A HAPPY FAMILY

The most wonderful gift you can give is a pint of blood — I know", says Mrs. Russell Ewing in a last evening in an interview with a representative of The Guardian. Mrs. Ewing speaks with authority because five months ago when her small son, Jimmie, was born blood played a very important part in saving her life. This happy family pictured above, is one of many similar cases to be found throughout Prince Edward Island, as the result of the generosity of those who share their blood with others through the Red Cross Blood Transfusion Service.

Indonesians Step Up New Anti-Dutch Campaign

By JAMES FLANNERY

JAKARTA, Indonesia (Reuters) Indonesians stepped up Tuesday an anti - Netherlands campaign launched last weekend as workers seized a big Dutch firm here, running up the Red flag over its head office.

Indonesian workers at the Royal Dutch Inter - Insular Shipping Companies said they had taken over the firm in the name of the Indonesian Republic.

But a spokesman of the Dutch diplomatic mission announced Indonesian foreign ministry officials said the seizure was not sanctioned.

Police summoned the leaders of the coup to headquarters for questioning. Police then mounted guard at the entrance of the big building.

The army forbade Indonesian workers to take over Dutch business houses without government authority.

All Dutch-language publications were banned Sunday. Scheduled KLM Royal Dutch Airlines flights were barred from Jakarta airport. Thousands of Indonesian employees of Dutch businesses staged a 24-hour strike Monday.

The government has forbidden all ships and airlines to bring Netherlands citizens into the country.

FOLLOWS UN MOVE

Official and unofficial measures against Dutch interests in this former Netherlands colony followed a decision by the United Nations General Assembly last Friday to recommend negotiations between the two countries on Indonesia's claim to Dutch West New Guinea.

Indonesia has pressed a claim to Dutch New Guinea since the rest of the 3,000-odd islands of the former Dutch East Indies became independent after the Second World War.

West New Guinea was excluded from the treaty transferring sovereignty to Indonesia in 1949. The territory has an area of 160,000 square miles and is the Netherlands' only remaining overseas territory in Asia. The other half of the big island is administered under an Australian mandate.

Prince County Hospital Drive Is Exceeding Hopes

Incomplete returns on the Prince County Hospital campaign for memberships last night indicated that the drive so far has exceeded the fondest expectations of the coordinating Committee and the Hospital Board.

Last evening the reconvened itives of the various service clubs in Summerside and the workers in various parts of the county were asked to have their campaign funds turned in. A report received at a late hour from Mr. Dave Miller was that the town of Summerside had exceeded the sum of $6,500.00 and the figure was still climbing.

Mr. Miller said that the returns received from Clinton, Clifton, Margate and Grahams Road showed that a magnificient response had come from those districts and that over $1,000.00 had been turned in by them.

"It was a truly magnificient effort," he said," and the response from those four districts was really heartwarming."

The results of other districts in the county will be published just as soon as they are received.

He said also that during the next ten days prominent citizens of the county, supported by speaking teams representing the service clubs, the Hospital Board, the Medical Staff will visit the different communities to speak to the people and acquaint them of the problems which arise in the management of the Prince County Hospital, choosing as their theme "this hospital of ours."

Rotary Radio Auction Shows Increase Over Last Year

With a slight margin over last year in both the number of articles donated for sale and the amount of cash contributions received, the 25th annual Rotary Radio Auction conducted at the Clover Club last night proved how correct the saying is "busy men for a big job".

Andy Likely as chairman with Tom DeBlois as co-chairman brough together every member of this 90-man club of business and professional men in an all-out effort to maintain the pace set at previous auctions with the result that almost two thousand dollars in cash contributions dropped into the fund before the auction started.

Neil MacLean, with an unbroken continuity as key man in auction positions, headed up the auctioneers who came on the air under a schedule timed in seconds from the opening bid at 6.15 p. m. until the "all sold" was sounded shortly after midnight.

A coffee break provided by the Rotary Anns under leadership given by Mrs. Andy Likely provided to be a welcome diversion.

Contributions made by local firms included boxes of chocolates drawn for after every 50 purchases and a ham after every 150 purchases, donated by Canada Packers.

Refreshment items were also appreciated from Evangeline Beverages, J. and T. Morris, Pure Milk Co. and Montgomery and Co.

Planned Program Can Work Wonders For The Retarded

By means of planned programs of instruction, the latent talents of the educable retarded can be developed to the extent that they are able to take their place as useful and productives members of society.

The methods currently recommended in order to attain this objective were outlined to the members of the P.E.I. Association for retarded children Monday night by guest speakers, Dr. Malcolm N. Beck, specialist in child psychiatry, and Mr. Kenneth A. Parker, Superintendent of City Schools.

The meeting chaired by Mr. I. Berrigan, president of the organization was attended by three members of the Summerside group.

Miss Jacqueline Cummisky, teacher of the day training class informed the meeting that two local groups, the Hillsboro Chapter, I.O.D.E., and the Beta Sigma Phi Sorority had offered to supply additional equipment to the class at West Kent.

STATISTICS REQUESTED

All interested parents were urged to provide the statistical information requested in a recent circular letter. In asking their co-operation, the secretary, Mrs. E. Mae Johnston, warned those present that government recognition would not be granted until this request was met.

Mrs. Waye advised the Association members that they must look to the future and realize that taking care of the trainable or untrainable child was not too difficult a problem when these children are young, but, without the proper environmental conditions, this problem would become increasingly difficult when such children grow older.

Faced with the increased academic, burden that arises in the ordinary classroom at the beginning of Grade Three, the mentally retarded child, unable to cope with the work, falls quickly behind his fellows, and adds to his initial disability, the emotional stress created by frustration and lack of achievement, Dr. Beck said.

IDEAL PROGRAM

In the opinion of the psychiatrist, the ideal set-up for training the mentally retarded was as follows: under kindergarten at six, pre-school classes at seven, and Grade One at eight.

Following such a program he suggested would enable such children to master the work demanded by Grades 4 and 5.

"These children, with a good academic knowledge on the primary level, and no emotional problems, can be very useful and productive citizens," he said.

Mr. Parker expressed the opinion that all children completing school should feel that there is something they can do better than anyone else, adding that this was especially true in the case of the mentally retarded.

Dull children differ from their comrades in two particular essentials, Mr. Parker said; they are unable to discriminate in values; and they are incapable of abstract thinking.

The statistics on juvenile delinquency reflect not only delinquency but social attitudes and police action towards delinquency, the lecturer said.

Nearly eight per cent of those found delinquent were repeaters.

Of 8,985 appearances in court which led to a finding of delinquency, 7,968 were boys and 1,017 were girls.

While the ages covered the report ranged from 7 years to 15, the bulk of the delinquents, both boys and girls, were between 11 and 15.

Sputnik Metal Is Said Hoax

WINNIPEG (CP) — A story published here Monday said a piece of metal bearing Russian lettering—supposedly a piece of Sputnik I rocket—fell on a farm near Fleming, Sask., Sunday night. Apparently it was a hoax.

The story was published in the Winnipeg Free Press as a special report from a correspondent at Fleming.

Name of the owner of the farm was given as "G. R. Puzzaforte," said to be an Italian immigrant. In Italian, "puzza forte" means "strong smell."

No farmer by the name of Puzzaforte could be found near Fleming or adjoining Kirkella, Man.

The Free Press story said the farmer was shipping the metal to the Regina Leader-Post, which offered a $100 reward to the first person finding a piece of the rocket, reported to have crashed to earth during the weekend.

May Return Zero Fighter To Japanese

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States may return to Japan one of the Japanese imperial navy's Zero fighters. There are none in Japan.

Paul E. Garber, former U.S. Navy commander and now head curator of the Smithsonian Institution national air museum, said he will recommend returning one of the museum's two Zero's to are followed, all the Japanese Japan. If his recommendations need do is ask for it.

All Japanese combat planes were either destroyed or taken away as prizes of war by the allied occupation.

Few Japanese have ever had a close look at this aerial work horse of Japan's Second World War campaigns. Imperial navy security measures were so strict few of the camera-minded Japanese even got close enough to take a photograph.

More Children Are Delinquent

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian courts last year found 8,328 children under 15 delinquent, compared to 6,542 the year previous, the bureau of statistics reported Monday.

The number of children brought before the courts rose to 9,334 from 7,582.

Part of the increase in numbers of children is due to improved reporting of cases from several courts, the bureau said.

The statistics on juvenile delinquency reflect not only delinquency but social attitudes and police action towards delinquency, the bureau said.

Nearly eight per cent of those found delinquent were repeaters.

Of 8,985 appearances in court which led to a finding of delinquency, 7,968 were boys and 1,017 were girls.

While the ages covered the report ranged from 7 years to 15, the bulk of the delinquents, both boys and girls, were between 11 and 15.

The meeting opened with devotions led by Corena Steele and Adele Jardine.

Member Says He's There

OTTAWA (CP)—William Anderson, a new Progressive Conservative member, said Tuesday he has been attending Parliament regularly.

He said in the Commons that the reason he hasn't made any speeches yet is that he wanted to wait "until I had something definite to contribute."

Mr. Anderson, member for Waterloo South, made the statement in criticizing a recent speech at Galt, Ont.—his home town—by J.W. Pickersgill (L-Bonavista-Twillingate).

Mr. Anderson quoted Mr. Pickersgill as saying he had not yet noticed Mr. Anderson in the Commons and doubted whether any other MP had.

Mr. Anderson said that statement, coming from a former cabinet minister like Mr. Pickersgill, was "of the lowest order."

Mr. Pickersgill replied: "I apologize to the honorable gentleman for not having noticed him. I won't make the same mistake again."

Stress More Personnel Is Need In Dental Profession

The need for more personnel in the ranks of Canadian dentistry was stressed by both the president and secretary of the Canadian Dental Association, who addressed the P.E.I. branch of the organization at the Charlottetown Hotel last night.

The local president Dr. J. A. Doiron, Summerside presided.

The need for more dental schools staffed with well trained instructors, plus the recruitment of students possessing "proper attitude as well as aptitude" was emphasized by the national president, Dr. A. G. Racey, Montreal.

The great increase in the population of our country has created an unfavorable ration of dentists to patient something in the ratio of 1 to 1300," he said.

The secretary of the Canadian Association, Dr. Don W. Gullett, Toronto, also emphasized the growing need for additional dental graduates.

URGES ACTION

He urged the members of the profession to "awaken to this critical situation" before the problem of filling dental classes grows more acute, particularly in view of what he termed "increased persuasive activity to secure the brighter students for courses in Science."

Referring to proposed plans for a scheme of national health insurance, Dr. Gullett said:

"If we are to retain control of dental services under any Government plan for compulsory health insurance, experience is a prime requisite.

EXPERIENCE REQUIRED

"Such experience may easily prove expensive, but it is far better to learn by operating small plans than to learn our own lessons in an all-inclusive permanent arrangement.

"Experience in other countries has shown that it is too late for professional groups to obtain alterations in a health scheme once it has been introduced. Yet across Canada little interest is shown by dental associations and societies in this matter which can alter the lives of every Canadian."

99 Blood Donors At Crapaud Clinic Organized By W. I.

Red Cross flags waved in a stiff breeze in front of Crapaud Community Hall last evening to remind residents in that locality of the Blood Donor Clinic being held inside.

This Clinic was organized by the Women's Institutes in Crapaud and vicinity, representatives of which were on hand as helpers for the Mobile Team, and provided the refreshments for the donors.

The 99 donors who registered at last night's two hour session at Crapaud brought the total for the two days up to 583 which was just 17 short of the number expected.

Red Cross officials said last evening if this same record of attendance can be maintained at the Charlottetown Clinics which are to be held at The Clover Club, Canadian Legion Building, today and tomorrow, the province's objective will be reached, and the Blood Bank will be replenished for the winter months. Residents are urged to take advantage of the afternoon Clinics on Wednesday and Thursday, as well as the morning Clinic on Thursday, and so avoid over-crowding at the evening sessions.

St. Dunstan's Breaks Record At Blood Clinic Yesterday

Keen competition among the Seniors, Juniors, Sophomores and Freshmen Classes at the Red Cross Blood Donor Clinic held yesterday morning in the Gym. at St. Dunstan's University resulted in 205 donors being registered. This was 55 in excess of the objective set for the College and established a new attendance record for St. Dunstan's. Just which Class won the distinction of having the highest percentage of attendance was not determined last night but the results will be announced later this week.

Headed by Michael Swift, of Minto, N.B., president of the Students' Council, members of the student body were the efficient helpers with all the different phases of the Clinic's work, as well as being blood donors.

Debate Admitting Women To British House Of Lords

LONDON (Reuters) —Britain's noble lords talked—and squawked —about women heredity night.

The occasion was the Conservative government's introduction of a bill to create women members of the House of Lords.

Earl Ferrers, a 28 - year - old married man, denounced the bill as an "unmitigated disaster."

"We like and admire women," the Conservative peer told the House. "We even sometimes grow fond of them. But we do not want them in this place."

If this sort of emale emancipation continued, Ferrers said, the Archbishop of Canterbury might find himself out of a job, lady judges might sit on the bench and the country might follow the "rather vulgar example set by the Americans in having female ambassadors."

Women, he summed up, were "engaging, amusing" — and "highly distasteful" in politics.

Lord Mansfield, another Conservative, said it was laughable that peeresses with inherited titles should be barred when "unknown female whatnots with heaven knows what qualifications are to be put in among us."

WOULD HAVE VOTE

The bill would create life peerages for men and women who would sit and vote in the Upper Chamber but could not pass their titles on to their heirs.

Lord Airlie married and the father of three daughters, asked if the government didn't have enough bigger problems — "the Middle East, Sputniks, a new president of the United States, inflation and a lot of other things" —without introducing this bill."

The lords adjourned the debate until Thursday.
