proud that you, in your vocation, display the feelings of a true gentleman by exposing crime, even should it be beyond the reach of present punishment.

All honor to "her ladyship," whoever she may be, who shares with you the stigma of having exhibited symptoms of possessing one of the special attributes of the Almighty, and perish the grovelling dispositions which would jay-like, "in borrowed feathers," drag either of you down to their own base level.
I am Sir,
truly yours,
MERCY,
Ch'town, Nov. 30th, 1883.

Concert Last Evening.

SIR,—Who is boss of this concert? was asked last evening by several persons. Concerts generally commence at sharp eight. Last night's one did not commence until twelve or fifteen minutes past the usual hour. This ought not to be. I noticed in the programme published in your paper that Katie this and Katie that were down for solo's. It is customary to add the word Miss. And also, when pieces have been performed more than once or twice in public, the arranger of the programme ought not to be ashamed to give the proper title. For instance, the first chorus ought to read thus: "The God of Israel;" and not "The Lord is my Redeemer." The second: "The moonlight on the Lake," and not "Moonlight." The last one, "Early Dawn," should read "Come rise with the Lark." I notice, Mr. Editor, the brown handle is once more brought into requisition. Where a large number of voices, accompanied by several musical instruments, are performing a difficult chorus, it would be quite the thing for the conductor to use his baton, but not in the kind of music we are favored with. At times it is simply ludicrous. I understand a stock of batons will be imported shortly by our enterprising musical gentlemen on Queen Street, for the leaders of the different choirs in the city and country. Science has made such rapid strides of late that sensible young ladies and gentlemen will not sing unless they are kept at bay with this celebrated musical instrument. I have no desire to criticise the concert, Mr. Editor, as it is naughty to do so.

Supreme Court.

FRIDAY, Nov. 30.
The court opened this morning, the Chief Justice and Mr. Justice Hensley presiding.
Stewart vs. Trossdale.—The defendant in this suit was brought up for examination under the Insolvent Debtor's Act. The main point was whether the defendant was entitled to his allowance, inasmuch as he had given a bill of sale to another creditor; after having been served with the writ in this suit. The Court, however, held that there was nothing to prevent a debtor giving one creditor a preferred lien after proceedings had been commenced against him by another creditor, providing of course that it was a bona fide transaction and not done with fraudulent intent. The prisoner got his order for allowance. N. McLeod for plaintiff; Peters for defendant.
Richard Gorrell appellant, and Isaac Winchester respondent.—This was an appeal from the judgment of Judge Kelly, Judge of the County Court of Prince County, and was heard before the Supreme Court at Summerside, in October last. The case is rather a peculiar one, and attracted a good deal of attention in Prince County. It appears that Fred Gorrell, a son of the appellant, cut a tree partly through and then left it. Shortly afterwards it fell, and in falling killed a horse belonging to the respondent. The respondent Winchester then brought an action in the County Court of Prince County, against the appellant, alleging that his son Fred was his servant, and, therefore, liable for his negligence; and, after two trials judgment was given in favor of Winchester for one hundred dollars and costs. From this judgment the appellant, Gorrell, appealed to the Supreme Court. One very important point in the case was whether Fred Gorrell was or was not the appellant's servant, as Gorrell said that Fred, when he cut the tree, was working for Winchester; while, on the other hand, Winchester said Fred Gorrell was working for his father, the appellant. Judge Kelly decided that Winchester's statement was correct, and his ruling on this point was not only sustained, but approved of by the Supreme Court. Some sixteen witnesses were examined on the appeal.
The Supreme Court this morning gave judgment, dismissing the appeal with costs, and sustaining the judgment of the County Court. Peters and Stewart, for the appellant, Gorrell; Hodgson, Q. C., for the respondent, Winchester.

DIED.
In this city, on the 30th of November, Anne Jemima Hayden, in the 43rd year of her age, the beloved wife of William Stewart.
[Funeral will take place on Sunday next at two p. m., from her late residence on Euston Street.]

PROF SWINE, of Chicago, was convicted of heresy by the Presbyterian church nine years ago, but has since preached to one of the largest and most fashionable congregations of the city. Last Sunday Rev. S. J. McPherson, an eloquent Presbyterian divine, preached in his place. A special meeting of the Presbyterian clergy was called to consider the propriety of his action. It was discovered that Mr. McPherson could not be disciplined under the church rules, but the meeting decided that the act savored of impropriety in that it was setting an example, which it followed, might lead to evil.
