

BOTH SLAIN

The body of Robert Brand, 17, was found yesterday in Fort Worth, Tex., in a car trunk into which also was stuffed the body of his cousin, Mark Dunham, 16. They had been to a movie with Edna Louise Sullivan, 16, who investigators said had been raped and strangled, although the body was not immediately recovered. Two youths have been charged with murder in the slayings. (AP Wirephoto)

Britain Fighting Disease Outbreak

By HAROLD MORRISON
LONDON (CP) — Britain is fighting its worst foot-and-mouth disease outbreak in six years, with more than 25,000 animals slaughtered at a cost to the government of almost $1,000,000.

A two-week battle to halt spread of the disease in the big sheep-raising county of Northumberland, near the Scottish border, has left grave doubts among officials that the outbreak can be restricted to the 18 farms already blighted.

Farmers estimate that between 500,000 and 1,000,000 sheep may have to be slaughtered if the outbreak continues unabated.

John Woodcock, secretary of the Northumberland branch of the National Farmers' Union, told reporters during the week-end if the disease penetrates the hills north of the sheep-raising centre of Rothbury, there would be nothing to hold it back from Scotland and the neighboring counties of Cumberland and Durham.

The disease appears as a fever in cud-chewing animals. Carcasses must be destroyed to prevent its spread.

FARMS SEALED

Virtually the entire county of Northumberland has been living under siege conditions for two weeks. Affected farms have been sealed off with red posters at every gate warning visitors: "Foot-and-mouth disease — no admittance."

All occupants on these farms remain isolated from their fellow men. Supplies and mail are dumped at the gateways.

The disease has reached within a mile of Cheviot Hills, heart of Northumberland's sheep farms. There is fear foot-and-mouth may also penetrate a forest area filled with deer.

establishing a disease pocket almost-impossible to eradicate.

In another area, 350 acres of private pasture are sealed off by double fences 75 feet apart. This is the home of a rare breed of 35 horned white Chillingham wild cattle.

John Murdoch, secretary of the association which cares for the herd, said that if the cattle are hit by the disease they are unlikely to be spared even though they are extremely rare. Government compensation in this case would not be of much use. The cattle could not be replaced.

PAY COMPENSATION

In most cases compensation paid for slaughter of animals would be sufficient to re-establish herds, though some farmers said money could not replace pedigreed stock that had taken years to develop.

Northumberland is praying for continuance of heavy rain which would discourage hikers and others who continue to move through the county despite the government's appeal that travel be kept to a minimum.

The virulent disease can be spread not only by infected animals but by humans carrying the virus on their footwear or on their clothing.

EX - RULER GETS ASYLUM

BAHREIN (Reuters) — Sheikh Shabbut of Adu Dhabi, deposed Saturday from his rulership and deprived of all his riches, has been granted temporary asylum by the ruler of Bahrain, Sheikh Isa al-Khalifa. The 61-year-old sheikh's future now is a matter for negotiation between the British political resident's office here and Sheikh Zaid, who succeeded his brother as ruler of the oil-producing Persian Gulf state.
