Study Group Has Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the Elliott River South teachers' study group was held recently at Rice Point School.

On display were the Ginn, the Gage and the Nelson set of readers for primary schools. Before school reopens in the latter part of August, each teacher must decide which set will be in use in her school or grade.

Also examined and discussed were the Digest Readers for all elementary grades. These are used as enrichment material. Some time was spent discussing the advantages of consolidation.

Mrs. Rae Taylor was complimented on having started a small library.

An address of appreciation was read by Supervisor MacDonald by Mrs. Arlene MacDougald who expressed the thanks of the group for Supervisor MacDonald's attendance at all meetings and for his assistance in all phases of the work. Mrs. Kathleen Morrison then presented a small gift to Mr. MacDonald who thanked the teachers for their thoughtfulness and commended them for a good year's work.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. Rae Taylor. The next meeting is scheduled for Sept. 13 at St. Catherine's.
