North River Causeway Scenes

No need now to go to Saint John to see Reversing Falls. The outgoing tide boils turbulently seaward through the now narrow gap in the North River Causeway. A few hours later the falls appear on the opposite side as the returning tide rushes up river.

Work on the North River Causeway has reached another interesting stage with the start of the spillway which will be close to the west bank. When finished it will be 180 feet long, 20 feet wide and about 12 feet deep. A pile driver stands ready to put down the pointed piles. On the Royalty side scoops and scrapers keep on extending the causeway across the channel.

Coroner's Jury Finds Death Due To Head Injuries Received In Fight

That John Joseph MacKenna came to his death on Sept. 27, 1954, on the Prince Nova while en-route to Camp Hill Hospital, Halifax, N.S., as a result of head injuries sustained in a fight with Emmett Noonan, was the verdict reached last evening by a coroner's jury. The jury was empaneled by coroner Dr. L. E. Frowse, on Sept. 27 and after a brief hearing on that date, adjourned to Oct. 7 when the evidence of seven witnesses was taken, before further adjournment was ordered until last night.

Witnesses called included Mrs. Emmett Noonan who testified that the deceased came to her home on Sept. 13 and he accompanied her and her husband to Borden for a case of beer. On the 14th again took him to Borden for quart of wine and some whiskey. At 6 o'clock Wallace MacKenna came to house and went to Borden for a flask of liquor.

Next morning her husband took deceased to Rose Valley. They returned between 8 and 9 that night. Witness assisted her husband to bring deceased into house. She thought he was intoxicated. Assisted him to bed between 8 and 9 p.m. At 11 o'clock he asked for water, complained of head pains and said head always ached drinking.

When asked about the fight on mouth, deceased said he fell on stove at Molyneux's on previous day. Witness stated that deceased was up next day and went to barn and drank some tea. On Friday, 17th, deceased juices which she did not see until 22 Sept. when his daughter, Mrs. Cousins, came and took him away. Mrs. Cousins testified the deceased was at her home on 15th in truck with Noonan and McKenna. He was in good humor and not drunk. They left at 2:45 p.m. and went to Molyneux home across the road.
