A Russian Opinion.

A correspondent of the "Times" notes as signal evidence of a remarkable change which has come over Russian politicians and journalists within a brief period, the altered tone in which some portions of the St. Petersburg press speak of Lord Beaconsfield. For instance, the Novoe Vremya, some months ago the apparently implacable enemy of the British Premier, after passing through certain preliminary phases from abuse to compliments, ended by characterizing him as follows: "Lord Beaconsfield is unquestionably one of the most enlightened and intelligent men of our time. Our feeling of hostility should not close our eyes to his merits, to his remarkable intelligence, to his knowledge of men and things, to his deep study of the Eastern Question past and present. The old man of 72 is a whole arsenal of information and political experience. He has studied the East on the spot, and has visited those places for which he now prepares a place in the garland of British possessions."

NEWS BY TELEGRAPH.

(Special Despatch to Examiner.)

NEW YORK, July 4.

A London special says: It is reported that at one of the meetings of the Congress, Schouvaloff brought up the question of the employment of Indian troops in European warfare, and the selling of modern arms to Asiatic people, especially the Chinese. He wished, he said, to invite the Congress to look upon this subject without passion, and to regard it as affecting the interests of European civilization. He cited the opinion of an eminent savant, who had lately pointed out that, had the ancient Greeks possessed even the rudest of our arms, they could have rolled back the barbarian hordes who swept them away; but the experience of the late campaign had shown that war was no longer to be a contest in which superior physical strength and moral purposes, would win victory. The Turks, armed with rifles made in the United States, entrenched in positions chosen and fortified by military skill, have been able to hold at bay, for weeks, the flower of the Russian army, the best, bravest, and most ardent of soldiers.

If the countless hordes of China and India are to be permitted to arm themselves with modern weapons and to acquire a practical knowledge of the art of modern warfare there will be nothing to prevent them from rolling forth into Europe and crushing Christian civilization out of existence. Especially were Mongolians to be feared from this point of view; and he invited the Congress to take the matter into serious consideration and to deliberate upon the practicability of a league of the European powers binding them to abstain from employing Asiatic troops in Europe, and to prevent, as far as possible, the importation of arms of precision into Asia.

Beaconsfield is said to have made rather a light reply to this appeal and to have said that at all events the subject was not at all germane to the object of the Congress, and should not now be discussed; but Schouvaloff's remark made a strong impression upon Bismarck and Waddington; and subsequently in private conversation they suggested that the subject was worthy of consideration by a Congress expressly for that purpose.

Labor Outrages.

The Telegraph remarks that the lawless conduct of the gangs of men now engaged in destroying reaping machines and other labor-saving agricultural implements, in Indiana and other Western States, cannot fail to awaken the utmost alarm in the Great Republic, and, no doubt, will call forth vigorous remedial measures on the part of the Governments of the several States in which the outrages have taken place. The prosperity of these States and their ability to compete with other countries in the market of Europe depend so largely on the use of labor-saving implements for harvesting the crops, that the farmers will be driven to desperate measures against the ruffians who are endeavoring by such outrages to force their labor upon them. It would be as reasonable to insist that the grain of the west should be drawn to the seaboard in carts as to insist that it should be harvested without reaping machines. The West would be inevitably and hopelessly ruined, if the state of things which these machine destroyers are striving to bring about were to be made permanent. This last phase of the labor question is the most alarming that has yet been presented, and the most vigorous and prompt remedies will be required to meet it.
