YESTERDAY afternoon more than 300 Kinsmen from all over the Maritimes (District 7) arrived in Summerside for the district's annual convention. Here, four of the visitors are seen registering at the Garden of the Gulf Motel. In the centre are Mrs. Shella Parnham and James Nesbitt, both of St. John's, Nfld. The others in the photo are not identified. Registrar was Fred Hyndman.

Kinvention Opens In S'side As Nearly 400 Register

SUMMERSIDE — Early last evening more than 300 Kinsmen, Kinettes and their families registered here for the Maritime Kinsmen (District 7) convention.

Those registering represent 33 of the 34 Kinsmen clubs throughout the Maritime Provinces, including Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, and Newfoundland. Some of the larger representations are from Kinsmen clubs in St. John's, (24) Sydney, Halifax, Dartmouth, Saint John, and Newcastle. Some are also from as far away as Wabush, Nfld.

Convention chairman Jim Harris, of the 43-member Summerside club under the presidency of Neil MacLeod, said that at least 500 are expected before the weekend convention comes to a close.

Mr. Harris described the convention as "the most successful" and is "much larger than any other Maritime Kinvention on record."

Convention headquarters are at the Garden of the Gulf Motel here and two gigantic marquees have been set up for the general meetings and activities. ONLY ONE IN S'SIDE

The "Kinvention" is the only convention slated for the western capital this centennial year.

This has been classed as a "holiday kinvention" and as a result has attracted many family groups. One of the family groups is District Governor George Gamberg and Mrs. Gamberg of Corner Brook, Nfld., and his family of 10.

The founder of Kin, a truly Canadian service club, Hal Rogers of Hamilton, who will be accompanied by Mrs. Rogers, will be arriving in Summerside this evening at 6.10.

The convention activities include, a mammoth parade this evening at 6:30, the choosing of a district governor tomorrow morning, and a governor's banquet and ball Saturday evening.

The two Maritime Kinsmen contesting the district governor's seat are: Jack Reagan of the Dartmouth club and Jerry Vincent of the Saint John, N.B. club.

Earl Smith of the Sydney club and Bob Loring of the Gander club are contestants for the zone two, district seven deputy governor battle. Zone deputy governor is Chester MacDonald, who is past president of the Summerside Kinsmen club.

Mr. MacDonald was elected earlier this year at a regional convention in Newcastle, N.B.

HUMOROUS ASPECT

A humorous aspect of the convention occurred at approximately six o'clock Wednesday evening, when local Kinsmen went to the airport to meet national secretary Dr. Murray Bowman. It seems that five pieces of Dr. Bowman's luggage arrived, but not Dr. Bowman nor his wife.

Dr. Bowman and Mrs. Bowman arrived safely yesterday morning.

A large number of the activities being held over the weekend will take place in the new Prince County Vocational High School.

During the day yesterday 34 delegates took part in a golf tournament at the Summerside Golf and Country club.

Hubert Harnett of Corner Brook, Nfld. and Robert Evans, Sydney with 78s tied for the low gross score while Roy Braman, also of Sydney, walked off with top honors in the low net bracket.

showed the cabinet buttermaking and cheesemaking operations and cold storage facilities. Following examination of creamery facilities, the cabinet called on Sutherland Brothers woodworking plant, just across the street from the creamery.

Morell regional high school was the next stop for the cabinet. Here, Premier Shaw addressed the students who were just finishing writing examinations.

Premier Shaw emphasized that students should take advantage of their younger years to complete their education. He said "if you let this opportunity slip by you will find that you can never regain it in the years ahead."

The Morell Branch of the Royal Canadian Legion was host to the cabinet for a reception and luncheon. Lobster dinner was served by the Legion auxiliary. Auxiliary members who catered were Mrs. Leo Rossiter, Mrs. J. B. Jay, Mrs. John McGrath, Mrs. Nora Murphy, Mrs. John MacDonald and Mrs. Vincent McGrath, auxiliary president.

The cabinet got right down to business after the Legion luncheon, holding its meeting in the library of the regional high school.

Following the meeting, the premier visited a number of elderly citizens in the Morell area. Next stop was a reception at the home of Industry and Natural Resources Minister Leo Rossiter, followed by supper at the Morell United Church Hall.

VILLAGE MAKES STRIDES

Commenting on his visit to Morell, Premier Shaw said "this village has certainly made rapid strides in the past few years. I am certainly impressed with the development of the creamery here. It will be a wonderful influence on the development of the social and economic life of the county. Actually, we have a three-pronged development in the area. Included is the creamery, the fish packing plant and the regional high school. All these things make Morell one of the most progressive rural districts in the province."

Asked if the cabinet will be meeting in other centres of the province during the summer, Premier Shaw suggested that he would like to hold a meeting in the Egmont Bay area of Prince County.

Rec. Centre Opens Display

Monday, June 29th, a special Centennial display project opens at the Basilica Recreation Centre, Charlottetown, for the height of the Centennial season from now until September.

Sponsored by community organizations, the display occupies four rooms at the centre. It will include the Prince Edward Island Women's Institute exhibit of handiwork, hooking, weaving, sewing petit point, handmade works and objects of historical interest along with a handicraft booth which will sell Island made crafts.

In a second room, Mrs. Leone Ross of Charlottetown has organized a children's exhibit room displaying examples of mural competitions, history, handwriting, and artwork contests . . . all the final prize winners in the six-month Centennial campaign which Mrs. Ross has been conducting throughout the Island, plus examples of different grades school work which she herself has selected in the province.

In another room the National Film Board will be showing a constant run of NFB film documentary shorts on the theme of Canada, travel and people. A fourth room will be given to an outstanding international collection of historical dolls gathered by Mrs. Isabelle Sparling of Moncton, New Brunswick. The display includes 600 dolls—replicas of political and royal figures as well as dolls in the native costumes of countries throughout the world.

City Resident Has Chance For $150,000

Charlottetown's own Aesculapius has a very good chance of winning $150,000.

Aesculapius-also known as Dr. J.C. Sinnott, as The Guardian learned last night—has drawn Santa Claus, the odds-on favorite in the Irish Derby, with the ticket numbered TXS 62715 in the famed Irish Sweepstakes.

Certain previous speculation had already arisen that the man behind the odd name was a doctor, for, according to another Charlottetown medical man, Aesculapius means just that—doctor —in Greek.

Buying sweepstakes tickets is illegal in Canada, although no one seems to mind when it comes time to collect winnings resulting from the $3 "investment."
