Losses By Fishermen In King's Co. Confined Mostly To Rope

Losses suffered by lobster fishermen in P.E.I.'s Eastern section in last Thursday's 24-hour blow appear to have been confined in most areas to the destruction of considerable quantities of rope. The rough seas and poor visibility prevailing in most coastal sections during the first day and one-half of the recently opened season might be considered to have been a "blessing in disguise," since these unfavorable factors prevented many of the fishermen from setting out any more than token amounts of gear.

The highest recorded tides in many years pushed against the Island's north shore at the height of the storm Thursday, carrying out to sea on its return many traps that had been piled on the seashore ready to be taken out the following day. Perhaps the greatest loss in this regard occurred at Savage Bay where it is reported that over 1,000 traps were swept away. In addition the high tide is held responsible for the destruction of two boats in the Cable Head area, one of them in use only one season.

Most traps set in shallow inshore waters were reported to be almost a total loss due to the action of the "loose" ballast within them.

It is reported from Montague that a few hauls were made along the East coast on Saturday, but they were "not sufficient to make any estimate of the season's prospects."

The bait situation in the Montague area is said to be "fair," fishermen in that area expressing the hope that herring will become available "the middle of next week" from nets now being set by local fishermen.

Lobstermen in the Murray Harbor South area did not run their lines until yesterday morning.

At Souris damage to gear was reported to be slight, as most fishermen had but little opportunity to put out much gear prior to the storm. Packers in this King's County town have declared that they do not intend to pack lobsters at least until June a correspondent there states.

Fish that are being landed at Souris are being kept alive in crates anchored in the sea until such time as the removal of weight restrictions from highways allow the passage of the heavy transports necessary to transport these live fish to continental markets.

Hauls of lobsters reported yesterday in Souris averaged around 800 pounds per 250 traps. Buyers were reported to be paying 25 cents and 30 cents per pound for the few fish offered.

Anne Dunn Sells 15 of 35 Paintings

LONDON (CP) — Anne Dunn, 27-year-old artist daughter of the late Canadian millionaire Sir James Dunn, has sold 15 of her 35 paintings on show at the Leicester Galleries in London.

One painting was purchased by Mrs. Dunn's brother, Sir Philip Dunn, who lives in London. Prices range from 15 guineas to 100 guineas.

Miss Dunn who lives permanently at St. Tropez in the south of France, with her artist husband Michael Wishart and five-year-old son Francis, opened the exhibition herself on May 1. It is expected to last about three weeks.

The pictures depict bird and insect life and flowers. A spokesman at the gallery says they have a "luminous quality in the style of French artist, Andre Masson."

Her niece, Nell Dunn, was married in February to Jeremy Sandford, son of a wealthy Herefordshire family.

Pulitzer Awards Made In Journalism, Music, Letters

NEW YORK (AP) — Chicago Daily News received the 1957 Pulitzer award for meritorious public service for exposing the Hodge scandal in Illinois.

Eugene O'Neill won his fourth Pulitzer prize, the first ever awarded posthumously, for his play Long Day's Journey into Night.

It was the first time a playwright had been given four Pulitzer prizes.

There was no fiction award made by the trustees of Columbia University, which has awarded the prizes since 1917 under the will of the late Joseph Pulitzer, publisher of The St. Louis Post-Dispatch and the old New York World.

The trustees made eight awards in journalism and six in music and letters.

The awards in journalism are worth $1,000 cash to the individuals chosen. The ones in the arts are worth $500 each. The winning newspaper gets a gold plaque.

RESTON OF THE TIMES
James Reston of The New York Times won the award for national reporting.

Russell Jones of the United Press won the award for international reporting.

The Salt Lake Tribune was selected for local reporting (on edition time) for its coverage of the Grand Canyon crash of two airliners in which 128 persons died.

Wallace Turner and William Lambert of the Portland Oregonian were cited jointly for stories exposing teamsters' union "vice and corruption" in Portland. The award was for local reporting (no edition time) and each man gets $1,000.

U.S. SENATOR WINS
Other awards were:
History — Russia Leaves the War, by George F. Kennan.

Bibliography — Profiles in Courage, by Senator John F. Kennedy (Dem. Mass.).

Poetry — Things of This World, by Richard Wilbur.

Music — Meditations on Ecclesiastes, by Norman Delo Joo.

A special citation was awarded Kenneth Roberts "for his hostess' local novels which have long contributed to the creation of greater interest in our early American history."

Other journalism awards were:
Editorial writing — Buford Boone of the Tuscaloosa (Ala.) News.

Cartoons — Tom Little of the Nashville (Tenn.) Tennessean.

News photography — Harry A. Trask of the Boston Traveler.

STATE FRAUD EXPOSURE
The Chicago Daily News was cited for "determined and courageous public service in exposing a $2,500,000 fraud centering in the office of the state auditor of Illinois, resulting in the indictment and conviction of the state auditor and others. This led to the organization of state procedures to prevent the recurrence of the fraud."

The imprisoned state auditor was Orville E. Hodge.

The staff of the Salt Lake Tribune was praised for its "prompt and efficient coverage" of the Grand Canyon crash under pressure of edition time.

"This was a team job that surmounted great difficulties in distance, time and terrain," the citation said.

Reston was cited for his "distinguished national correspondence... an outstanding example of which was five-part analysis of the effect of President Eisenhower's illness on the functioning of the executive branch of the federal government."

Reston won a previous Pulitzer award in 1945 for national telegraphic reporting.

HUNGARIAN REVOLT CITED
Jones was given his award "for his excellent and sustained coverage of the Hungarian revolt against Communist domination, during which he worked at great personal risk within Russian-held Budapest and gave front-line eyewitness reports of the ruthless Soviet repression of the Hungarian people."

Trask was given his award "for his dramatic and outstanding photographic sequence of the sinking of the liner Andrea Doria, the pictures being taken from an airplane flying at a height of 75 feet only minutes before the ship plunged to the bottom."

There was no explanation why no award was given for the best fiction. The last time this category was omitted by the trustees was in 1954.

There also was no special citation for any of the choices in the fields of letters and music.

All the awards were given for the calendar year 1956 except in the field of drama and music. For these prizes, works produced during the 12 months ending last March were considered.
