NOTICE

THE 10th inst. was a day of intense excitement among the sporting men of this community. Flyers might be seen in all directions, all of which acquitted themselves well considering the training received. In the three minute race there were three entries, viz: Maud S, owned by William McLean; Queen, owned by James D. Stewart; King Bird, owned by Ira Kennedy. This race was easily captured by King Bird, Queen taking second place. Then came the go-as-you-please race, which was the most exciting race of the day. The contest was between Ella Kate, owned by Judson McDonald; Royal Tom, owned by Albert Robertson; Dan, owned by John J. Stewart. In this race Dan took first place, and Ella Kate second. Bad driving accounts for Royal Tom only taking third place. The day's sport came to a close all feeling satisfied that we had a fair lot of fast horses in our community.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Prices of Farm Products.

Sir,—Howling Grit demagogues, during the late election campaign, told the people that the Government was to blame for the low price of farm products. It was no use to tell these blinded partisans that although the price of oats was only 28 cents a bushel, the price would be still lower only that the National Policy had built up a home market superior to the foreign market; that oat-buyers, Mr. Welsh among the rest, would be still in the business if they could get our farmers to sell their oats at 3 or 4 cents less than the home price; and that so far as farm produce was concerned, the prices were low all over the civilized world. It was useless, I say, to tell them this while the election was going on, but I had hoped that some of them at least would own up to the truth as soon as the election was over. In this, however, it appears that I am to be disappointed—if I may judge by the debate that took place in the Legislative Council over the Lieutenant-Governor's speech. One of the wisecracks of that august body informed his audience, which consisted of his twelve fellow-councillors, that "We have an industrious population in this Province, but I cannot see that their industry has been crowned with that success which it deserves. We have had very poor markets for our produce, etc." Well, now that the election is over, will His Honor be kind enough to tell us who is to blame for this state of affairs. Not a kind Providence, surely, as His Honor's words would seem to imply. Not the Dominion Government either, for their policy has naturally increased the price of almost every kind of farm produce in Canada. Who, then, is to blame? Let the St. John Telegraph, that good Grit organ, explain. Here is what it says—and I trust that the truth of its remarks may make a deep impression on the mind of His Honor, who obtained a seat at the Council Board by sailing under false colors:—

"The past year was remarkable for the extreme low prices of farm products throughout the civilized world. The extent of the general decline may be best measured by a comparison between last year's prices and those prevailing in Great Britain, the mother country, forming a common market for other countries that have a surplus for export. It is stated officially that as compared with the average prices for forty years wheat had declined in England 38 per cent.; oats, 16 per cent.; barley, 19 per cent.; butter, 29 per cent.; beef, 12 per cent.; pork, 17 per cent.; potatoes, 25 per cent.; and wool, 43 per cent. Many causes have contributed to this decline, chief among which are the increased facilities for transportation, low freight rates, and the unexampled productive capacity of the western states of America, and other new fields in Asia and Australia opened up within a generation past. This extraordinary decline in prices has had a most disastrous effect upon the farming interests of Great Britain and Ireland, and involves the necessity of the reduction of the rent. It has also been materially injurious to countries like Canada, which depend upon the British market for the sale of surplus cereal, vegetable and animal products."

Boston Markets.

April 23, 1887.

POTATOES.—The market for potatoes sustains a firm tone, with a good demand.

EGGS.—The market has ruled firmer, owing to light receipts, but demand is moderate.

SALES OF WESTERN AT 13c, and Eastern at 14c per dozen. Some are held higher.

FISH.—There has been a little more demand for mackerel and previous asking prices can be more readily obtained, though it is difficult to get any advance. Sales of Nova Scotia No 1 at $14 to $15 per bbl, mostly at $15.50. Extras are held a little higher, but as they are not much better than No 1 buyers are not willing to pay much over $15. Prime No 2 are scarce and command $13 to $14. Large No 3 are receiving more attention, owing to the absence of new mackerel from the south, and holders are firmer at $8 to $9. The receipts of mackerel for week closing Friday were 49 bbls, of which 199 bbls were from the Province. Imports from Provinces since January 1 foot up 14,335 bbls against 9,676 bbls same time last year.

It is not singular that consumptives should be the least apprehensive of their own condition, while all their friends are urging and beseeching them to be more careful about exposure and overdoing. It may well be considered one of the most alarming symptoms of the disease, where the patient is reckless and will not believe that he is in danger. Reader, if you are in this condition, do not neglect the only means of recovery. Avoid exposure and fatigue, be regular in your habits, and use faithfully of Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery." It has saved thousands who were steadily failing.

Victor Hugo's will has been admitted to probate. His property in England is valued at £22,000. His daughter and grand-children are sole heirs. An annuity of £400 is left to the widow of his son Charles.

ADAMSON'S BOTANIC BALSAM has gained a reputation which places it in the front rank of curative agents. It has been in the market about twenty years. It is now recommended by the best physicians because it cures coughs and colds every time. Price 35 cents. Trial bottles 10 cents.

Sir John on Mr. Curran's Motion.

Speaking to Mr. Davin's amendment, Sir John said that since the resolution of 1882 had led to a recurrence of the discussion in 1886 and again now, it was almost a pity that the first resolution had been introduced, but the resolution of 1882 appeared to him to be not much out of place. The point that it was improper was not raised by this country. It was the Gladstone government that raised this objection. He did not quite agree with this position, but he did regret that these subjects outside the jurisdiction of this House were coming up again and again. If the resolution could be of the slightest benefit to Ireland he would strain a point to support it, but the coercion measure had been discussed in the Imperial Parliament and passed by a large majority, and no action here would do any good in Ireland. But these discussions were doing great harm to Canada. We ought to keep out of our politics the questions which cause discords. Had he been in the house he would have voted for McCarthy's amendment. He believed the house had the right to express an opinion on this coercion matter, but he deemed that it would be improper and unwise to interfere with the subject. These discussions were not calculated to promote good feeling in Canada. Moreover, he held it to be in the interests of this country to avoid disagreements with the Imperial Government. This had been his policy throughout his public career. No matter whether that government was liberal or Tory he had found no difference between Imperial parties. At present the home government was strongly supporting Canada in the fishery matter. We desire that the support be continued and therefore should not with imperfect evidence in our hands undertake to censure the government of Great Britain. In his case no possible good to any person could come of our interference and much harm to Canada might come of it. Sir John spoke at some length replying to Gigault regarding the rights of minorities in old Canada. He would support Davin's amendment expressing regret that it is considered necessary to adopt coercive measures for Ireland and reaffirming the previous affirmations of the house on local self government with proper safeguards.

Newspapers in 1887.

Geo. P. Rowell & Co., of New York, will issue on Monday, May 2nd, the nineteenth annual edition of their standard publication, the "American Newspaper Directory."

The new volume contains an exhaustive list of all Class Publications so admirably arranged that any one of the three thousand papers represented there can be readily referred to, and all important facts concerning it, together with its circulation rating, easily obtained.

The Newspaper Directory will be used principally by Publishers, Advertisers and Advertising Agents, but the vast fund of information it contains makes it valuable to persons of almost every trade and profession. As a Gazetteer alone it is well worth the price charged, $5.00, for it fully describes every town in which a newspaper is issued, and few people care to know about any place where one is not.

The number of papers published in the United States Territories (including Alaska) and Canada is put at 15,420; an increase of 581 in one year.

The growth of newspapers in some of the Western States would be a matter of wonder, if it were not that this year is no exception to the rule. In Kansas the increase is 89 and in Nebraska 64; while the Keystone State shows a smaller advance of 35 and the Buckeye State of 30. Pennsylvania exhibits the largest increase in dailies, 17; Kansas in weeklies, 81, and New York in monthlies, 42. Seven States show a decrease; the most prominent instances being New Hampshire and Virginia, six each. The whole volume shows that great care has been taken to sustain its reputation as the most comprehensive work of the kind yet published, and to insure accuracy in every detail. Anything less than a complete compendium of American newspapers and periodicals would surprise those who are familiar with the former efforts of this firm, who are so well known as the oldest, largest and best known of all the American advertising Agencies.

The officers of the House of Commons Press Gallery this session are: President, Mr. A. F. Wallis, Toronto Mail; vice-president, Mr. Molyneux St. John, Montreal Herald; secretary, Mr. H. S. Stafford, Montreal Gazette; committee, Messrs. L. Krebs, Toronto World, A. Page, L'Alliance, Hull, P. Q. T. P. Gorman, Ottawa Free Press, H. M. Mathewson, Toronto Mail, and George H. Haun, Winnipeg Morning Call.

The Halifax Chronicle says: An eight-year-old lad named Bates, living at the North end, swallowed a tamarind stone on Thursday, which lodged in his right lung. Several doctors were called in, but could give the little sufferer no relief. He was finally removed to the hospital, where a difficult and painful operation was performed on Saturday, the windpipe being opened and the stone removed from the lung. The child is progressing favorably towards recovery.

A feature of the campaign in South Victoria—which resulted in the election of the Conservative, Mr. Hudsph—was a Liberal wire puller's subscription to purchase the Salvation Army a new drum, which the soldiers declined to receive, preferring to cast their votes as their consciences dictated. The price of the hollow symbol of opposition affection is thus wasted.

The Volks Zeitung brought an action for libel against Prince Bismarck on account of an attack upon that paper made by the Chancellor in a speech in the Reichstag. The court has decided that it has no jurisdiction in the matter, as the Prince, being a German general, is only amenable to a military tribunal.
