EDUCATIONAL COLUMN.

This little book is divided into four parts. Part I. consists of seven Lessons on Definition and Phonotypy; Part II. contains forty-five lessons suitable for pupils in the Second Reader and Third Reader; Part III. contains ninety-two lessons suitable for pupils in the Third and Fourth Readers; Part IV. treats on the derivation of words, prefixes and suffixes.

Most educators consider that a spelling-book is a necessity, and it should be used every day in every grade of school, keeping pace with advancing reading. No study is of more importance than the study of words. It includes enunciation, pronunciation, reading, conversation, writing, a knowledge of the meaning of words, and accuracy in using them. There are certain difficulties in spelling which are well known to be common and almost universal. So far as these difficulties are, or should be, in the pupil's vocabulary, it is surely better to meet them directly and persistently than to await for them to occur incidentally and at long intervals in general composition. What is needed is more TEACHING spelling, not merely spelling PRACTICE. Suitable lists and exercises upon words of similar sound but different spelling and sense are given in this speller. It also contains the few REALLY GOOD spelling rules. Pupils will find the exercise in word-building both pleasant and valuable.

HASTY JUDGMENT. Hasty judgment is dangerous, even when one relies upon evidence of one's own senses. The Cornhill Magazine says that a school inspector was reading a piece of dictation to a class under examination, when he noticed a boy behaving in a manner that suggested underhand work. His head was bent low, and his slate, instead of resting on the desk, was underneath it.

Feeling sure that the passage was being copied from a book hidden on the seat, the inspector pounced upon the boy with all the severity that he deemed such a piece of cheating to merit. The next moment he wished he had been less hasty.

To his astonishment and sorrow, he found that the little fellow, upon

Clerking

Looks more attractive than housework for a woman, but it is also even more exhausting. The work is often done under high pressure, and the brightness of the eyes and the flushed cheeks of the attentive clerk indicate nervousness rather than health. If this is true under most favorable conditions, what shall be said of those who suffer from womanly diseases, and who endure headache, backache, and other pains day after day?

No sick woman should neglect the means of cure for womanly diseases offered in Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It regulates the periods, dries enfeebled, inflamed, and ulcerated, and cures female weakness. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

"A heart overflowing with gratitude, as well as a sense of duty, urges me to write to you and tell you of my wonderful recovery," says Miss Corinne C. Hook, Orangeburg, Orangeburg Co., South Carolina. "By the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription I am entirely a new being compared with the poor miserable sufferer who wrote you four months ago. I remark to my parents almost every day that it seems almost an impossibility for medicine to do a person so much good. During the whole summer I could scarcely keep up to walk about the house, and yesterday I walked four miles and felt better from the exercise. I now weigh 125 pounds. Mine was a complicated case of female disease in its worst form."

Doctor Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure biliousness.

CAN YOU BLAME THEM.

Suicides are so Often Martyrs to the Terrors of Dyspepsia.

To Many in a state of Debility so great, Death in almost any form seems Preferable — Dyspepsia more than any other Disease Affects the mind, and Brings on "The Blues."

This is not written to defend those who commit suicide. They are in every case cowards, and yet perhaps we do not always stop to consider the extremities which these poor unfortunates have reached, before the temptation comes to raise their hands against their own lives.

Do you know the torture of Dyspepsia? How it torments the body and depresses the mind, till life itself becomes a burden? But even then, there is no excuse for suicide. True, the nature of the disease is such that it affects the mind, but to all so affected there comes the message of hope in Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets, the remedy that has always relieved, and has never failed to cure permanently any case of Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Heartburn, Sour Stomach, or other Stomach Trouble (except cancer.)

The large, white Tablets will digest all the food, rest and tone up the stomach, and bring new life and health to the system.

The smaller, brown Tablets act as a cathartic, stimulating the action of the liver and bowels, and thus assist in the work of restoration. Together they form what is absolutely the only reliable treatment for Dyspepsia, or diseases of the Stomach, Liver and Bowels. All in one box. Fifty cents at all dealers.

Don't be despondent. Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets will make you well.

whom he had come down so sharply, had lost both hands; and was working with might and main to get the passage down with the toes of his right foot.

THE SOURCES OF TIN. During the closing half of the nineteenth century, Cornwall, which from ancient times had been the world's greatest source of supply for tin, has lost that distinction. Even as late as 1859 Cornwall supplied one-half of all the tin produced, but now the Malay Peninsula stands at the head, having in 1898 turned out more than 60 per cent. of the world's total production. The Dutch East India stands next, with 19 per cent, while Cornwall turned out only about 5,000 tons, not quite seven per cent of the whole.

JOKOSERIO.

"I know you don't want to go to school, Billy," said the parent. "But it's a cross everybody has to take up—it's a duty you owe to the schoolmaster, who has got to make a living. I felt just like you does about it, fore they run me down and collared me and shod me and stropped a shirt on me and fired me whole into the middle of a school-house."

Inspector.—Suppose I lent your father £100 in June, and he promised to pay me back £10 on the first of every month, how much would he owe me at the end of the year? Pupil.—"£100, sir."

Inspector.—"You're a very ignorant little girl. You don't know the most elementary rules of arithmetic."

Pupil.—"Ah, sir, but you don't know father."

Teacher.—What is an unknown quantity? Coal dealer's son.—What you get when you buy a ton of coal.

A little girl is reported to have written in her examination paper, "The Arctic Ocean is chiefly used for purposes of exploration."

er of the elder brother. "But amidst all the rejoicing," he said, "there was one to whom the preparation of the feast brought no joy, to whom the prodigal's return gave no pleasure, but only bitterness, one who did not approve of the feast they held, and who had no wish to attend it. Now, can any of you tell me who this was?" There was a breathless silence, followed by a vigorous cracking of thumbs, and then from a dozen sympathetic little geniuses came the chorus. "Please, sir, it was the fatted calf."

One day a master at a big public school accosted a new boy with: "Well, what is your name?" "John Walden." "Sir!" yelled the master, horrified at the unceremonious answer, "John Walden," innocently repeated the culprit. "Well, sir, I want you to put a 'sir' on it." "Sir John Walden," was the calm reply. His class burst into roars of laughter and the new boy was dubbed "Sir John" ever after.

A Frenchman intending to compliment a young lady by calling her a gentle lamb, said "She is one tame mutton as is small."

Teacher—"Fritz, tell me the name of the animal who furnishes us with hams?" "The butcher."
