Welcomed to City

When the convention resumed in the afternoon delegates heard an address of welcome from His Worship E. A. Foster of Charlottetown.

Business of the session opened with the report of Mrs. W. R. Keenan of Murray River, convener home economics. A part of her work was an interesting exhibit of sheepskin rugs.

An out of the ordinary feature of the session was a demonstration "from sheep to suit" by several delegates, graphically illustrating the processing of wool from shearing the sheep to the final weaving process.

Mrs. E. S. Rose, Souris, convener agriculture followed with her report. A discussion of "agriculture and rural problems" was led by Mr. Allison Proffitt of Preetown.

He stressed the necessity of exciting agriculture in the minds of the people actively engaged in agriculture. "We as a Province will do or fall in just so far as we deal with the problems of agriculture," he declared.

Don't confuse "honest toll" with hardship, he cautioned. He stressed the power of the woman in the home and the great value of a good mother. Don't commit a crime against children by neglecting to teach them discipline and a sense of responsibility. Both would have to be learned when the child went out into the world and could be learned much more easily and with less pain from a mother.

Concerning education Mr. Proffitt advised starting the child to school at seven years of age and "keeping him there as long as possible."

J. A. Clark of the Experimental Farm and Mrs. M. Doyle of Rustico followed in the discussion. To make any deep and permanent improvement in rural conditions the farm and the home both had to be improved, Mrs. Clark believed.

Rural conditions were not good, Mrs. Doyle declared. Mortgaged homes and small incomes should not be the story in a land in which the forefathers of the present generation faced and conquered such conditions. There had been a "failure of those in authority to do anything effective about it," the speaker said. Courageous and far-seeing leadership was needed.

Mr. W. R. Shaw, deputy minister of agriculture said women should have a whole day given over to a study of problems of rural character. He outlined possible development of rural education built up partially through a system of study clubs.

An address by Dr. R. F. Seaman of Charlottetown on cancer completed the program. He stressed strongly that cancer could be cured if discovered early and that it was not contagious. "Let us not become morbid but let us all remember to have it tested and that it can be cured if discovered early," he said.

He made an appeal for support of the Cancer Society of Canada, organized to coordinate efforts to aid in fighting the disease. Dr. Seaman was in the place of Hon. Dr. W. J. P. MacMillan who was unavoidably absent, he said.

Sessions of the convention continued this morning and afternoon. From four to six today His Honor, Lieutenant Governor DeBlois and Mrs. DeBlois are at home to delegates at Government House.

PROVIDENTIAL REPORT

"It affords me much pleasure to afford another year as your president to open this Convention and to come here today," Mrs. L. B. Mellish, President of the Women's Institute said. "You have come from the various activities of life, each person with different problems, but your cares be forgotten for two whole days. Greet one another and make this the most friendly Convention we have ever held. Take part in discussions. We sincerely desire the delegates to feel that this is their convention, and it is their duty and privilege to express their views when matters of interest and importance to the work are brought before the sessions.

"I shall not give you a report of the year's work. The Executive and the Convenors of various departments will deal with their subjects in detail. We held three Executive meetings during the year. These were well attended and matters of importance concerning the work carefully considered and dispatched. It is not amiss to point out to you now the very great importance to the welfare of the work, that your Executive be chosen from among those who have an adequate knowledge of the work."

MARRIAGES

REEVES-PAYNTER—At Charlottetown, on Wednesday, June 21, 1939, by Rev. J. H. Bishop, Velma Isabel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Reeves of Preetown, to William Archibald, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Paynter of Long Bay.

Card Of Thanks

Mr. and Mrs. Graham Gamster of Breadalbane, wish to thank the many friends for their kindness and sympathy on the occasion of their sad bereavement in the death of their son, Elmer. Especially those who sent flowers and letters of sympathy. L-31-62-11.

Card Of Thanks

Mr. W. G. Darke, Hunter River, wishes to thank all his kind friends for letters of sympathy during the illness and death of his wife. L-31-62-11.

Provincial as well as local requirements. I would like to pause a moment to pay tribute to the members of the Executive and the Supervisors. No body of workers could be more faithful in attendance, more congenial and more earnest in their deliberations. This year you shall choose a new president. Be sure you give her convenors who shall do their work for the love of duty and the welfare of humanity.

Re Health Certificate

"The resolution passed at our Annual Convention last year, that a health certificate being required and a reasonable mental test passed by all persons applying for a marriage license was not brought before the last session of the Legislature. It will be the task of the new board to keep this very important matter before the Government. We have always desired every citizen to be those in authority. Being non-partisan gives us a coveted position. We therefore wish to express our sincere thanks for the cooperation of the Legislature. We are also deeply indebted to our Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. DeBlois, who so graciously entertained the Women's Institute in Annual Conventions during their term of office. This courtesy will always be remembered by our organization. The recent visit of our beloved King and Queen was the outstanding event of the year. As a Canadian I thundered her welcome to Her Majesty from coast to coast. We are one great family, privileged to live under the protection of the greatest democracy in the world—the British Empire. Queen Elizabeth is a member of the Women's Institute at Sandringham. Therefore the organization in Canada played Her Majesty to our Canadian Provinces. From what we know of our gracious and understanding Queen we feel that an Institute member who knows what our motto is—"For Home and Country" means. "I must not forget to speak of the journal of the Federated Women's Institutes of Canada, "Home and Country." The first issue was for March 1939. You will notice that Lady Tweedsmuir was the founder of this magazine and has since that time been its guiding spirit. I can help make this Women's Institute paper a success." In the April number there is an outline of Parliamentary procedure for a meeting. I urge you to read these. From page twenty I quote the following: "Parliamentary procedure is the foundation stone of success of Women's Club meetings. Every member should know what a weary and wasted afternoon or evening may result if the chairman cannot conduct a meeting according to the accepted rules of order. It is likewise important to know the satisfaction of a meeting with business and program features efficiently conducted. If the chairman is not well-informed in this respect, it is not to run rampant she has chosen the most effective weapon of killing her organization."

New Institutes

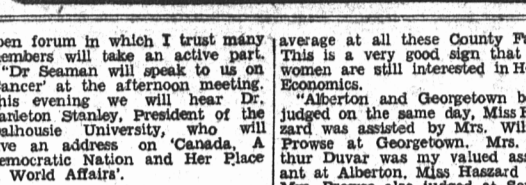

"Thirteen Institutes were organized during the year, four of them being re-organizations. They are as follows: Alexandra, Albion, Bangor, Darlington, Glen Roy (re-organized), Johnston's River, Little Pond (re-organized), Meadowbank, Peak's (re-organized), Spring Park (re-organized), Summerville, Unionvale.

"Several Institutes have disbanded through lack of interest among their members, making the total enrollment of active Institutes 260.

Convenors of Standing Committees "These members have done excellent work through their Questionnaires. I am sure every Institute member realizes how important it is to fill these out promptly and return them to the Convenors. It is your answers which she uses in making out her annual report.

"Our stock of papers and program material is at your disposal at any time and I hope you will keep us very busy filling out your requests. There are papers on the questions, plays, dialogues, monologues, contests, etc., with the use of which you can make your Institute meetings both instructive and amusing.

Youth Training

"Three courses each of six weeks duration were held in Charlottetown during the fall and winter. One hundred and forty girls were given instruction. Each short course accommodates forty-eight students from 16 to 30 years of age. It is necessary to divide the classes into Sections A and B and run classes simultaneously in order to handle such large numbers.

"A special course in tourist catering was inaugurated during the year. In cooperation with the course we obtained the services of a demonstrator from the Department of Fisheries in Ottawa who conducted classes during the first two weeks on the preparation and cooking of fish.

"All classes were carried on as in the Home Making classes, but with special stress being laid on details necessary to access in the tourist trade. For instance in the table service, small tables were used and the girls became accustomed to taking orders and filling them to the instructor's satisfaction. The same applies to all other classes given.

"On the final day of each course the students were at home to the Department of Fisheries and afternoon tea was served in the class dining-room.

"The students were very kindly invited to visit the Parliament Buildings, on which occasion the procedure in the House of Assembly was very ably portrayed to them. In the Confederation Chamber a detailed explanation of the General Plan and all other items of historical interest was given.

"Six Dental Clinics were sponsored and financed by Branch Institutes during the year at which one hundred and forty-four children received treatment. Clinics were held at the following places: St. Andrews (North Rustico); North Westville; Ugar; West Devon; Eidon; and Millville.

"So far this year four requests for Dental Clinics have been filed at the Public Health office.

"Our own Institute News has completed its eleventh year. Its continuation will be discussed at this convention. "On behalf of Miss Hazard and myself I wish to thank the President and members of the Executive who have taken such a keen interest in their work. "I would also like to express our appreciation to the leaders of Sewing Clubs who willingly give their time and ability to the girls of their communities." Miss MacDonald concluded.

"During the winter months a Rural Home Sanitation Contest was sponsored by the Women's Institutes, following the suggestion of the F.W.I.C. convener of Public Health.

"The teachers in all the rural schools were contacted through the kind cooperation of the Department of Education. Advertisements were run in the newspapers of both Summerside and Charlottetown as well as in our own Institute News. Owing to a tie in the Senior Class the judges deemed it advisable to divide the first prize. The following are the winners in both Junior and Senior Classes: Junior (under 14 years), first prize, Dorothy Hickey, Darnley; second prize, Margaret Kelly, Morell.

Senior (over 14 years), first prize, Marion MacQuarrie, New Perth; second prize, Eileen Doucette, Rustico.

"The Chambers of Commerce of South Africa cover the activities of all branches of commerce, and are analogous with the Canadian Boards of Trade. Therefore, at Johannesburg is the premier commercial city of the Union of South Africa, the President of the Johannesburg Chamber carries a very responsible position. South African Chambers of Commerce are held in very high esteem by all Government, Provincial and Municipal bodies, and when any new legislation is anticipated in connection with matters pertaining to commerce, details are nearly always submitted to the various Chambers of Commerce.

"The entry lists were far above average at all these County Fairs. This is a very good sign that our women are still interested in Home Economics. "Alberton and Georgetown being judged on the same day, Miss Hazard was assisted by Mrs. Willard Prowse at Georgetown. Mrs. Arthur Duval was my valued assistant at Alberton. Miss Hazard and Mrs. Prowse also judged at Souris. At Egmont Bay I was assisted by Mrs. James MacFadyen and Mrs. Allison MacLean.

"The students were very kindly invited to visit the Parliament Buildings, on which occasion the procedure in the House of Assembly was very ably portrayed to them. In the Confederation Chamber a detailed explanation of the General Plan and all other items of historical interest was given.

TWO FLIGHTS TO BOSTON—Pilot H. S. Jones, Charlottetown, superintendent of Canadian Airways for the Maritime Provinces made two interesting flights from Halifax to Boston and return the past week. At 7.30 on the evening of June 16 he took off from the Nova Scotia capital for Boston with pictures of the departure of their Majesties from Canada. First flew by instruments to Bangor, Maine, where he cleared the customs and from there on flew on a lighted airline, landing at Boston at midnight. He returned the next day. Last Monday he took off from Halifax for Boston again with pictures of the departure of their Majesties from Newfoundland and returned the next day. Mr. Jones flew a Dragon "Rapid" nine passenger plane similar to, except a later model, the one used regularly on the service between Halifax and Boston. The first trip Mr. Jones made he flew alone while on the second trip he carried a passenger who accompanied the pictures.

Mrs. Grant, secretary of supplies reported that many parcels and boxes of supplies had been received during the year and had been shipped to missionaries in various parts of Canada, Trinidad, Labrador and outposts of Newfoundland. She urged an increase in supplies from the Maritime Presbyteries to meet the need in the various missionary centres. A vote of thanks was passed for companies who have transported the mission boxes free.

The Halifax Presbytery, assisted by a few others, gave a dramatic presentation of the W. M. S. periodicals and literature. Efforts to promote the study of missionary literature has met with some success, the sales showing an increase. Halifax holds the record in this work, having 14 auxiliary libraries.

Mrs. George Gough presented the life history of "World Friends in the Maritimes." The front page of this paper came to life on the platform with children representing the lands arranged around a globe.

Mrs. Reynolds, Mrs. Gough, Miss Robertson, and Miss Matheson held a panel discussion on young people's work which was helpful to the leaders. This discussion was illustrated by posters and handwork.

The periodicals report showed an increase in circulation of 112 for the missionary monthly and 161 for "World Friends."

During the afternoon Mrs. J. J. Rose rendered a solo.

The Minister Chamberlain, assuring the House of Commons that the Government had made it clear to Japan that it did not acquiesce in the blockade, said a statement was expected from Tokyo within the next day or two. He said the Japanese still had not given the British a definite statement of grievances.

U. S. Protest Made The United States Secretary of State, Cordell Hull, said in Washington that the United States Consul-General at Tientsin, John K. Caldwell, had headed the Japanese Chamber of Commerce from the American Chamber of Commerce there against inconvenience to American business by blockade restrictions.

A Nazi move to secularize churches with agencies in Germany and put them under control of Nazi organizations gained momentum. Church sources said supporters and opponents of the move were engaged in a tug-of-war to influence Chancellor Hitler.

The German Government, recalling Consul-General Walter Reihns from Liverpool at the request of the British Government because of alleged connection with espionage, retaliated by demanding that Britain recall the British Consul at Vienna, Donald St. Clair Gansau.

Members attending the first section meeting after the first day of Council sessions heard a call for more teaching about arthritis, lectures on various skin diseases, discussions of obstetrical vices, and other subjects. Medical historians had their inmates too, and several papers were devoted to its history at a meeting in McGill University.

Technical Papers Read To Medicos MONTREAL, June 21—(CP)—The broad field of modern medicine ranging from selective diets for infants to selection of anasthesia, was covered here today in technical papers presented at the 70th annual convention of the Canadian Medical Association.

Colorful Program For Confederation Celebrations

Now that the epoch-making visit of Their Majesties King George VI and his Queen, Elizabeth has passed into history, the eyes of our citizens are focused on the features of the week will be the Confederation Celebration which takes place in Charlottetown during the week of July 17. One of the most colorful and outstanding features of the week will be the street carnival and dance on the night of Wednesday, the 19th of July next. The supervising committee, composed of Cyrus Russell, Cameron, and Green and Kinamen Ayers, Ives and Calbeck, report that much progress has already been made in the arrangements and it certainly looks like a big night of fun and frolic for all those who attend.

The central point of attraction will be the election of the Queen of the Carnival, a young lady chosen by a group of competent judges from a troupe of beautiful Princesses representing the various towns and villages of the Island.

Several centres have already signified their intention of entering their favorite lassie in the contest and we urge all other towns to follow their lead immediately. Full particulars may be secured from Mr. George Ayers, Euston Street in Charlottetown.

The Queen and her company of princesses riding in a large and beautiful float will lead a huge parade of costumed and masked dancers, accompanied by bands and torch-bearers through the city streets in the early evening. This colorful parade will end at the Market Square where the dance will take place. Arrangements have been made to have the Square roped off and brilliantly decorated with strings of colored lights. Orchestral music will be amplified by means of a sound system so that dancers will have no difficulty following the rhythm in any part of the square and several outstanding novelty entertainers will appear between dances according to present plans.

We would like to remind the people that costumes and masks must be worn in the dance area and no one will be permitted to dance who is not in costume until after the unmasking at midnight. Make yours now and I'll see you at the Carnival.

MONTREAL, June 21—(CP)—Modern methods of child-training are used in bringing up the Dionne Quintuplets and they are not being spanked, Dr. Allan Roy Dudge, their physician, said in an interview here today.

"They have never been spanked," he said. "We don't do that." Whether they would be some time in future, he did not say but the country doctor, here for the Canadian Medical Association Convention, was almost certain the present method would prevail.

"We just have a little quiet room," he said in explaining how the babies are punished. "We put them in there to reflect on their sins for a few moments." The others point and say "ah ah" and that cures them.

In the room is a chair, table and a book. All the girls have to do when they commit some wrong is to go in there and reflect.

Members attending the first section meeting after the first day of Council sessions heard a call for more teaching about arthritis, lectures on various skin diseases, discussions of obstetrical vices, and other subjects. Medical historians had their inmates too, and several papers were devoted to its history at a meeting in McGill University.
