
MONT CARMEL ROAD WASHED OUT

The paved highway between Mont Carmel and Wellington was still closed early yesterday afternoon due to the washout (above) of the asphalt covered culvert about a mile west of Wellington. A crew of men from the department of highways arrived at the scene yesterday afternoon to start making temporary repairs so that traffic over this route can be resumed. In this area too there was pavement damage along the side of the highway due to washouts and undermining of the clay shoulder of the roadway.

Student Counselling Service To Start Fri.

By JEAN MacISAAC
Guardian-Patriot Staff Writer

The first career counselling program for smaller offices of the Unemployment Insurance Commission in Canada will be carried out at the Charlottetown office on Friday of this week, it was announced yesterday by J.B. Murphy, manager of the local branch.

A total of 110 grade 12 students from eight high schools, including 30 students from Charlottetown schools and 80 from country schools, have responded to the programs and forms sent out, he said.

TO ASSIST STUDENTS

The project, designed to assist high school students graduating this year in choosing a career, is under the direction of J.A. Murphy, supervisor of the branch and C.A. Orford, special placement officer.

A special counsellor for each career will talk to the group on particular occupations. He will discuss and answer questions on such matters as wages, educational requirements, personal requirements, working conditions, promotional opportunities the best locations for opportunities and other items.

The film "You can go a long way", in keeping with career counselling, will also be a feature of the program.

Miss Doris Anderson of the staff of Prince of Wales College, will talk to the group interested in home economics.

OTHER SPEAKERS

W. S. MacMurtry, director of the provincial vocational school, will deal with electronics; Dr. K. A. Parker, superintendent of city schools, with teaching; and Mrs. Vernon Bolger, registrar of the P.E.I. Nurses Association, with nursing. W. J. Hancox, publisher and general manager of The Guardian-Patriot, will counsel those interested in careers in the newspaper field.

Dr. F. W. Jelks will deal with careers as laboratory and X-ray technicians; Keith Pickard, with drafting; and A. D. Cameron, manager of Maritime Electric Co. Ltd., with secretarial studies.

Representatives of the RCAF, RCN, and Army will act as counsellors for those interested in a career in the armed services. Counsellors for accounting and banking have not yet been named.

FITS IN WELL

This innovation of career counselling fits in well with present plans for the establishment of a technical high school, and with the broader look given to education in general, Mr. Murley said.

Noting that only grade 12 students would receive counselling this year, he stated that perhaps next year, "or when we have a better assessment of the size of the problem and are able to handle the number of people involved" grade 10 and 11 students would be included.

The Rotary Club, which has been interested in career counselling in various parts of Canada, has been giving a great deal of assistance in this project, he said. William Hayward, retired manager of the Bank of Nova Scotia, represents the Charlottetown Rotary Club, and is taking an active part in the plan, he added.

MUCH PLANNING

A great deal of preparatory work has gone into this program, Mr. Murley said, with officers of the local branch of the National Employment Office visiting the schools.

The Summerside office of the commission will operate its own program.

Larger officers of the Unemployment Insurance Commission have had counselling for many years.

2 Charges Result In Fines Of $125

SUMMERSIDE — Two charges, one of driving a motor vehicle while his abilities were impaired by alcohol, and a second, of driving while his license was suspended, were brought against Harry Gordon Gardiner of Cape Traverse, and he entered pleas of guilty to both charges yesterday before Prince County Magistrate W. Chester S. MacDonald.

He was fined $75 and costs or 15 days on the impaired driving charge and given two weeks to pay it, but was ordered by the magistrate to obtain the $50 fine for the other offence before being released from jail. The penalty on the second charge was $50 or 30 days.

The accused, who was arrested by Cnst. Allan Burchill of the Borden RCMP detachment at Cape Traverse on March 31, originally had his license cancelled after he was convicted on a similar charge of impaired driving.

Another fine of $50 for driving while his license was suspended, was handed out to Herbert James Hardy, of Ellerslie, as the result of his being apprehended in St. Eleanors on March 19.

The crown evidence was heard yesterday in the case of Ralph Bishop, of St. Eleanors, who had been charged with driving while impaired. The case was adjourned until April 24, upon conclusion of the evidence of Cnst. Allan Burchill, who testified that at about 5.35 on the evening of Dec. 30, he was patrolling towards Albany when he noticed a half ton truck turning on to the highway at Carleton.

Cnst. Burchill explained that the vehicle went right across the road in turning left, hit the shoulder and then crossed over to the centre line before straightening out.

He stated that upon stopping the vehicle and asking the accused to get out, he stumbled.

Under cross examination from J. Watson MacNaught, QC, the police constable said that road conditions were very good at Carleton that day and only about four ounces were missing from one pint of liquor found under the driver's seat. Several other bottles were seized at that time.

doubt people feel that there is little in the western part of the Island."

BOTTLENECK

Minister of Tourism J. David Stewart said he has felt that West Prince has been neglected tourist-wise. "The bottleneck," he said, "has been the long stretch of road from Borden west." He said that one factor in favor of the proposed ferry service is that "we are enjoying an ever-increasing tourist business from Quebec." He suggested that the ferry service would only be a factor in increased travel over the route if it saved the tourist time as compared with the 50 extra miles from Fredericton to Charlottetown by way of the Borden service.

Dr. M.L. Bonnell, acting opposition leader, said he supported the resolution but felt that it should go farther than the House and not "sit in our records for years." He said it should go to the Prime Minister, the Island's federal representatives and "anyone who can help us on the matter."

Premier Walter R. Shaw said he had listened to all comments on the resolution and he had nothing further to say except "I admire the energy of those promoting the proposal and will vote in favor of the resolution."

Bill's Approval Is Awaited

Agriculture Minister Andrew MacRae said yesterday that it is necessary to get final approval of a bill in the Legislature before the federal-provincial agreement on crop insurance is signed.

The bill, given second reading and approval in principle in the House last week, amends provincial crop insurance legislation by changing the number of years the average price of potatoes is based on for insurance purposes from five to 10 years.

use in the Maritimes agencies in a priority basis.

This includes $48,600 for miscellaneous construction projects and $103, 650 in repairs and upkeep projects.

Budget Seen Forecasting P.E.I. Economy Speedup

The present budget signals the opportunity for a more rapid economic advance in this province than has ever taken place before, Lloyd MacPhail, PC-2nd Queens, told the Legislature as he spoke in the budget debate here yesterday afternoon.

"It marks another milestone in the early stages of a long program of this competent government in what has thus far proved to be a successful program of raising the financial affairs of the province, from the economic chaos of 1959 and placing them on a sound basis", he said.

"Additional money will be spent in every department but to my mind there is no place where it is more acceptable than in the department of welfare where is provided the freedom from the fear of need of the aged, the needy and the afflicted," Mr. MacPhail believes.

EVERYONE TO BENEFIT

But every department has an expanding program and there is not a segment of the province or the population where benefits will not be felt, he continued.

Praising the provincial treasurer, the member from New Haven explained "that quite a bit of this money comes from our great benefactor, the Prime Minister of Canada—this is an appropriate time to consider the permanence of this source— as members of the opposition suggest he will not be long in his present position and that one, Lester Pearson, will succeed him."

The Pearson "special deal for P.E.I." was termed "a threat if I've ever heard one" by the 2nd Queens PC who recalled a Liberal "special deal for P. E. I. prior to 1957" was so unpopular that the party couldn't win a seat in the province in the last two elections.

There's "no fear of such a catastrophe befalling the people of P.E.I. and their great benefactor the government of Rt. Hon. John Diefenbaker" assured Mr. MacPhail, who read from a pro-Liberal Ottawa paper columnist Charles King who said top party strategists were talking about "the probability of a third Liberal election defeat in five years" when they met at their national council meeting at Ottawa last January.

Responsible and responsive government was re-stablished here on September 16, 1959 after a considerable lapse, he said. Prior to that neither balanced budgets not concrete plans for progress were common. Now there are many changes.

"This government is proceeding forward with a firm and sure step and is prepared to actively participate in and exploit to the full--the "Soaring Sixties", he enthused.

The budget "is geared to finance unprecedented advances in all fields—it is a story of new ideas, new industry, new vigour increased facilities, vigourous promotion, increased production, new developments, increased benefits to all kinds to each and every class," the New Haven businessman boasted.

"It is the dynamic. far-reaching and all inclusive program of a progressive government. The amazing part is the provincial treasurer in providing... for this massive program is still able to predict a balanced budget", he added.

The freshman member on the government side went on the aggressive and stayed there as he attacked the former health minister, M. L. Bonnell, whom he accused of having better hind sight than foresight in the matter of compulsory hospital insurance premiums. He stayed there as he said much of the time of this government is spent in correcting Liberal mistakes and observed "it's impossible to correct in two or three years all the mistakes of the preceding 24 years."

He attacked his fellow freshman in the house, George Ferguson, Lib-5th Kings, for advocating Unemployment Insurance for casual and farm laborers to further deplete the fund which the Liberal member had charged is being depleted.

He even went to Ottawa and J.W. Pickersgill as he referred to his letter in the Guardian asking for aid in compiling a list of Diefenbaker's broken promises.

"That's a far cry from the time the Liberals were in power. We in the opposition had no need to advertise for unkept promises, for the evidence of them was abundant", he argued.

ROAD AND

Moncton. Water, washouts and make-shift bridges created poor driving conditions in other parts of the province.

Provincial governments in both New Brunswick and Nova Scotia have been asked for help.

Allison Smith, Liberal member for Cumberland West, asked the Nova Scotia government in the legislature Tuesday for any assistance it can offer residents in flood-damaged areas. He said in his riding receding waters will leave hundreds of acres of bleached farmlands.

ASKS FOR AID

Ian Campbell, mayor of Sackville and sociology professor of Sackville's Mount Allison University, said a telegram had been sent to New Brunswick Premier Robichaud asking for financial assistance for Sackville, probably the hardest hit town. He said one engineer suggested the damage in Sackville might amount to $1,000,000. Service clubs planned to form a relief committee.

Sackville still had five feet of water in places late Tuesday. Several families had been carried from their homes by boat. Sewage was escaping and attempts were being made to get the pump working again. It was in a basement, under about 12 feet of water.

Trash was getting into the water supply and residents were being advised to boil their drinking water. However, a report said the water supply was not contaminated.

Moncton, hard hit earlier in the week, was in better shape late Tuesday, with most of the flood water gone.

The floods, the worst remembered by residents of several areas, resulted from a warm weekend rain which brought more than five inches to Saint John, N.B., Amherst and Moncton. The rainfall combined with melting snow in hard-hit areas of eastern New Brunswick and northern Nova Scotia where two feet or more of snow remained on the ground.

Tyne Valley Dam Is Lost

It will probably be several days yet before anglers in the province will know for certain how their favorite fishing spot has weathered the heavy rainfall of last weekend.

Most of the attention has been centred on washed out roads and bridges but with the opening of the trout season only a few days away, many will be wondering if their favorite dams survived as well as the roads leading to them.

After a hard fight Sunday and Monday, by residents of the Tyne Valley area to protect a well known fishing pond, the dam is reported to have broken yesterday.

The Shaw MacMillan dam at Alberry Plains is reported to have come through fairly well although breached in two places.

The dam at Heatherdale is washed out.

Another well known fishing pond known as Whitlock's in Kings County was first reported to have been washed out but it was stated last night that the dam's gates had been opened last fall and the pond drained so that little or no damage occurred in he flood.

getting those schools," he claimed.

"Re-elect all four provincial members and send them back to Ottawa for more and even better benefits" he urged.

It's largely due to the Roads to Resources grants, Dr. McNeill said that this province has the best roads and the biggest percentage of paved roads per capita of any other province in Canada. "We have more than even the wealthy provinces," he enthused.

"But it's only because of our great benefactor, Mr. Diefenbaker," he repeated.

If Mr. Pearson was there, it would not be so, claimed Dr. McNeill who said "he wouldn't even give us the Union Jack as our flag". Pearson promises different things in every province. He promised "special deals" when he was here "but we don't want special deals. We want what Mr. Diefenbaker promotes, a united Canada from coast to coast."

DISCUSSES DEPARTMENT

"In my own department, he said, we'll get $1,323,000 in hospital insurance next year and this year we'll get $282,000 in hospital construction grants."

It includes $156,000 for renovations to the P.E.I. Hospital and $100,000 for a new health centre in Summerside, he explained. The new centre will provide space for Cancer and TB control work, for a Public Health nurse for work in post natal and pre natal care.

Getting dentists for various centres in the province is a difficult task and it is hoped that more P.E.I. students can be encouraged to train so they will return and work in this province the Minister told the House.

Funds Allocated For P.E.I. Indians

OTTAWA — The Indian Affairs branch of the Department of Citizenship and Immigration will spend $152,250 in Prince Edward Island during the 1962-63 fiscal year.

A report from the branch shows that $4,000 will be spent on housing construction.

In addition, the regional headquarters of the P.E.I. agency has been allocated other funds for
