A Feature for Every Friday— Among The Farmers Federation Of Agriculture News

Beef Improves
Prominent in the minds of livestock men is the dislocation of beef marketing and prices caused by the outbreak of foot and mouth disease. The sharp decline in cattle prices can be attributed in larger part to the loss of export markets and to uneasiness in the minds of those who make their living by trading.

The situation posed a major problem for the Dominion Government which had early committed itself to protecting the farmer from undue loss due to the outbreak of disease. The packers and traders were not in too good a position to judge just where markets might become stabilized. Farmers in the absence of this information could not easily decide whether it was better to move cattle to market on the chance that prices might further decline or to hold in the hope that conditions might improve.

It is generally agreed that the situation could only be dealt with by Government intervention and the co-operation of the packers and farmers. It should be emphasized now that farmers to a large extent hold in their own hands, the success or failure of the Government plan.

The rushing of large numbers of cattle into the market can have no other effect than to increase the difficulties of the support price now in effect. Prices have already strengthened, will likely remain steady and may even improve, provided that farmers will hold back from market, cattle which need not actually be sold.

Farmers who, for financial reasons, may find it necessary to convert their cattle into cash will generally find that the Banks, Credit Unions and other lending institutions will be sympathetic to the idea of advancing money against fat cattle. This will enable feeders to further develop their livestock and thus assist in keeping marketings at a normal level.

Another Farmer Trims The Drover
"Bill has just come in from John Smith's on the road. Now you go out and buy that red cow he's offering for sale and try and get her for $175.00; but go to $225.00 if you have to." Those instructions were recently overheard being passed on by a local employer to one of his employees. Apparently one drover had just left this farmer after "conditioning" him for the man who was expected to close the deal.

Probably the farmer really "dealt hard" with the "2nd drover" and got the $225.00. And the whole transaction about how he "bargained" with the buyer is being told quite often. But only the buyer and his employee know what the real value of the animal was when killed. It could easily have been $275 or $325 or even more. But grading experiences prove this.

It would seem that some more scientific method of arriving at beef values should be accepted; one great difficulty is that farmers aren't ready for a change. Rather than accept a rail grading or any standard system and all get the same price, the real value of the animal—too many want to get one half cent more than their neighbor. If they can do this they feel they must have done very well, when often the fact is that neither they nor their neighbors got the market price. We are not blaming the drovers, but this is a common occurrence.

Build That Silo
There is every promise of a heavy crop of grass and hay. Farmers with silos of any type are not worried so much about storing it in good shape. From experience, they realize, the wonderful feeding value of grass silage and the labor saved in putting it up.

We know of at least two dozen new upright wooden silos being constructed this year. A few farmers too, are planning to build cement wall silos connected to the barn. But for those who do not feel they can afford either of those types and who perhaps are a little doubtful about the real feeding value of grass silage, we strongly recommend that they dig a trench silo and see for themselves. Government bulldozers are available at a very nominal charge under the supervision of the Agricultural Engineer Mr. McMurtry. And Mr. Tuplin, Agronomist, of the Department of Agriculture will be glad to give advice and assistance to those interested in a trench silo.

This appears to be the year to really try storing grass in the form of silage.

Farm Forum Conference
The annual Conference of National Farm Forum is now in progress at Montreal. It is expected that a resolution from the Island Federation requesting regional broadcasts for three weeks out of each series will provoke some real discussion and perhaps help to localize the Farm Forum broadcast system to some extent.

Co-Ops Have Pension Plan
Like any other large business organization, co-operatives in the Maritime Provinces now have available to their employees a retirement pension plan. It is based on an arrangement with the Co-op Insurance Company and is an indication of the progressive steps now being taken by Co-ops to provide greater service and security to their employees as well as to their members.

Decision Expected In June
Recent unofficial word from Ottawa indicates that the Supreme Court of Canada will hand down its decision on the recent Marketing Legislation case early in June.

More Tariff Concessions
As a result of representations made by the Canadian Federation, a suggestion originating in Alberta, a very important amendment has been made in the tariff schedules respecting tires and tubes.

This amendment recently introduced in the House of Commons by Finance Minister Abbott makes all tires and tubes on all farm machinery free of duty.

Cash Memberships
All farmers in the Island who pay their Federation membership fee in cash have recently been notified that their 1952 dues are now payable. It is hoped that this matter will not be neglected.

Fees can either be sent direct to Federation office or paid to your district secretary. This does not effect members who have their fee deducted by agreement through the Dairy plants. This system must be continued for this year. The proposed re-organization of local Federation units which is planned for next fall will change this system. However, fees must be paid if the Federation work is to be done. The amount is less than one cent per day per farmer.

Radio Listeners Organize
Rising in rebellion against over-commercialization of radio, Italian radio listeners have organized, with several hundred thousand members, into an association. They have become strong enough to force their government to revise the contract with radio stations throughout Italy, a 25-year contract, to limit commercials to 5% of broadcast time, ban singing commercials and any advertising which "may cause disgust to listeners."

Corporation Profits Hit Record High
Ottawa (CUC) — Canadian corporations made $32 million dollars more in 1951 than they did in 1950 — and did it after they paid record taxes and set aside all depreciation, inventory and other reserves.

That's the story told by the latest Financial Post summary of corporation profits.

Heading the profit list were the International Nickel Co. Ltd., which made $43 million in 1951 (up from $49 million in 1950). Consolidated Mining and Smelting (only part of the C.P.R. empire) which brought home $51 million in place of $42 million garnered the year before, and Seagram's (distillers), who made $43 million in 1951.

Biggest increases were chalked up in the lumber business, now pleading poverty in union negotiations on the west coast. Lumber profits rose by almost 50 per cent from 1950 to 1951, according to the "Post" survey, with B. C. Lumber King H. R. MacMillan heading the parade — his net profits rose to $16 million from a 1950 total of $7 million. Nine pulp and paper firms, in an industry which is also resisting wage demands, made $85 million in 1951, 12 per cent up from 1950's $77 million.

Despite record lay-offs and tragic conditions in textile towns throughout Central Canada, the 34 "hard pressed" textile firms included made $17 million in 1951 only slightly less than in 1950 — and they paid more dividends ($10.2 million compared to $9.6 million).

Average return on invested capital for the 326 companies reported on by the Financial Post was 12.5%. That means they'd make enough to buy themselves out all over again in eight years.

Returns for lumber companies ran to 26% on invested capital, for metal firms, to 22%.

"I have never had a failure with Fleischmann's Yeast," says Mrs. Allan Armstrong, who bakes for a table of 12.

Wins Eight Baking Prizes at St. Stephen Fair

Home arts flourish on the stately Armstrong farmstead at Waweg, N.B. In the midst of canning wax beans, blueberries, and mackerel, Mrs. Allan Armstrong still finds time to do a batch of baking for the St. Stephen Exhibition. And when the judging at the 1951 fair was completed, Mrs. Armstrong had taken eight prizes!

Commenting on her success in the field of yeast-raised baking, Mrs. Armstrong says: "I can certainly recommend Fleischmann's Yeast to any one who wants to turn out tip-top baking. My own experience is that you can't beat Fleischmann's for dependable fast rising. I use it constantly."

Good advice! Champion bakers all over the Maritimes make it a rule to use only Fleischmann's Yeast.
