

British News Notes.

Tennyson's play will shortly be withdrawn from the stage, having involved the management in heavy losses.

Hon Mr. Childers suffers not only from reckless overwork, but from a return of his former malady, Bright's disease.

Mr. Gladstone's friends say that he now regrets accepting the amendment to the original procedure rule, allowing forty members to move on adjournment.

Honors of all kinds have rained all through the week on Egyptian officers and troops, the Queen bestowing promotions, medals and decorations in unprecedented liberality, while the people of every rank overwhelm the officers with private attention and invitations.

Irish enlistments in the English army have fallen from 70 to 22 per cent., and the Freeman's Journal says that while the present feeling between the two countries lasts, Irishmen will not serve in the army.

The World's London cable letter says: All indications now point to an adjournment of Parliament in ten days or a fortnight at most, everybody being tired of the session. The Government have been suddenly awakened by the painful discovery that the new rules for the proper subordination of Parliament can easily be brought to nought, as has been shown by the fact that two motions for adjournment were made during the past week and found the necessary support. It has thus been proved, already, that if the House is not willing to be gagged, no minister can do it. It is once more whispered in political and social circles, likely to be well informed, that Mr. Gladstone seriously intends retiring at the end of the year.
