

Editorial

for all you marshmallow minds out there in powder puff paradise -- nyaaaaah!

well, somehow that doesn't make me feel any better. welcome, slaves of your own inability, to one of the last issues of the SUN. i am extremely pissed off (there mom, i said it). the SUN is late this week due not to illness of the editor (although many will consider that debatable), nor to the snowstorm, nor because of any other wild and sundry excuses but because of lack of staff. i refuse to put out any more issues with a skeleton crew of my steadily dwindling number of friends. i would rather kill the SUN than to keep it the bulletin board that it has become. that function is reserved for the ICB found on all bulletin boards.

if UPEI can boast of no individuals with creative minds, then the SUN has no right to exist. right now i am racing against a late deadline, so i may have to continue this outrage next week. yes, there will be a next week, if only to see how many of you lazy bastards will get off your asses and volunteer a few hours of your precious time spent watching soap operas and other mind-destroying TV shows. go kill brain cells in Charlottetown's clubs, but don't expect any sympathy from me. when you end up driving idiots, forget that i even told you that your imagination and creative abilities and your mind, in sum total, are the most important assets you could ever hope to have.

now, to get you where it hurts.... if the SUN disbands for the year, you will all be out much of the money you paid to the studnet union at the beginning of the year.

FEEDBAG

For its tenth consecutive year, CWY, a private non-profit organization, is offering young Canadians between the ages of 17 and 20 (workers, those looking for a job and students) the opportunity to learn about development through voluntary work projects in Canadian communities and in a developing nation in Africa, Asia, or Latin America. The seven month exchange program aims at helping these young people, along with their exchange country counterparts, explore their role and place in the world today and in their society in particular.

Costs for food, lodging and transportaion during this program, as well as some pocket money, are covered by CWY, purposely making this experience available to young people from all backgrounds. For this reason we are asking you to help us reach as many interested young Canadians as possible. March 13 is the deadline for receiving application for both Program "A" which starts in July and Program "B" which begins in September.

Please do not hesitate to contact our regional director for further material and information, or to arrange for interviews and/or inforamtion sessions.

Sincerely yours,
John Ure

Dear Editor

The Foreign & Domestic Teachers Organization needs teacher applicants in all fields from Kindergarten through College to fill over five hundred teaching vacancies both at home and abroad.

Since 1968, our organization has been finding vacancies and locating teachers both in foreign countries and in all fifty states. We possess hundreds of current openings and have all the information as to scholarships, grants, and fellowships.

The principle problem with first year teachers is where to find the jobs!

Since College Newspapers are always anxious to find positions for their graduating teachers, your paper may be interested in your teachers finding employment for the following year, and print our request for teachers.

Our information and brochure is free and comes at an opportune time when there are more teachers than teaching positions.

Should you wish additional information about our organization, you may write the Portland Oregon Better Business Bureau or the National Teacher's Placement Agency, UNIVERSAL TEACHERS, Box 5231, Portland, Oregon 97208.

We do not promise every graduate in the field of education a definite position, however, we do promise to provide them with a wide range of hundreds of current vacancy notices both at home and abroad.

Sincerely
John P. McAndrew, President
Foreign & Domestic Teachers

so, unless i see more people willing to devote a few hours of their time to write a few articles, even a letter expressing how pissed off you are at the endless ravings of this editorial, the SUN will be no more for this year, and i will have no regrets.

you've been warned.....
have a funny week and be strong.
