Eden Sees No Early Easing Of Tension In World Relations

LONDON, Nov. 19 (AP) - Foreign Secretary Eden told the House of Commons today the chasm between East and West was so deep, wide and alarming that he did not believe any "sudden or spectacular move" would lessen the tension. Rather, he proposed that East and West try to settle some of their little differences before tackling the big ones. Making his first statement in a full foreign-policy debate since the new Conservative Government took office, Eden ranged all the chief trouble spots of the world. Forbidding Chasm "There is now virtually no diplomatic contact between East and West, between either side of the Iron Curtain," Eden said in his first report. Such an impasse, he said, "has rarely existed in history before." It is the depth and the width of the forbidding chasm that separates East and West. Mentally as well as physically, that is so forbidding for the present and so alarming for the future. Then expressing his opinion that the impasse would yield to no grandiose gestures, he said: "I am ready at any time to meet my colleagues, not for wide general discussions or sterile debate or mutual abuse about our respective ideologies, but to seek to solve some specific topic which today divides us. I do believe if we can take a

Object To Present Weight Restrictions On Trucks

Holds Outpost Until Runs Out Of Ammunition

AMHERST, N. S., Nov. 19 (CP) - Strong objection to present weight restrictions on truck transportation was heard at the semi-annual meeting of the Maritime Motor Transport Association here today. Members, under the chairmanship of E. Lyle Wallace of Moncton, decided to send facts and figures on truck transportation as affected by the weight restrictions to the Provincial Governments. Douglas Moffatt of Sydney presided over the afternoon meeting. Willard J. Russell, fleet sales manager for a large tire company, was guest speaker. He said the permissible weight for tandem axle semi-trailers—the most efficient long-distance units—should be more than 53,000 pounds. Current limits were 40,000 in Nova Scotia and 44,000 in New Brunswick. The Maritimes were continually protesting high railway freight rates but if they relaxed restrictions to permit adequate truck transportation they could combat the increasing rail tariffs, he said. New Demands Come When Agreement Near

TOKYO, Nov. 20 (Tuesday) (AP) - High level political manoeuvres by the Foreign Ministers of North Korea and Communist China thoroughly confused the Korean armistice outlook today while truce negotiators were in recess. Potentially the situation could result in a breakdown of the four-month-old talks at a time when agreement had seemed closer than ever before. The impending Allied plan called for an armistice before Christmas. In effect, the North Korean and Chinese Foreign Ministers, in dovetail statements, reverted to stands the Reds held prior to the first talks on July 10. North Korean Proposals The Pyongyang broadcast listed these North Korean proposals to end the war: 1. Cessation of hostilities as the first step to achieve a peaceful settlement of the Korean question. 2. Acceptance of the "just and reasonable" proposals made by the North Korean and Chinese Red army to withdraw each of the opposing forces two kilometers (1.24 miles) from the battle line and establish a buffer zone. 3. Withdrawal of all foreign troops from Korea. 4. Severe punishment of those responsible for the atrocities committed against Koreans opposing the prolongation of the Korean war and against "peace-loving" Korean residents. The first U. N. comment was made by Brig.-Gen. William Nichols, U. N. command spokesman at Munsan, Korea. He said if the North Korean peace proposal were made across the conference table at Panmunjom "it would receive an immediate reply." (Continued on Page 13 Col. 2)

Navy Reveals Identity Of Mystery Man Doctor Cyr

OTTAWA, Nov. 19 (CP) - The Royal Canadian Navy's mystery man, who called himself Dr. Joseph Cyr, is in fact Ferdinand Waldo Demara Jr., 29, formerly of Lawrence, Mass., the navy announced tonight. Demara will be discharged in "due course" from the navy for misconduct, namely fraudulent entry, the navy said in a 150-word statement. He is at present at Esquimaux, B.C. Canadian immigration authorities are investigating the circumstances of his entry into Canada to determine whether he is in the country illegally. The navy however did not completely lift the veil of mystery which surrounds Demara. It did not say what connection he has with the names "Dr. Cecil Boyce Hamann" and "Dr. French." He joined the R.C.N. in March, 1951 using the birth certificate and medical credentials of Dr. Joseph Cyr of Edmunston, N. B., now understood to be practising in Grand Falls, N. B. His fame as a surgeon spread across Canada following a series of major surgery cases among South Korean troops brought aboard the R.C.N. destroyer Cayuga. It was then that a protest came from the authentic Dr. Cyr who reported his certification documents had mysteriously disappeared. Demara was brought back under naval escort, arriving in Victoria by air from the Korean theatre last Tuesday. He was lodged in H.M.C.S. Naden's naval hospital, seeing no one but naval personnel. Entire Background Unknown "Although the entire background of Demara has not yet been ascertained, it is known that he has served in the United States navy on medical duties," the navy said. "All the medical authorities in the United Nations forces in the Far East with whom Demara came in contact have testified as to the extensiveness of his knowledge of medicine and surgery and nothing has occurred to indicate either to the R.C.N. authorities or to the authorities of other forces serving in Korea that he did not possess the competence of a full-qualified medical man." In his capacity as surgeon lieutenant aboard the Cayuga, he collapsed a lung, amputated limbs and removed a bullet from near a heart in operations on South Koreans. The navy had an article set to go in its magazine, Crownset, (Continued on Page 13 Col. 2)

Disappointed In Some British Cabinet Ministers

MONTREAL, Nov. 19 (CP) - Lord Beaverbrook, Canadian-born British newspaper publisher, today said he is disappointed in some of the new British Conservative ministers. "Some of the ministers disappointed me. Since coming to power their first conference has been in Paris instead of in the Empire. Their Mr. Boothby is going to Strasbourg instead of Canberra or Auckland." (Robert Boothby, Conservative M.P. is a leading delegate to the Consultative Assembly of the Council of Europe, Strasbourg.) "Lord Ismay, Commonwealth secretary, sends away the Basuto delegation without adequate assurance of support." The paramount chiefdoms of Basuto land, accompanied by 12 chiefs and advisers, recently paid a three-week visit to Great Britain where she conferred with Lord Ismay on problems affecting their country. Lord Beaverbrook is staying briefly in Montreal before going to his winter home in Jamaica.

Another Canadian Unit Embarks For Europe

QUEBEC, Nov. 19 (CP) - The second of three infantry units trained by Canada for the defence of Western Europe, headed overseas today from Quebec. The battalion representing five Canadian rifle regiments sailed from Wolfe's Cove dock aboard the Columbia, 13,000-ton Greek Line ship. It was the second infantry unit, formed for Canada's 27th Brigade, to set out from Quebec in eight days. Among the 763 departing soldiers there were a few dental and provost corps and field security personnel. More Than 3,000 The group will raise to more than 3,000 the number of men of the 5,000-man brigade dispatched to Europe. The Columbia will take the Canadians to the Netherlands port of Rotterdam. From Rotterdam they will go by train to the 27th Brigade's camp near Hannover, in the British sector of Western Germany. Wearing green berets, the soldiers crowded the rails of the Columbia cheering, throwing kisses to the few relatives at the dockside and applauding band music. The troops sang when the band of the Royal 22nd Regiment played "Roll Out The Barrel," the Canadian Second World War favorite; and "Auld Lang Syne," when they hailed the Columbia out into the St. Lawrence channel. Last man to march up the gangplank was Lt.-Col. John M. Delamere of Toronto who commands the rifle battalion. Units in Contingent The rifle battalion is made up of companies of the Queen's Own Rifles, the Victoria Rifles of Canada from Montreal, the Royal Hamilton Light Infantry, the Royal Winnipeg Rifles and the Regina Rifle Regiment. The first battalion of the 27th Brigade to set out for Europe and service in the defence forces of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization was the First Canadian Infantry Battalion. It sailed from Quebec Nov. 12. The brigade's third infantry unit—a highland battalion—is expected to sail from Quebec at the start of December. The last of the brigade troops, including gunners of the 79th Field Regiment, may sail from Halifax later next month.

People Of London Give Princess Welcome Home

LONDON, Nov. 19 (CP) - The people of London—the humble and the mighty—gave Princess Elizabeth a traditional "welcome home" today. The humble jammed the sidewalks of streets cleared of traffic and cheered as the Princess and Duke of Edinburgh, back from a six-week tour of Canada, drove through the city. The mighty sat down to a chicken and champagne luncheon at 1,000 years. But today something new was added. Behind Princess Elizabeth's escort stood four Royal Canadian Mounted Police. They were her special bodyguards during the Canadian tour and now are the Princess's guests in Britain. Princess Elizabeth declared the visit was indeed a journey of great happiness for we were received in Canada and in the United States with a warmth and kindness that has moved us profoundly. "I do not believe," she added, "one can return from Canada without a new sense of faith in the progress of mankind. For none of the doubts that face us on this troubled continent are going to hold back the Canadians."

Father Sketches Career Of 'Mystery Doctor' Son

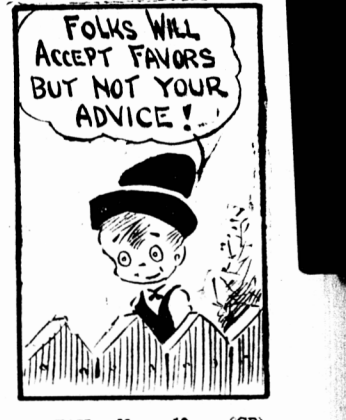

LAWRENCE, Mass., Nov. 19 (AP) - The father of a young man who performed a series of "brilliant" operations on wounded South Koreans said today that as far as he knew the only experience his son had in medicine was as an orderly at Massachusetts Eye and Ear Infirmary in Boston. Ferdinand Demara Sr., father of Ferdinand Demara Jr., who Canadian authorities said posed as a Dr. Joseph Cyr, while serving with the Royal Canadian Navy, said he recognized his son from newspaper photographs. He said his son, a brilliant student, quit high school when he was 15 years old to attend a Trappist monastery in Cumberland, N. S. He left there after a year's study, the father said, and continued studies for two more years at two Massachusetts schools to become a religious brother. In U. S. Navy In 1941 he entered the United States navy, the father said, but some time later left without leave. The next he heard from the young man was when he was picked up by naval authorities at St. Martin's College at Lacey in the State of Washington where he was teaching philosophy. Demara said that after his son was released by naval authorities he came home and entered a law school in Boston. While attending law school, the father said, the young man served as an orderly at the Massachusetts Eye and Ear Infirmary. He hadn't heard from him since. That was about 1943. No Bad In Him He said that as a boy his son "was bright to the point of genius. Things came easily to him and he read constantly. There was nothing bad in him. He always wanted to help others -"

Mr. Sinclair told Stanley Knowles, (CCF - Winnipeg North Centre) he would inquire whether there had been any appreciable cashing in of earlier bond series in order to buy the latest issue.

Bitter Hill Battles All Across Korean Front

By SAM SUMMERLIN SEUL, Korea, Nov. 20 (Tuesday) (AP) - United Nations and Communist infantry grappled in a series of bitter hill battles clear across the Korean front Monday. Chinese Communist infantry made three vain counter-attacks Monday against the positions taken on the central front by a beefed-up South Korean division Saturday and Sunday. Instead, the Reds lost another hill in the area. That two-day surprise drive, dubbed "Operation Vulture" straightened a three-mile sag in the Allied line on the Pukhan River front. An Allied briefing officer said 1,679 Chinese bodies had been counted so far and the hills "are still littered with bodies." The Eighth Army today (Tuesday) identified the successful Allied division as the South Korean Sixth, one of the best of the Korean Republic's units. Previously identification had been a closely-kept secret. Monday the Chinese tried to recoup, attacking first with a platoon, then with a company and finally with a battalion - about 40, 200, and finally 800 men - but each time they failed. On the western front west of Yonchon, the British Shropshire Light Infantry repulsed swarms of Chinese in a 12-hour battle. The Reds were trying to regain a hill which they took Saturday and which the Shropshires recaptured Sunday. A British soldier who was captured in the first Red charge and rescued by the Shropshires' counter-attack, said the original onslaught was led by a woman in an all-black uniform. Brandishing a pistol, she drove her men through minefields, barbed wire and machine gun fire, he related.
