DODGERS JUBILANT

Roger Craig Is Choice Today

By TED SMITS

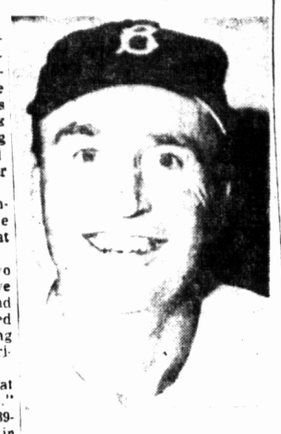
BROOKLYN (AP)—Walter Alston, jubilant manager of the high-riding Brooklyn Dodgers, has plotted a crafty course against the Yankees when the world series shifts to the big Bronx ball park today. He will send Roger Craig out to pitch, and he still could use Sal Maglie, Clem Labine or even Don Newcombe on Sunday.

He refused, however, to be pinned down on his pitching choice for Sunday, much less to say that he had the Yankees on the run.

"After all, they had us two games down last year, and we won," said Alston as cheers and shouts rang through the crowded Dodger dressing room following Dodgers' second game 13-8 triumph over the Yankees.

"Tomorrow it's Craig. After that we will play it one at a time."

On Sunday, however, the 39-year-old Maglie, the 6-3 winner in the opener, will have had three days of rest and could come back



WALT ALSTON

HEROES KEEP COOL

"Since Don Bessent went as far as he did today, that will pretty much take him out of the picture, and I want to have Clem Labine ready in reserve. I could see Labine starting day after tomorrow if he doesn't need to get up too much tomorrow."

"Get up" is baseball for saying that a relief pitcher warms up in the bull pen ready to go into the game.

The three Dodger heroes of the day — Bessent, Gil Hodges and Duke Snider—posed for innumerable pictures, but needed a little urging to hug and grin in warm enough fashion.

Bessent said his most effective pitch was his fast ball, and named Enos Slaughter, the 40-year-old outfielder, as the Yankee who gave him the most trouble.

"I threw a few curves, and used my changeup a few times," said Bessent. "I had good stuff and I didn't need to worry."

Manager Alston declined to put his finger on a particular turning point of the game.

Hodges two doubles—Snider's home run—there were a couple of turning points really," he said.

NEWK'S CONTROL OFF

Asked about the collapse of his big ace, Don Newcombe, who yielded a grand-slam homer to Yogi Berra in the second inning, Alston said:

"I thought Newcombe had good stuff, but he wasn't sharp with his control. He looked good warming up, but he didn't get his changeup in spots. I think Berra's homer came off a fast ball. That was a big jolt there. A lot of the time Newcombe has trouble in the early innings.

"But when a pitcher wins 27 games in the season you've got to go with him."

Newcombe, who pitched less than two innings, should be strong enough to come back after only a couple days of rest. He had four days before Friday's game, and it has been observed in the past that when he has that much he tends to lose control.

OVERCOME 6-0 NEW YORK LEAD

Dodgers Rally To Wallop Yanks 13-8 In 2nd Game

By JACK HAND

BROOKLYN (AP)—The aroused Brooklyn Dodgers staged the greatest winning rally in a world series game since the 1929 Philadelphia As Friday to erase a six-run deficit and whip the pitching-poor New York Yankees 13-8 for their second straight series victory.

Trailing 6-0 after Yogi Berra's grand slam homer in the second, the Dodgers thrilled 36,217 Ebbets Field fans with a six-run spurt in the second, capped by Duke Snider's 10th series homer with two on Joe Collins' costly error on a potential double play ball opened the gates.

While manager Casey Stengel paraded seven pitchers to the mound for a record in the longest nine - inning series game ever played, the Dodgers went on to win on a pair of two-run doubles by Gil Hodges, Junior Gilliam's two-run single in the eighth completed the rout of the Yanks.

PITCHERS LOOKED BAD

Records fluttered during the wild ball game that packaged a weird mixture of base hits, walks and errors. When the last out was recorded, three hours and 26 minutes after the start, many of the customers already were on the way back to their warm hotel rooms.

As the Brooks rallied in the second, greybeards of the press coop recalled the storied rally by the Athletics who came up with 10 runs in the seventh inning, Oct. 12, 1929 to overcome an 8-0 Chicago Cub lead. That game, 27 years ago, was the famous contest in which Hack Wilson lost Mule Haas' fly ball in the sun for a three-run homer.

With the exception of Don Bessent, the Dodgers' talented reliefer who became the winning pitcher after big Don Newcombe was chased, the pitchers involved should hang their heads and go stand in the corner. Never have so many accomplished so little.

ODDS AGAINST YANKS

Those who search series games for heroes can have their choice. Snider broke his own National League series record by hitting his 10th homer, tying Lou Gehrig among the all-time greats. Only Babe Ruth's 15 in 10 series tops it. And this is only the Duke's fifth series.

The hero worshippers could have Hodges whose four runs batted in on the pair of doubles made his total seven for two games, only two short of Gehrig's all-time high in 1928.

The embarrassed Yankees, who breezed to the American League pennant while the Dodgers struggled through the final day, never had so many runs scored against them in a series since 1921 when New York Giants also hit the 13-run pool.

Two down after two games, the Yanks, who used to crush the opposition in four straight, now have the same fate staring them in the face as they return to Yankee Stadium for today's third game.

Only two clubs in series history have lost the first two and then came back to win. One was the Giants of 1921 in a nine-game set. The other, of course, was the 1955 Brooklyn club.

COSTLY ERROR

Collins, inserted into the lineup by Stengel with second baseman Jerry Coleman in a pre-game shakeup, made his costly error in the second when he dropped Sandy Amoros' grounder after Hodges had opened the inning with a single. It might have been a double play. Instead the Brooks had two on with nobody out.

What happened after that was one of the most exciting stories in Dodger history.

Don Larsen Stengel's first tabber on the mound, walked Carl Furillo to load them up. Roy Campanella's sacrifice fly brought in Hodges but it seemed relatively unimportant. After all, Yogi's blast had widened the Yank lead to 6-0 in the top of the second and now it was only 6-1.

After pinch-hitter Dale Mitchell fouled out, Larsen walked Junior Gilliam. Johnny Kucks walked in to try to put out the blaze.

Pee Wee Reese worked the count to 3-2, fouled off three and finally singled to left, driving in Amoros and Furillo. Now it was only 6-3. Stengel already had seen enough. He waved for Tommy Byrne, the veteran lefthander, to face Snider who is supposed to be a sucker for a southpaw.

Snider swung at the first pitch and missed, and then hoisted a three-run homer far over the scoreboard in right centre that put the Dodgers back in business at 6-6. The Yanks never did get ahead again.

Brooklyn opened up a 7-6 gap in the third on Bessent's single that scored Hodges from third with two men out. But the Yanks came back to tie at 7-7 in the fourth on a single by Tom Morgan, who turned out to be the losing pitcher, a sacrifice bunt by Gil McDougald and Enos Slaughter's sacrifice fly to centre.

SCRAPED BULLPEN

Hodges broke the tie with a double off the left field wall that bounced past Slaughter on the way back, scoring both Snider and Jackie Robinson who had opened the inning with singles off Morgan. Gil's second double came in the fifth after a walk to Snider and a single by Robinson. The hit finished Morgan.

It started like a wild Yankee day with Newcombe, the Dodgers' 27-game winner, already in the showers before the second inning was over. But it ended with Stengel scraping the bottom of the bullpen barrel. Larsen, Kucks Byrne, Tom Sturdivant, Morgan, Bob Turley and Mickey McDermott all got in the box score.

A single by Slaughter, the 40-year-old warhorse, started the Yanks on the way in the first. He moved around when Newk walked Berra and scored the first run when Collins singled to centre.

Billy Martin led off the second-inning attack on Newk with an infield single and was moved to second by Coleman's bunt. Larsen helped himself with a single, scoring Martin. McDougald's single, a force play by Slaughter and a walk to Mickey Mantle loaded them up for Berra.

The Yogi hit one of Newk's pitches over the right field screen about 400 feet for the fifth grand slam in series history, four by Yanks. Newk left the premises hurriedly after Berra's swat.

Bessent gave only one run in the fourth and another in the ninth.

"Needed Another Touchdown," Case

By WILL GRIMSLEY

BROOKLYN (AP)—"I went to grab the ball and it wasn't there. I never had it. I don't know what happened."

That was the way leathery Joe Collins, New York Yankee first-baseman, described the harrowing second-inning error which opened the door for six unearned runs and probably paved the way for Brooklyn's 13-8 victory Friday in the second world series game.

Gil Hodges was on second base with a single, the Dodgers behind 6-0, when Sandy Amoros hit a high-bound but routine grounder down the first-base line.

Collins reached high to snare the ball, whipped around to make the play at second base and the ball squirted out of his hand.

"It was an easy play-or so it seemed," said the 33-year-old veteran, playing in his sixth world series. "I could have made the throw easily to second for a double play.

"But the ball—I never touched it, although it hit in my glove. It must have come out when I pivoted."

It was the first world series error for the lean first-baseman in 24 games. In previous world series he had made 144 putouts and 11 assists without a miscue. It was because of his superb fielding ability that he had been substituted in the second game for Bill Skowron.

The Yankees, including Collins, talked matter-of-factly and without histrionics of their second straight defeat in the Brooklyn park.

Somebody suggested to Casey Stengel, the crease-faced Yankee manager, that it was a football score.

"We needed another touchdown," the skipper said wryly, showing he hadn't lost his sense of humor in these bad times for the Yankees.

Stengel announced that Whitey Ford, who started Wednesday's losing game, would be the starter today when the scene shifts to Yankee Stadium.

"He's all right," Casey said. "He only pitched three innings in the first game and he's strong enough to go. I'm not worried. And I have Turley (Bob Turley, who relieved Friday) and Grim (Bob Grim), one of the men I haven't used yet."

The Yankees broke an all-time world series record in using seven pitchers to try to halt the rampaging Dodgers — pitchers who gave up another record of 11 walks.

Stengel blamed the two opening defeats on the wildness of his pitching staff. "We're getting the runs, but we can't hold them other fellows," he said.

Yogi Berra, the Yankee catcher whose grand-slam homer in the second inning set off the day's fireworks, said the Yankee pitchers were having trouble getting the ball where they wanted to pitch it.

Remember When

Duke Snider became the first Brooklyn Dodger to hit three home runs in a world series when he powdered one with sacks empty in the sixth inning of the sixth game against the Yankees four years ago today. But the Yanks won that one by 3-2, and took the series by four games to three in the final game next day.

DOWN THE BACK STRETCH

The handsome grey pacer Grey Egle 2:10 by Chief Counsel 1:57¾ dam Vivian O'Briant, owned by Iron Club, Sydney, and driven by Joe MacDonald, headed a group of the fastest pacers brought together at Sydney this season last Saturday night. Horsemen will remember that he was bought by Joe MacDonald at Richelieu Park, Montreal, in the fall of 1954 and is one of the handsomest horses of his color seen on a Maritime speedway in a long time. Last year he made 30 starts, was 7 times first, 15 times second and 10 times third and this year while we haven't got the complete records he is credited with eleven wins. Here is the summary: Grey Eagle 2:10 (J. MacDonald) 1 — 1, 2 — 2, Shining Hour 2:10 1-5 3-7, True Linn 2:04 3-5. Also started, Mr. Waldo 2:09, David Caudle 2:08 1-5 and Tronia's Bob 2:04 4-5. Time, 2:15, 2:11 2-5—the latter a very creditable mile for a cold night in fall. Our congratulations to our friend Joe, whom we regard as one of the best reinsmen in the Maritimes.

Other winners were: Races 1 and 4, Breton Girl (J. MacDonald 1—1, Crusader's First 2-5, Evelyn Budlong 3-4, Highland Malcolm 4-2. Time, 2:23 2-5, 2:24 1-5. The winning owner is Fred Jackson, North Sydney. Races 2 and 6, Blue Prince, owned and driven by J. Sutherland, 1-6, Alleghany Boy, owned and driven by Ernie Frost, 4-1. Dian Mc 2-7, Alfreda Hal 3-2. Time, 2:24, 2:24, 2:20 Trot and Pace, Wilkin (W. Lewis) 1-2, Voltector (J.Reid) 4-1, Becky Counsel 2-6. Time, 2:15 1-5, 2:14. Wilkin is owned by Richard Jabalee, North Sydney, Voltector by Stan Cleary, North Sydney. Wilkin 2:08 has been a grand old race horse and this season is his final year. Readers of this column over the years will remember many stirring finishes that he made not only over the Sydney track but over other Maritime tracks including Charlottetown.

Yanks All But Counted Out?

The World Series isn't over yet but even some of the most die-hard Yankee fans we have been speaking to concede that it might as well be. There is a great deal of woe in Casey Stengel's camp as the Yanks brood over their two straight losses to the Brooklyns, the first time such a thing ever has happened to the proud wearers of Yankee grey and at the moment the Yanks face not only the prospect of losing the second straight series to the Brooks but could well suffer the humiliation of losing it in four straight games.

Of course things may be a little different now that the Dogers willl be playing the next two games in a major league ballpark. Yankee Stadium is somewhat larger than Ebbetts Field and home runs and doubles hit in the Dodgers home grounds are only fly ballls in the home of the Bombers. Also unlike Ebbets Field the Stadium isn't known as the graveyard of lefthanders and in case anybody has forgotten in the confusion of the past few days the best pitcher owned by the Yanks, Whitey Ford by name, is a southpaw. Ford beat the Dodgers twice last year at the Stadium and there doesn't seem to be any reason why he can't do it again.

Although Duke Snider has been belting the home runs and drawing most of the praise Gil Hodges has been playing some sensational baseball and hitting a blue streak for the Brooks. In seven trips to the plate Hodges is roaring along with a .714 average with 5 hits, which include two doubles and a homer good for 7 runs batted in. Snider has three hits in seven tries for a .429 average and Jackie Robinson and Carol Furillo are each batting .375 having three hits in 8 trips. Reese is hitting an even .300.

On the Yankee side of the ledger old Enos Slaughter is leading the pack with 5 hits in 9 trips good for a .556 aver-age. Andy Carey and Hank Bauer are the only other Yankees up more than once who are hitting .300. Mantle, Berra and Billy Martin are all hitting at .286 with 2 hits in 7 trips. The Yankee team average is .300. The Dodgers better them by 13 points at .313.

The Intermtdiate Abbies will be leaving Sunday for Memramcook where they take on the Rovers in the best-of-three series for the Maritime A crown. Two games and if a third is needed it will likley be played here Monday. The Abbies have played the Rovers twice so far this season losing both games but we'll be rooting for the Abbies to bring back the Maritime title.

Johnny Landy May Miss Olympics

SPORT JOHNNY LANDY

MELBOURNE (Reuters)—John Landy, Australia's world mile record holder, has broken down again in training and may miss next months Olympic Gats here.

"This could be the end, bu I'm not letting it get me down," Landy said Friday.

The lanky Australian, who recently returned to the track after tendon trouble in each leg, went for at raining run Thursday night on the track at Geelong grammar school where ht teaches.

He said that the pain he had been having in his feet moved up into his thighs during the run.

"It is impossible for me to do a lap at top speed," he said. "But other athletes all over the world have had this worry, and they managed to come good, so I am hoping for the best."

Landy is due to run in the 1,500—and 5,000—metres events in the Australian Olympic trials later this month.

Newcombe Reported Involved In Rhubarb After Contest

NEW YORK (AP) — Dodger pitcher Don Newcombe, knocked out of the world series game by a Yankee onslaught, was reported Friday to have become involved in a rhubarb with a fan.

There were several versions as to what happened, but neither Newcombe nor the fan was immediately available for comment.

One eyewitness account had Newcombe hitting the fan, parking lot attendant Michael Brown, 37. Others said they just exchanged a few hard words.

There was no police action in the case.

The incident was supposed to have taken place outside Ebbets Field.

"WHAT HAPPENED?"

According to one eyewitness, Brown taunted the downcast Newcombe with "What happened? the Yanks took good care of you today, didn't they?"

Newcombe, a six-foot-four, 225-pounder, the victim of a bases-loaded home run, allegedly strode over and punched Brown in the face and stomach. Police and bystanders separated them, according to this account, and Brown was taken to the Dodger clubhouse for treatment.

But Arthur E. (Red) Patterson the Dodger director of public retify called Newcombe a name and lations, said a fan he did not identhe pitcher pushed him.

"You're no good when the going is tough," Patterson quoted the fan as saying.

Patterson said the fan thought Newcombe was going to slug him and called a policeman.

He quoted the policeman as saying no complaint was made and Newcombe drove off for his home.
