Retiring Anti-Combines Pair Assigned To Special Post

OTTAWA (CP)—The two retiring members of the Restrictive Trade Practices Commission have been appointed special assistants under the Combines Act to permit them to complete a report on the drug industry inquiry, Justice Minister Fleming has announced.

He said in the Commons the appointments, which become effective when their terms expire Oct. 31, should make it possible for the drug report to be completed by the end of the year.

The appointees — C. Rhodes Smith, commission chairman, and A. S. Whiteley, commissioner—will be able to devote full time to preparation of the report.

Following Mr. Fleming's announcement, External Affairs Minister Green announced that Mr. Whiteley, 59, will become Canadian consul-general in Seattle Jan. 1 on completion of the drug report.

UNDER FIRE

The government has been under opposition fire for its decision not to reappoint Mr. Smith and Mr. Whiteley to the commission on which they have served for the last 10 years.

Paul Martin (L—Essex East) welcomed the announcement on behalf of the Liberals although he described it as belated and taken only after Liberal MPs had suggested in the House that some arrangement be made to permit Mr. Smith and Mr. Whiteley to complete the inquiry.

Frank Howard (NDP—Skeena) said he regrets that Mr. Whiteley's experience and knowledge will be lost in the anti-combines field. But the action was good enough to ensure speedy conclusion of an inquiry started five years ago.

He said the obvious conclusion to be drawn from Mr. Fleming's statement was that the government acted only because of persistent efforts by the opposition to spotlight the departure of the two men.

Nfld. Sets Up Hog Station

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — The first shipment of breeding stock for a hog breeding station being established by the Newfoundland agricultural department have arrived, Agricultural Minister W. J. Keough announced.

Mr. Keough said in a statement development of the breeding station is an important step in implementing a livestock production program being established by the government, designed to make Newfoundland more self - sufficient in meat, egg and other livestock production.

The 50 hogs come from breeding lines which have shown an ability to produce top grade pork carcasses with the most economical usage of feed. They were specially produced by Connaught Laboratories of Toronto.

Other steps in the program, announced by the government during the spring session of the legislature, include establishment of a feed mill and an abattoir.

PC Organizer Has Gov't Job

OTTAWA (CP)—Frank Howard (NDP — Skeena) said here that Saskatchewan Indian chief, hired at a cost of $6,500 to survey opinions of Indians in the province, is an organizer for the Progressive Conservative party.

He made the comment in the Commons after Citizenship Minister Bell reported the payment to Chief Joseph Dreaver of the Mistawasis band was to survey and report on the reactions of Indians to last year's recommendations by a special Senate-Commons committee on Indian affairs.

Mr Howard asked whether the government was aware that "most of his time in Saskatchewan is spent in organizing for the party."

"No," Mr Bell replied.

English Mother, 11 Children Plan Return To N.S.

NEW VICTORIA, N.S. (CP)—An English - born widow and her 11 children plan to return to this small Cape Breton coal mining town next month.

Mrs. Jean Tighe informed relatives here that she and the children have been homesick since returning to her native village of Poynings and planned to return.

Mrs. Tighe first came to Canada as a 17-year-old war bride in 1946. Her coal miner husband Joe Tighe died in 1961.

After his death, Mrs. Tighe's mother, wife of a Sussex golf club greenskeeper, appealed to Red Cross officials for assistance to bring the family to England. The children range in age from three to 18 years.

Opening lead—four of spades.

Maintaining control over trumps is vital in the play of many suit contracts. This hand required delicate treatment by the declarer to bring home his slam contract.

West led a spade and dummy took it with the ace. Declarer played a club and finessed the queen. West showing out. South realized, from the bidding, that he would be unable to ruff his diamonds successfully in dummy, so he led a heart and finessed the queen, hoping to establish that suit and thus take care of some of his diamond losers.

The finesse lost to the king and East returned the ten of diamonds. South took the ace, and, proceeding according to plan, played a heart to the ace and ruffed a heart. If he had ruffed a diamond first or chosen to finesse the club after winning with the ace of hearts, he would have been defeated.

The hearts having turned out to be divided 3-3, South now ruffed a diamond in dummy. At this point, dummy had two good hearts, two trumps, and the J-3 of spades, while East still had the K-9 of clubs and four spades.

South still had to take a club finesse to pick up East's K-9, but he couldn't afford it yet. Instead, he led one of dummy's hearts, which amounted, in effect, to a trump finesse if East chose to ruff.

East was now faced with a Hobson's choice. If he trumped the heart, declarer would overruff, draw another round of trump, and then be able to ruff one diamond and discard his other diamond on the last heart.

If East didn't ruff the heart, South would discard a diamond and lead still another heart. Whether East ruffed at this point would again make no difference. East's king of clubs was bound to be trapped either on that trick or the next one.

So South made the slam as a result of his thoughtful play. By establishing the hearts he was able to finesse in trumps without leading them.
