CARTER'S SEED CATALOGUE.—Carter's Seed Catalogue for this year has been handed in. We note that this enterprising firm keeps well up with all advances in the business, and that the benefit of their long experience enables them to provide for our farmers in a manner that is far ahead of what can be accomplished by individual effort in the majority of cases. This firm, apparently consider time and expense of very little account in their endeavors to place before our farmers the best seeds at the lowest prices. Agriculturists will find the catalogue comprehensive and conveniently arranged. It may be obtained free on application.

ADVERTISING VS SALEMEN.—Advertising has advantages over the ordinary salesman in obtaining an interview. It can usually get inside the prospective buyer's office door and upon his desk. It can usually reach a vantage point which the flesh and blood salesman wildly covets that of getting face to face with a customer. What it does with this opportunity depends upon its charter, and this includes its writing and printing. In these days of competition and advertising it has to be pretty good if it keeps out of the waste basket. It has to be glib of tongue and handsome to do its work even after it has secured an audience.—Ad Topics.

TOUCHING FAREWELL LETTER.

Shortly before his death, the Rev. J. C. Abbott, lately rector of Sydney Mines, addressed the following letter to his parishioners. Since his death it has been published in the North Sydney Herald:

MY DEAR PEOPLE:
Something seems to tell me that it will not be a very long while now before the Lord will call me to His Paradise. Before leaving I would just like to say to you a very few words of farewell.

My ministry among you has been very short, but very happy, and I trust it has been a blessing to both priest and people. After all, it is only a matter of a few short years before we shall all pass through the death valley, and in the last great day when every man's work will be manifest of what sort it is, oh, what a blessing to me if you should prove my crown of rejoicing!

And now, brethren, farewell, "Stand fast in the Lord and in the power of his might." Build yourself up in your most holy faith. And may God bless you and keep you in His holy keeping now and forevermore.

Yours faithfully in Christ Jesus,
CHARLES G. ABBOTT.

MARCH MAGAZINES.

The Delineator.

The March number of the Delineator is called the Early Spring Number and is an important one, as it contains the first announcement of Spring Fashions and is admirable in its literary features. The rapid growth of the Audubon Societies, and the interest taken in the preservation of song birds, make extremely opportune the article on "The Audubon Societies and Their Work," by Frank M. Chapman, Assistant Curator in the American Museum of Natural History. Lady Carrie, the wife of the British Ambassador to Turkey, contributes a sprightly paper on Country House Life in England. Dr. Murray gives valuable advice on Fevers and Feverishness in her series on The Common Ills of Life. Mrs. Meynell's article on Children will touch a sympathetic chord in the breast of every mother who reads it, and the contribution by Emma Churchman Hewitt on indoor interests makes a direct appeal to parents to increase the attractiveness of the home life of boys and girls. The housekeeper will find something new in "Almonds in the Kitchen," and a decidedly practical paper is entitled "Whence Illness Comes." Mrs. Elizabeth C. Winter (wife of William Winter, the famous dramatic critic) contributes a story, "The Mystery of Bebe Claribel," and "The Adventures of Blive Rayner" are brought to a satisfactory conclusion. As necessarily only a few of the subjects can be touched on here, we recommend a careful study of the contents of the magazine.
