OTTAWA — The Progressive Conservatives haven't finished their inquiring into the matter of government departments handing out legal jobs, carrying fact fees to lawyers who are invariably liberal.

When Parliament meets again on Oct. 9, one of the first things it will do will be to seek more details as to why certain lawyers received such huge fees. The Opposition wants to know the basis on which these fees were set, whether the lawyers or the government paid their expenses, and just what those expenses were.

In the last few weeks since the government tabled two seasonal papers in the Commons to answer queries by John Diefenbaker, (P.C. leader, Sask.), the information contained in those returns has been augmented by information from various other sources.

For example, one lawyer not only collected $20 for every simple property transfer case he handled on behalf of the Veterans' Land Act administration, but also collected expenses from the administration at the rate of $1.25 for every letter he signed, and $5 for every telephone call he made.

One might expect that letter writing and telephoning would be part of the job for which the lawyer was to be paid $20. But no. On being advised by an official of the V.L.A. administration that a certain veteran wanted to buy a certain property, the lawyer wrote to the local notary for the property title and tax certificates. For that, $1.25. If a phone call was made, another $5.00. Then he got his fee of $20 when the property was purchased.

The V.L.A. administration bought legal services in two ways. In most of the districts the practice was to engage the full time services of a solicitor, who was paid about $5,000 a year to handle the comparatively simple legal work involved in property transfers.

In Ontario and Quebec, however, V.L.A. work was farmed out to friends of the Government on a piecework basis, at considerably greater cost to the taxpayers. Some V.L.A. officials suggested that it would be more economical to have a staff lawyer or lawyers for this work, but the suggestions were never acted upon.

The list of lawyers to whom the government paid more than $5,000 in fees since Jan. 1, 1947 reads like a Who's Who in Liberalism. At random, there's H. W. Pope, K. G. of Moose Jaw, president of the Saskatchewan Liberal Association who got $12,760. And Hon. F. P. Brail of Montreal, Liberal member of the Quebec Legislative Council, and his company, Brail, Montpetit and de Grandpre. Their total was $88,743.

There was J. W. G. Hunter, Liberal MP for Toronto-Parkdale, who was paid $45,202. And Paul F. Renault, Montreal lawyer, who got $52,204 worth of government business despite the fact that he's a nephew of Prime Minister St. Laurent. And there were many others — Liberal MPs, MLAs and defeated candidates — who got government work because of their politics.

Biggest payment was the whopping $232,135 which went to Walter C. Thomson, MP and Ontario provincial Liberal leader, for a huge volume of V.L.A. cases. But that didn't anger other Ontario Liberal lawyers nearly as much as the $68,069 paid to N. L. Matthews of Toronto, president of the Ontario Liberal Association. That general legal work, they complained bitterly, should have been spread among members of the legal fraternity. The Liberal section of the legal fraternity that is.

IN MEMORIAM

L. C. MacISAAC

The death of Mr. L. C. MacIsaac at the comparatively early age of forty-nine years, occurred at the Victoria General Hospital, Halifax, on Saturday, June third.

Although Mr. MacIsaac had not enjoyed the best of health for several months, his illness was not considered serious, and the news of his passing came as a distinct shock to his immediate family, his relatives and his numerous friends. He had entered the Charlottetown Hospital for treatment three weeks previous to his death. There his attending physician decided his illness was of a serious nature, and advised his removal to Halifax for an operation, which all hoped might stay the hand of death, at least for a time. However, God willed otherwise and on the above mentioned date, he passed away resigned to God's holy will, and fortified by the last consoling rites of the Holy Catholic Church, of which he was a devout and faithful adherent. Seldom indeed was he absent from Holy Mass at St. Martin's Church, South Shore, of which parish he was a member for practically his whole lifetime.

"L. C." as he was familiarly known to his family and friends was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Donald MacIsaac of Fairview, and spent all his life there except for a few years in Western Canada. His life was truly a useful and industrious one, as is testified by the comfortable farm home which he built and the productive acres surrounding it. He was for the past several years the local storekeeper and as such will be remembered by all as obliging, courteous, and considerate. His integrity, his noble principles, his sterling characteristics and his zealous Christianity, all of which he strove to inculcate in his children, might well be exemplary to one and all who wish to lead an ideal Christian life. Ever ready and willing to participate in community effort, and to encourage and assist those in trouble and need, his presence will be sorely missed and will be difficult to replace.

In the home, where he was a faithful husband and a loving father, he will ever be mourned by his sorrowing wife, the former Eleanor Clow of Kingston, and by his four children, Jean, Louis, Gerald and Donald, all of whom will miss his protection, his love and his guidance. Besides his immediate family, there are left to mourn the loss of a brother, two sisters, Blanche (Mrs. Stanley Taylor) Rocky Point; Madeline (Mrs. Alex. Allan) Charlottetown; Alex. of Fairview and Douglas of Harriville, N. B., who came home during his brother's illness, and again to attend the funeral. Four brothers predeceased him.

The funeral which was one of the largest in the vicinity for some time, was held from the residence of his brother, Alex., to South Shore Church, where Requiem High Mass was celebrated by Rev. Fr. MacLellan, C.S.S.R., who also conducted the service at the grave. The choir was assisted by Mr. Frank Costello of Charlottetown, a close friend of the deceased. His remains were sadly and tenderly laid to rest in the little cemetery adjoining the church, there to await the glorious resurrection, the hope of which is our greatest consolation in times of bereavement and sorrow.

The pallbearers were Alex. MacLaine, Allison MacMillan, Russell MacDougall, Wilbert Currie, Edmond Handrahan and James Dowling. Mrs. MacIsaac and family were the recipients of numerous floral tributes, mass cards and messages of sympathy, from friends, both near and far, for all of which they are deeply grateful.

Following is the list of floral tributes: Pillow: Wife and family. Sprays and Wreaths: Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Taylor and Family; Fairview Women's Institute; Mr. and Mrs. Lee Taylor and family; Ringwood W. I.; Mr. and Mrs. Albert Clow and family; Mr. and Mrs. Gordon MacMillan, Carvell Bros.; P. O. Benevolent Association, Moncton; Mr. and Mrs. Allison MacMillan and family; Mr. and Mrs. Newton Taylor; George Toombs and Staff.

Mass Cards: Wife and Family (High); Perpetual Enrollment in Purgatorial Society; Madeline MacIsaac; Mr. and Mrs. Douglas MacIsaac and family (High); Mr. and Mrs. Moore.

The many beautiful floral offerings received testify to the esteem in which the deceased was held.

GAY'S PLANTS Many farmers and others, have the false impression that cauliflower and cabbage should be planted in June, and that it is too late if not planted at that time. They forget that the seed is planted about six weeks before, say, is the best time to plant for Fall and Winter use, or for shipping. We have the variety that will make firm heads, planted any time in July. More than half a century of experience in this line has enabled us to prove this.
