U.S. Way Is Denounced By Defector To Red China

By VERGIL BERGER

PEKING (Reuters)—Gen. Li Tsung-Jen, a former vice-president of nationalist-ruled China who returned to Communist China after a 16-year exile in the United States, has denounced the American way of life and called for a mass defection from the Nationalist Chinese stronghold of Formosa to the mainland.

The 75-year-old general, who returned to Peking two months ago, was speaking at an unprecedented press conference here before more than 500 Chinese and foreign journalists and cameramen.

Describing his life in Richfield, N.J., where he lived during his exile, he called the United States a country rife with exploitation, where the wealthy wallow in luxury and the poor are unable to maintain a decent living standard.

The general, a bespectacled figure dressed in a simple grey tunic, coupled his attack on the U.S. with an appeal for a mass defection of the inhabitants of Nationalist China in order to unite the island of Formosa with the mainland.

"I believe this is the only honorable path open to us," he declared.

WELCOMES CHINESE

Li added that the Peking government would welcome all Chinese living abroad who want to return to the mainland.

He warned his former colleagues in Formosa to beware of traps set up by U.S. imperialists.

In 1955, he claimed, a Republican party bigwig approached him in Washington for help overthrowing the Nationalist regime of Gen. Chiang Kai-shek. But Li said he could not bring himself to oust a former ally with foreign help.

He condemned the U.S. for perpetrating the occupation of Formosa and said American imperialists "must get off the island and out of the Formosa straits."

"It is for us to decide what methods we shall use to liberate Formosa and no foreign country should interfere," he declared.

Li said he would be willing to go through—"a mountain of fire" to meet Chiang Kai-shek if the Nationalist leader wishes to negotiate.

"I do not believe that the U.S. really regards new (Communist) China as a threat to its security," he said.

ACCUSED OF BLACKOUT

But he accused the U.S. of enforcing a blackout on true information about Communist China and warning against the danger of "the yellow plague."

Asked whether Communist China and the U.S. might go to war, Li replied: "The issue lies entirely with the United States."

The general charged that Khrushchev revionionists in the Soviet Union are working hand-in-hand with U.S. imperialists to bring about world domination by their two countries.

"But in reality the U.S. imperialists will never allow anybody to share their hegemony," Li said.

He refused to answer questions about his finances or relatives still in the United States. Li said those members of his family who have remained in the United States have no freedom of speech and might be questioned by the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Before Li's return to China, an American official said he was living in "not the best of financial circumstances."

MET EMISSARIES

Li flew to Switzerland last July with his wife and a former secretary and was met by two Peking emissaries.

Back in Peking he was received by Chinese leaders and has since been touring the countryside of the northeastern provinces of Liaoning, Heilungchiang and Kirin.

Li held high office in the Nationalist Kuomintang party in China until he led a revolt by generals in Kwangsi province against Chiang Kai-shek.

The revolt failed and Li remained out of favor until 1937, when the various Nationalist factions united to meet the Japanese invasion.

In 1948, he was elected vice-president and the following year became acting president when Chiang Kai-shek stepped down from the presidency in the face of continued victories by the Chinese Communists in acquiring control of the mainland.

Li left China for the U.S. in December, 1949, three months after the Communists took control.

Slain Man Identified From Moncton

MONTREAL (CP) — Police said here a man found slain Sunday in an east-end hotel-room has been identified as Richard White, 24, a laborer from Moncton, N.B., who had been living in Montreal for some months.

Police said an autopsy showed White had been strangled to death, though he had also been stabbed several times.

The dead man was found by a chambermaid. He was unclothed and was tied to the bed by his arms and legs. There was a pillow over his head and a length of string tied around his neck.

White registered in the hotel Friday night and again Saturday night. Police said they are investigating reports he was accompanied by another man on both occasions.

Several other persons staying in the hotel were questioned by police. All were later released.

Police found a small knife in the hotel room. They said they believe it was used in the stabbing and later wiped clean.

CLAIM AIR RAID

TOKYO (AP) — Cambodia claims three planes flew into Cambodian air space from South Viet Nam Thursday and "dropped many bombs," the New China news agency said Saturday. The Peking broadcast dispatch, quoting the Cambodian press agency, described the planes as being U.S.-South Vietnamese.

Prosperity No Licence To Leadership

TORONTO (CP) — North American businessmen must realize that they are not entitled to world leadership just because they live in the richest countries, Robert Gerholz, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, said Monday.

He told the 36th annual meeting of the Canadian chamber that North Americans "are in somewhat the same position as the rich boy in a poor neighborhood who captains the football team because he owns the ball."

"What we should consider now is whether it is enough to be leaders just because we happen at this moment to be rich in a poor world, or whether we want to earn our leadership."

An important job for businessmen was to explain to the rest of the world the advantages of the North American way of life.

"I don't mean boasting about how well off we are in comparison to others, but explaining how a free-market system succeeds because it works for the broad mass of the people not for a handful of over-fed plutocrats as some propagandists would have them believe."

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X B
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♥	1 ♠	2 ♥	Dble

Opening lead—king of spades.

This hand comes from a rubber bridge game in which East made a tactical error by doubling two hearts. It would have been wiser of him to have passed two hearts, or else to have bid two spades, even though he had only a doubleton. West was not blameless in the matter, either; he could have and should have taken the double out to two spades.

South had to play well to make the contract—and he did. West led the K-A of spades and continued with a low spade. Declarer discarded a club from dummy, East ruffing the spade with the eight.

East then cashed the ace of clubs before reurninng a diamond, certain that he would sooner or later get two trump tricks to put declarer down one.

But East made only one trump trick later, despite his holding of the K-J-10 over dummy's Q-9-7, and the result was that South made two hearts doubled.

South knew from the double that East had started with all the missing rumps. He realized, when East reurned a diamond at trick four, that the contract could be made only by executing a trump endplay and thus cutting off one of East's trump tricks.

In line with this thought, South won the diamond with the ten, ruffed a club, played a diamond to the king, ruffed another club, trumped the ace of diamonds in dummy, and then ruffed the queen of clubs. These thoughful plays produced the following position:

INSERT

South now played the queen of diamonds and ruffed it in dummy with the seven. East overruffed with the ten, but then found it impossible to take any more tricks. So South made two hearts doubled.
