AYER'S

Cherry Pectoral.

No other complaints are so insidious in their attack as those affecting the throat and lungs; none so trifled with by the majority of sufferers. The ordinary cough, cold, resulting perhaps from a trifling or unseasonable ex-posure, is often but the beginning of a fatal sickness. AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL has well proven its efficacy in a forty years' fight with throat and lung diseases, and should be taken in all cases without delay.

A Terrible Cough Cured.
"In 1867 I took a severe cold, which affected my lungs. I had a terrible cough, and passed nights without sleep. The doctors gave me up. I tried AYER'S CHERRY PEC-TORAL, which relieved my lungs, induced sleep, and afforded me the rest necessary for the recovery of my strength. By the continued use of the PECTORAL a permanent cure was effected. I am now 62 years old, hale and hearty, and am satisfied your CHERRY PECTORAL saved me."
HORACE PALMERBROTHERS, Bookingham, Vt., July 16, 1882.

Croup.—A Mother's Tribute.
"While in the country last winter my little boy, three years old, was taken ill with croup; it seemed as if he would die from strangulation. One of the family suggested the use of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, a bottle of which was always kept in the house. This was tried in small and frequent doses, and to our delight in less than half an hour the little patient was breathing easily. The doctor said that the CHERRY PECTORAL had saved my darling's life. Can you wonder at our gratitude? Sincerely yours, MRS. EMMA GIBNEY,
120 West 122nd St., New York, May 16, 1882.

"I have used AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL in my family for several years, and do not hesitate to pronounce the most effective remedy for coughs and colds we have ever tried."
A. J. CHASE,
Lake Crystal, Minn., March 13, 1882.

"I suffered for eight years from Bronchitis, and after trying many remedies with no success, I was cured by the use of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL."
JOSEPH WALDEN,
Byhalis, Miss., April 6, 1882.

"I cannot say enough in praise of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, believing it to be the best for its use I should long since have died from lung troubles."
E. BRADGON,
Palestine, Texas, April 22, 1882.

No case of an affection of the throat or lungs which cannot be promptly relieved by the use of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, and it will always cure when the disease is not already beyond the control of medicine.

Christmas Chimes.

Pownal, usually so staid, in on going has, the last few days, awakened to the pleasant fact that life has other possibilities than the every day round of duties.

Hearts, young and old, have had a few extra throbs, and those not at all painful, in prospect of a spruce tree expected to blossom with all sorts of unseasoned flowers on Xmas Eve. The kindly heart who have helped generous, old Santa Claus in his labor of love, have counted their dollars, speculating, no doubt, but they could make one go as far as five. Last night, before a crowded hall, the first of their labors appeared on the well-lit tree, who Santa Claus himself, in pointed cap, flowing white beard, with pipe in mouth, and long fur robe, distributed the presents to our children eager for the gifts, but half-afraid of the giver.

On Wednesday evening, at the residence of Henry Drake, Esq., one of those gatherings took place to which all youthful hearts look forward with anxious anticipation.
The wedding bells were not rung, but there were all the other accessories to make the occasion a joyous one. Further particulars will be found in another column.

There was waited, for many of the work-shippers last Sabbath morning in the Methodist Church here, a pleasant surprise. A handsome Bell organ, obtained through Mr. Fletcher, costing $150, was placed in the church the day previous, and from its exquisite tone gave perfect satisfaction.

The Christmas Season.

Every year Christmas comes on the same day, with the same truth, to the same hearts, and for the same ends, but every Christmas brings new feelings, new experiences, new relations, new purposes, and those constitute that differentiation that revives the heart and makes all things new.
The fixed Christian festivals are like the regular changes of life, and the true wisdom of living consists in our use of them for the enrichment of our minds and hearts.
Life itself is rich and strong just in proportion to what you put into it. Its ground material is much the same for everyone.
The rational view of life, the view which includes its intelligent direction, shows that its satisfactions grow out of its relation to ideas, objects, aims and truths that are outside of ourselves. It is our attitude toward these that determines the quality of our experiences. Looked at in this light, Christmas is a festival of no ordinary character or meaning. It celebrates the one event in human history which is at once the farthest removed from the range of experience, and the most closely affiliated with the best that is in us. There is that in the incarnation of Jesus Christ, which on the one side almost surpasses human belief, and on the other fulfills human expectation. A large part of the human family have found in the Christ the connecting link between man and God, and all who have in any degree responded to the religious sentiment have found in Him the foremost man of the world. Whether we look at him from the one point or the other, the Christmas festival which his birth inaugurated has obtained almost universal acceptance among Christian people, and has become, like the seasons of nature, one of those fixed ideas which determine the social and religious movement of society. Even in New England, where those who builded better than they knew attempted to exclude Christmas as a relic of paganism, the institution has come to stay, as one of the most abiding things in human life. Its observance compels its continued observance. Those who have experienced in their hearts, in their homes, in their friendships, in their social experience, the joy and satisfaction that Christmas brings, have been most anxious for its yearly repetition, until, in our own time and in our own country, it has come to be an imperative rule that admits of no exceptions. Thousands of persons make their living solely by the manufacture of Christmas goods; the joy of the home circle depends upon their purchase; the gift-exchanges constitute one of the most gratifying and delightful experiences of social life; the charities that flow through the Christmas offerings of church or by the hand bring the message of Christ through very human channels to our fellow-men; the carols in the churches, sung by merry children, not less than the higher worship, in which Christ's virtues and archangels around the Lamb of God, remind the hold that the incarnation of Jesus Christ has gained upon the minds and hearts of men and of all human beings; and the longer we live and the more we enter into the higher sympathies of life, the more Christmas seems to unite heaven and earth in one intimate relation and unbroken existence. There is something about this festival that takes powerful hold of the human affections. It is grounded in the birth of the Christ child, and enlists humanity at its highest and best. It finds people at the point which is best in themselves. There earthly relations, brightened by our joy in the coming of the Christ child centuries ago, increase the happiness of families and strengthen the ties of affection and friendship through all the ranks of society.
There is no festival which returns to those who put their hearts into it, whether in the line of spiritual consecration or in the exercise of kindly feelings. The festival itself touches both on the spiritual and on the human side the affections that brighten and strengthen our social exist-ence.

Good for Souris!

Below is a statement, kindly furnished us by the Sub-Collector of Souris, showing a list of vessels loaded, and their destination, names of shippers, value and description of produce exported, at that Port, from the first of November last, up to the present date. Vessels are still taking in cargoes there, viz: Brig. Christiano, Sch.

From present appearances, navigation will permit of several more being loaded at show that the Eastern capital of King's

The Gospel Army.

LETTER FROM LIEUTENANT BARTLETT TO THE ARMY AND HER FRIENDS IN CHARLOTTE-TOWN.

BRIDGETOWN, N. S., Dec. 18, 1885.

MY DEAR FRIENDS AND FELLOW SOL-DIERS,—Mine today is the pleasure of sending you across the distance that divides us a heartfelt greeting and a sister's love.
I had intended writing before, but though silent you have not been forgotten, and very often I have asked of our Father His richest blessing for the dear friends of Charlottetown. I do trust, my friends, that your souls are prospering, and that you are ever going forward, unfolding the banner under which you have enlisted.

"For Jesus," remembering being we are not our own but bought with a price, even His blood. Then in His strength let us go onward, battling with the foe; forgetting ever the things that are behind; pressing onward toward the goal; "Looking unto Jesus." Here is the grand crot of heroes; being Jesus only. I hoped to have been with you myself before this, but duty has hindered, and I do not know now that I shall return before Spring. I should like very much to return, for I have not found any place I like so well as Charlottetown, and its people shall always have a warm place in my heart—God bless them! My health has not been very good since I left you, yet I have always been able to attend to my duties.—Praise the Lord! Now, dear brothers and sisters in Jesus, to you who have lately started on the
