Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton First Canadian For Award

By JOHN E. BIRD

OTTAWA (CP)—Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, distinguished Canadian soldier, scientist and statesman, has become the first Canadian to receive the Founders Award of the Institute of Electrical and Electronics Engineers.

The award by this international organization with a membership of 172,000 in 32 countries is not an annual one but given only to outstanding persons of unquestioned merit.

The 41½ previous winners since the award was first presented in 1955 have all been from the United States.

Gen. McNaughton, whose last public office was chairman of the Canadian section of the International Joint Commission, will receive the award Wednesday, March 25, at a general international convention of the institute in New York.

The award is being given to Gen. McNaughton "for his inspiring leadership and his personal contributions in the field of electrical engineering and radio communications."

MORE WIDELY KNOWN

A statement issued by the Canadian section of the institute said that while it may appear Gen. McNaughton's endeavors as a soldier, statesman and diplomat overshadow his accomplishments in engineering "it is likely that these other activities are just more widely known."

The institute said that during the First World War the general made important contributions to the development and use of sound - ranging techniques for target location and was quick to encourage the use of radio for communications.

From 1935 to 1939 Gen. McNaughton, as president of the National Research Council, was responsible for a major expansion by the council of research in the electrical, mechanical and aeronautical fields. He encouraged high - voltage research and the use of radio for direction finding and for investigation of the ionosphere.

The institute said that prior to the Second World War Gen. McNaughton and Col. W. A. Steel of the Canadian army developed the cathode ray direction finder widely used during the last war. His knowledge of heavy electrical engineering was helpful to him as joint chairman of the IJC while he was conducting negotiations leading to the St. Lawrence River seaway and power development and later the Columbia River agreements.

"Gen. McNaughton is one of the relatively few engineers to participate in the high councils of our country," the institute said. "The full extent of his influence on, and contributions to the development and well-being of Canada cannot be measured at present, but we know it to be very considerable."

Arson Conviction Quashed In Supreme Court Decision

OTTAWA (CP)—The Supreme Court of Canada quashed an arson conviction Monday on the ground that mobile bunkhouses—the property burned—are not buildings or structures as defined in the Criminal Code.

The court granted an appeal by Vancouver contractor Philip Springman against his Saskatchewan conviction in April, 1963, on a charge of setting fire to his own Nipawin Construction Company camp — trucks and other equipment, including bunkhouses, on wheels.

He drew a two-year prison sentence on conviction under a section of the Criminal Code which carries a maximum penalty of 14 years in jail for a person who wilfully sets fire to a building or structure, whether completed or not.

The Saskatchewan Appeal Court later accepted his argument that his trucks and power equipment were not structures but said two bunkhouses and a combined bunkhouse - office were buildings.

The Supreme Court reversed this decision, ruling that the bunkhouses are not buildings or structures under the Criminal Code.

Bandits And Burglars Score In Montreal, Niagara Falls

MONTREAL (CP) — Three armed and hooded bandits escaped with an estimated $25,000 in weekend deposits Monday from an east-end shopping centre branch of the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce.

Police said bank employees were counting the money shortly before opening time when the bandits smashed their way through a plate-glass window with a metal pipe.

One of them held employees at bay while the others scooped up the weekend receipts, then rifled cashiers' tills.

They sped away in an old green car, which eluded police roadblocks and was found abandoned half an hour later, blocking traffic on a nearby side street.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) Methodical thieves cleaned out more than 100 safety deposit boxes during the weekend after burrowing through three - feet-thick walls into a branch of the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce. A vault containing the general bank funds was not touched.

An official of the bank said it would probably take three days before an estimate can be made of how much was stolen, but police said a large amount was involved.

Police said the thieves may have worked for weeks or months, digging through the wall into the bank from a vacant store adjoining the bank on Bridge Street, one block north of city police headquarters on the fringe of downtown Niagara Falls.

Review Of Libel Award Is Denied

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fawcett Publications, Inc., Publisher of True Magazine, was denied Monday a Supreme Court review of a $75,000 libel award won by Dennit Morris, onetime Oklahoma University alternate fullback.

Morris sued the publisher on the basis of a paragraph in the March, 1956, issue of True Magazine. The paragraph was in an article entitled The Pill That Can Kill Sports. The article dealt with dispensing of pep pills to athletes.

Fawcett's appeal said the paragraph alluded to players on the Oklahoma team but did not name or identify any individuals. A jury in Oklahoma County Court gave the verdict for Morris.

Fawcett said 12 other libel complaints based on the same paragraph are pending in U.S. District Court in Oklahoma City.

Justices Hugo Black and William O. Douglas said they favor hearing the magazine appeal.

The court in a brief order said the appeal had to be dismissed for want of jurisdiction. The court gave no further explanation.

The appeal rejected Monday involved only the case from the Oklahoma state courts.

In 1956, the average Japanese farm income was about $1,400, or about one third of the family's total capital assets.

Russia Makes Threat To Break Up UN

By WILLIAM N. OATIS

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The Soviet Union has stressed it would never help pay for United Nations Congo and Middle East forces and hinted that any challenge to its General Assembly vote on that account might break up the United Nations.

A government statement issued by the Soviet delegation added that if any effort was made to withdraw the vote, "we may be obliged to reconsider our attitude toward United Nations activities."

The International Court of Justice has already ruled against the Soviet Union, saying these are legitimate expenses which must be borne by all members.

The Soviet statement said that any "groundless charges" prompted by Moscow's position would be regarded as "an unfriendly act towards the U.S.S.R."

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	1 ♥	2 ♦	3 ♠
2 NT	Pass	3 NT

Opening lead — seven of spades.

Let's say you're declarer at three notrump and West leads a spade. You can't afford to take the jack, since West might have another spade, so you duck.

East now shifts to the ten of hearts. There is no point in taking the finesse, since West on the bidding is marked with the K-J of hearts in addition to the ace of diamonds. So you go up with the ace to keep the suit under control.

You now play the queen of diamonds and West takes the ace. If West were to return a heart or a club now, your task would be easy, but West returns a diamond instead.

You can count eight sure tricks at this point, and the question is how to get the ninth. Apparently you must score four club tricks to make the contract, but it is by no means sure that you can get them by cashing the A-K-Q, since the jack may not fall.

However, there is no need to tackle clubs yet, so you cash your diamond tricks first, East discarding two spades and a heart, and then take the ace of spades and A-K of clubs.

When you now lead another club and East plays the nine, you are at the crucial point of the hand. Should you finesse the ten, hoping east has the jack, or should you go up with the queen, hoping to catch the jack? You know that you can make nine tricks if you do the right thing, but how can you tell whether the ten or the queen is the right play?

Actually, regardless of who has the jack, you can be certain of making the contract by playing the ten. If the finesse wins, you have nine tricks, while if it loses, you also have nine tricks. This is because, if the finesse loses, West will be forced to lead a heart to your queen, since he is known to be out of spades, diamonds and clubs at this point.
