

From the discontent of man the world's best progress springs.

If fifty million people say a foolish thing, it is still a foolish thing.

By Carrier: Charlottetown, Summerside $15.00 per annum. Elsewhere by P. E. I. $9.00. Other Provinces and U. S. A. $12.00 per annum.

CHARLOTTETOWN, CANADA, TUESDAY, DECEMBER 9, 1952

16 PAGES

The Guardian, Five Cents Morning Daily Founded 1887.

UNREST IN MOROCCO CLOSE TO OPEN ARMED REVOLT

Canadian Fighter Pilot Missing in Korea

Montague Town Council Informed Site Selected For New Public Building

Maritime Board Of Trade Executive Meets At Moncton

MONCTON, Dec. 8.—(CP)—Organization of the Board of Transport Commissioners to provide territorial representation for the Maritime Provinces and other parts of Canada was urged here today at an executive conference of the Maritime Provinces Board of Trade.

Board members said the move was generally supported by Maritime businessmen and was a move toward greater protection of Maritime interests, particularly in the field of freight rates.

Coming Events

- Hazelbrook School Christmas Concert, Dec. 22nd.
Come to Mayfield Christmas Concert, December 19th.
Dance tonight Wilshire Hall in aid of rink. Good music.
Sunday School concert Hartsville Hall, Dec. 16th.
Dance, Forest Hill, Wednesday, December 10th. Turner's Orchestra.
Reserve December 19th, Friday, for Lady Fane Christmas Concert. Admission 25 cents.
Dancing Stanley Bridge Rink Hall every Tuesday night. Music by Munroe's Orchestra. 9 to 1.
Card Party and Meeting in Credit Union Hall, Summerside, Tuesday, December 9th.
Annual Meeting of Kingston Telephone Co., December 13th. E. Newson.
Farmers, ask about the Shu Gain Feed Finance Plan. For particulars contact your local feed mill.
Cards, Entertainment, Lunch—East Royalty School, December 10th, 8:30 P. M.
North Milton School Concert, in Hall, Friday, December 13th. Curtain 8:30.
Pantry Sale at Fennell and Chandler's, December 9th, at 2 P. M. Argyle Shore L. O. B. A.
See St. Teresa's Christmas Concert in the Hall, Monday, December 22nd.
Bellevue School Christmas Concert in Grandview Hall, December 17th.
See Grand View Christmas Concert, Grand View Hall, Monday, December 22nd. Curtain 8:15.
Buying live and dressed fowl and chicken. Contact us for pick up service. Smith Bros., Pownal. Phone 1 R-23.
Contest Fiddling, Dancing and Singing; also Highland Fling, Mount Stewart Legion Hall, Wednesday, December 10th.
Attend the Dance at Winsloe Station Hall, on Wednesday, December 10th, in aid of Milton Hockey Club. Dolron Brothers Orchestra.
The Annual Meeting of the Eastern Kings Exhibition Association will be held in the Town Hall, Souris, on Saturday, December 13th, at 2 P. M.
Buying dressed geese and ducks Wednesday and Thursday. Dry plucked preferred. Geese must be dressed twelve hours before marketing. Scalded geese at market value. R. L. Dickison, New Glasgow.

The site for a new public building at Montague has been purchased and tenders will be called to enable construction to begin in the coming spring, the Montague Town Council was informed last night in a letter from Mr. T. J. Kichham, member of the House of Commons for Kings.

The letter was in reply to a telegram sent Mr. Kichham last week by Mayor B. H. Yeo.

Mr. Kichham said in the letter "Receipt is acknowledged of your telegram, and I note the concern of the citizens of Montague as expressed in your telegram of the 5th instant."

The letter informed the Mayor that the "necessary properties for the construction of the public building have been purchased since I came to Ottawa, and I have the assurance that the tenders for the building will be called for at the end of the year."

The meeting also called for a study of economic conditions in the four Atlantic Provinces and decided to establish a committee to find ways and means of increasing Maritime participation in Canadian economic development.

Members agreed a royal commission probe of industry and economy in the seaboard provinces, as suggested at the board's annual conference last fall, was "an ultimate possibility."

Committees of the Maritime Commission will be set up to study the economic conditions in the four Atlantic Provinces and decided to establish a committee to find ways and means of increasing Maritime participation in Canadian economic development.

Members agreed a royal commission probe of industry and economy in the seaboard provinces, as suggested at the board's annual conference last fall, was "an ultimate possibility."

Committees of the Maritime Commission will be set up to study the economic conditions in the four Atlantic Provinces and decided to establish a committee to find ways and means of increasing Maritime participation in Canadian economic development.

Members agreed a royal commission probe of industry and economy in the seaboard provinces, as suggested at the board's annual conference last fall, was "an ultimate possibility."

Committees of the Maritime Commission will be set up to study the economic conditions in the four Atlantic Provinces and decided to establish a committee to find ways and means of increasing Maritime participation in Canadian economic development.

Members agreed a royal commission probe of industry and economy in the seaboard provinces, as suggested at the board's annual conference last fall, was "an ultimate possibility."

Committees of the Maritime Commission will be set up to study the economic conditions in the four Atlantic Provinces and decided to establish a committee to find ways and means of increasing Maritime participation in Canadian economic development.

Members agreed a royal commission probe of industry and economy in the seaboard provinces, as suggested at the board's annual conference last fall, was "an ultimate possibility."

Committees of the Maritime Commission will be set up to study the economic conditions in the four Atlantic Provinces and decided to establish a committee to find ways and means of increasing Maritime participation in Canadian economic development.

Members agreed a royal commission probe of industry and economy in the seaboard provinces, as suggested at the board's annual conference last fall, was "an ultimate possibility."

Is First R.C.A.F. Casualty In Korean War

OTTAWA, Dec. 8.—(CP)—Air Force headquarters reported today that one of its top fighter pilots, Sgt. Ldr. A. R. (Andy) MacKenzie of Montreal, is missing on operations in Korea. This was the first RCAF casualty of the Korean war.

MacKenzie, 32-year-old veteran who won the Distinguished Flying Cross piloting Spitfires in the Second World War, is the officer commanding No. 441 Fighter Squadron, one of three Canadian squadrons stationed at North Lufkinham, Eng.

He left the post temporarily this fall, going to Korea in October on exchange duty with the United States Air Force to gain combat experience. He is the 13th Canadian pilot to fight in Korea with the USAF. Five others are in the theatre.

RCAF headquarters received no details of the operation in which MacKenzie was missing. A terse cable said he is "missing as a result of flying operations in Korea."

Both in England and in Korea, MacKenzie flew the P-86 Sabre jet aircraft. In the Second World War he flew Spitfires with No. 421 and 403 Squadrons in 1943 and 1944 and was credited with 8 1/2 kills. He returned to Canada in 1944 and since then has been stationed at Patricia Bay, B. C., Goose Bay, Labrador, and at Air Defence Command.

In March, 1951, he was named to command No. 441 Fighter Squadron at St. Hubert Station in Montreal. Early this year he led the squadron to North Lufkinham, the second unit of an eventual 12 squadron air division to go overseas as part of Canada's NATO commitment.

Apart from the 13 pilots who have been attached to the USAF in Korea, Air Force participation has been limited to a transport unit.

Present. Four times he will proclaim: "Sirs, I here present unto you Queen Elizabeth, your undoubted queen." Four times he will be answered by a general cry of "God save Queen Elizabeth."

Many school children also got a lesson as the committee announced the coronation procession will go from Buckingham Palace down the Victoria Embankment to the abbey instead of down Whitehall.

It is expected that the open spaces lining both sides of the Embankment will be mostly earmarked for children, as they were in the 1937 coronation of the late George VI. The decision extends the overall length of the route by about one-quarter of a mile, proceeding down the short Northumberland Street past Whitehall to the Embankment. As originally planned, the procession will return to Buckingham Palace up Whitehall to Trafalgar Square.

OTTAWA, Dec. 8.—(CP)—The Canadian Government announced today that television stations, whether publicly or privately owned, will be limited to one for each area.

Expanding in the commons on the television policy announced at the opening of the session, Revenue Minister McCann said "No two stations will be licensed at present to serve the same area."

It is desirable to have one station in as many areas as possible before there are two in any one area.

Dr. McCann, who reports to parliament for the publicly-owned CBC, said the government's objective will be to make "national television service available to as many Canadians as possible through co-operation between private and public enterprise."

The government would consider applications for licences for private stations in areas not served or to be served by the CBC. The CBC has stations in Montreal and Toronto and plans stations in Ottawa, Vancouver, Winnipeg and Halifax.

Nfld. Premier Reveals Big Real Estate Deal

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., Dec. 8.—(CP)—Premier Joseph R. Smallwood said tonight his government has reached an agreement with N.M. Rothschild and Sons for a development project which will bring "the biggest real estate deal on this continent in the present century."

Details of the plan, evolved during recent discussions in London with the internationally-known group of banking and financial concerns, were not announced, but were believed to include timber or mining development or possibly both.

Mr. Smallwood said field parties will start exploring in Newfoundland and Labrador as soon as the agreement is formally ratified.

The Premier, Labor Minister Charles H. Ballam and Dr. Alfred A. Valdmans, Newfoundland director-general of economic development, represented the province at the London talks.

Mr. Smallwood stressed that the deal is purely between Rothschild and the Newfoundland Government. It has nothing to do with the Newfoundland and Labrador Corporation, a crown company formed to spark island development.

The Premier added the scheme has the "active interest" of Prime Minister Churchill.

OTTAWA, Dec. 8.—(CP)—Parliament will not adjourn over Christmas until the throne speech debate has been concluded, the government informed the Commons today.

Works Minister Fournier, house leader, said it is intended to go on with the debate to its conclusion, rather than put it over until the new year should it run on. It started Nov. 24.

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, had asked about the adjournment date. Mr. Fournier replied that that would depend on the co-operation of various parties in the throne speech debate.

OTTAWA, Dec. 8.—(CP)—The Canadian Government announced today that television stations, whether publicly or privately owned, will be limited to one for each area.

Expanding in the commons on the television policy announced at the opening of the session, Revenue Minister McCann said "No two stations will be licensed at present to serve the same area."

It is desirable to have one station in as many areas as possible before there are two in any one area.

Dr. McCann, who reports to parliament for the publicly-owned CBC, said the government's objective will be to make "national television service available to as many Canadians as possible through co-operation between private and public enterprise."

The government would consider applications for licences for private stations in areas not served or to be served by the CBC. The CBC has stations in Montreal and Toronto and plans stations in Ottawa, Vancouver, Winnipeg and Halifax.

Dr. McCann did not name the areas from which applications for private stations would be considered.

To Make Survey Of Civic Pension Plan

A survey of the civic pension plan will be made by an actuarial firm at a cost of $350 it was decided at the regular monthly meeting of the City Council held last night. Any necessary travelling expenses in connection with the survey are to be determined by the Council.

There was some discussion among the Council members regarding the expense with Councilor T. Roy Cudmore opposing the granting of expenses on the grounds that the cost might "run to $1,000."

The firm which will do the survey is Pipe & Eckler.

In a discussion regarding the streets and a proposed reappreciation program Councilor Elmer MacDonald stated that the people had the tax rate raised last year in anticipation of street work and he did not see that they should be asked to pay again.

Councilor Storey, chairman of the Streets Committee, said that this would be a permanent work and the citizens would only have to pay one-sixth on a frontage basis. He added that he had a "fond hope" that the Provincial Government might contribute, but he agreed that anything received probably would not necessarily be earmarked for the street work.

OTTAWA, Dec. 8.—(CP)—Parliament will not adjourn over Christmas until the throne speech debate has been concluded, the government informed the Commons today.

Works Minister Fournier, house leader, said it is intended to go on with the debate to its conclusion, rather than put it over until the new year should it run on. It started Nov. 24.

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, had asked about the adjournment date. Mr. Fournier replied that that would depend on the co-operation of various parties in the throne speech debate.

OTTAWA, Dec. 8.—(CP)—The Canadian Government announced today that television stations, whether publicly or privately owned, will be limited to one for each area.

Expanding in the commons on the television policy announced at the opening of the session, Revenue Minister McCann said "No two stations will be licensed at present to serve the same area."

It is desirable to have one station in as many areas as possible before there are two in any one area.

Dr. McCann, who reports to parliament for the publicly-owned CBC, said the government's objective will be to make "national television service available to as many Canadians as possible through co-operation between private and public enterprise."

The government would consider applications for licences for private stations in areas not served or to be served by the CBC. The CBC has stations in Montreal and Toronto and plans stations in Ottawa, Vancouver, Winnipeg and Halifax.

Dr. McCann did not name the areas from which applications for private stations would be considered.

It was learned authoritatively the applications must come from areas where existing or planned CBC service cannot be received.

Nationalist-Led Riots Leave More Than 50 Dead

CASABLANCA, Morocco, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Morocco's bloody two-day Nationalist-led riots that have brought death to more than 50 persons verged on open armed rebellion tonight.

Police evacuated French citizens from one sector of Casablanca and planes circled Arab quarters dropping tear gas bombs to disperse mobs shouting for independence from France.

Troops and police laid siege to more than 2,000 Moroccan union members barricaded in the downtown headquarters of the Moroccan General Labor Confederation (CGT). The riots erupted Sunday after a 24-hour general strike called by the union.

The call resulted from the unexplained assassination of Tunisian Minister Churchill.

OTTAWA, Dec. 8.—(CP)—External Affairs Minister Pearson said today the United Nations may have reached a critical turning point but that this is no time to abandon faith in this "indispensable piece of international machinery."

In his first appearance in the commons this session, the president of the UN General Assembly made these points in an hour-long speech:

1. He does not know whether an armistice will come in Korea but even if it doesn't the Indian resolution he has forwarded to China and North Korea has already done work of great value. It has united all non-Communist members of the UN in a policy designed to find an honorable peace.

2. The Atlantic Pact buildup in Europe has made solid progress. Even though it may not exactly meet its 1952 targets, it will do so in "very large measure." But there is still a long way to go to make NATO a bulwark against aggression.

3. This growing strength has lessened international tension "but there is certainly nothing to warrant resting on our oars because of that fact though, as we settle down to the long pull—I believe this is good rowing technique—we may decide to strike a somewhat slower rate."

4. Russia, preparing for the long pull in her own way, is devoting more of her military budget to developing and producing new equipment to strengthen huge forces.

5. There is uneasiness and low morale among the international civil servants working for UN.

6. It is depressing to see the have-not nations, particularly the Arabs and Asians, not infrequently aligned against the West in UN.

7. South Korea now provides 60 per cent of the UN's budget.

Several other witnesses were heard at the first sitting of the inquest. It was adjourned by Coroner Arlie L. Palmer of Hampstead when Laird would not speak.

After hearing him tonight, jurors deliberated an hour and three-quarters before returning with a verdict of accidental death.

Pearson Sees Present Session Critical Point In History Of U. N.

OTTAWA, Dec. 8.—(CP)—External Affairs Minister Pearson said today the United Nations may have reached a critical turning point but that this is no time to abandon faith in this "indispensable piece of international machinery."

In his first appearance in the commons this session, the president of the UN General Assembly made these points in an hour-long speech:

1. He does not know whether an armistice will come in Korea but even if it doesn't the Indian resolution he has forwarded to China and North Korea has already done work of great value. It has united all non-Communist members of the UN in a policy designed to find an honorable peace.

2. The Atlantic Pact buildup in Europe has made solid progress. Even though it may not exactly meet its 1952 targets, it will do so in "very large measure." But there is still a long way to go to make NATO a bulwark against aggression.

3. This growing strength has lessened international tension "but there is certainly nothing to warrant resting on our oars because of that fact though, as we settle down to the long pull—I believe this is good rowing technique—we may decide to strike a somewhat slower rate."

4. Russia, preparing for the long pull in her own way, is devoting more of her military budget to developing and producing new equipment to strengthen huge forces.

5. There is uneasiness and low morale among the international civil servants working for UN.

6. It is depressing to see the have-not nations, particularly the Arabs and Asians, not infrequently aligned against the West in UN.

7. South Korea now provides 60 per cent of the UN's budget.

Several other witnesses were heard at the first sitting of the inquest. It was adjourned by Coroner Arlie L. Palmer of Hampstead when Laird would not speak.

After hearing him tonight, jurors deliberated an hour and three-quarters before returning with a verdict of accidental death.

OTTAWA, Dec. 8.—(CP)—Canadian troops waited nine hours for Gen. Eisenhower's arrival in Korea but they spent only about half of that time in the cold, the army said today.

A telegram received from Brig. M. P. Bogert, commander of the 25th Brigade, gave his version of the incident which got widespread publicity and which brought an apology from the General.

The telegram said the Canadians arrived at the airstrip at 6 a. m., had coffee in heated tents and went on parade at 8:30 a. m. and rehearsed with troops of other countries until 10:45 a. m.

Then they were broken off and taken to tents and had lunch at 11:30. At 1 p. m. they went on parade and remained there until the General's arrival at 3 p. m. and his departure half an hour later.

Reds Seek To Discredit Code Amendments

OTTAWA, Dec. 8.—(CP)—Communists are conducting an intensive campaign to discredit a bill amending the Criminal Code, Justice Minister Garson said in the Commons today.

He was discussing post cards being received by members of parliament asking them to oppose certain clauses of the proposed bill as "police state legislation." The bill has been introduced in the senate, but not yet in the commons.

Mr. Garson said that to "disguise the real Communist control" behind the attack on the bill, it was being operated through the League for Democratic Rights, which he described as "thoroughly Communist-controlled and Communist-inspired."

The Trades and Labor Congress of Canada and the Canadian Congress of Labor, the Minister said, have taken measures to "expose" this barefaced Communist "conspiracy."

Some of the sections of the act objected to in the postcard lobby deal with the definition of and penalties imposed for treason and other offences touching on the safety of the state.

Another is a clause, a continuation of a long-standing one in the Criminal Code, saying it is an offence to break a contract when this would delay the running of trains or deprive a community of public utilities service.

End of the escape attempt came when the eight hostages, seized after the prison's Sunday dinner, walked out the front gate of the big gray prison on the outskirts of the city. Minutes later, Warden Morris Abrams announced the trouble at an end.

Abrams said the convicts agreed to go back to their cells when he promised to place them in temporary lockup, or isolation—rather than the dangerous usual penalty for escape attempts.

The guards were well-treated and given food and coffee by their captors. They refused to discuss their experience.

SANTA FE, N. M., Dec. 8.—(AP)—Fourteen rebellious convicts, surprised softened punishment, surrendered today after a 20-hour siege at the New Mexico State Prison. They released eight guards unharmed.

The mutinous convicts were put into solitary confinement.

End of the escape attempt came when the eight hostages, seized after the prison's Sunday dinner, walked out the front gate of the big gray prison on the outskirts of the city. Minutes later, Warden Morris Abrams announced the trouble at an end.

Abrams said the convicts agreed to go back to their cells when he promised to place them in temporary lockup, or isolation—rather than the dangerous usual penalty for escape attempts.

The guards were well-treated and given food and coffee by their captors. They refused to discuss their experience.

OTTAWA, Dec. 8.—(CP)—Canadian troops waited nine hours for Gen. Eisenhower's arrival in Korea but they spent only about half of that time in the cold, the army said today.

A telegram received from Brig. M. P. Bogert, commander of the 25th Brigade, gave his version of the incident which got widespread publicity and which brought an apology from the General.

The telegram said the Canadians arrived at the airstrip at 6 a. m., had coffee in heated tents and went on parade at 8:30 a. m. and rehearsed with troops of other countries until 10:45 a. m.

Then they were broken off and taken to tents and had lunch at 11:30. At 1 p. m. they went on parade and remained there until the General's arrival at 3 p. m. and his departure half an hour later.

An army spokesman said this indicated that the soldiers were outside in near-zero weather about four hours and 46 minutes.

Bill Boss, Canadian Press correspondent, reported Friday that the Canadians and the other troops saw "precious little of heated tents" throughout the day. He said the men kept warm outside by heating their hands together.

Boss said the soldiers didn't complain "but there was much criticism by newspaper men over the lack of consideration shown the troops—not by Eisenhower, but by the theatre generals."

Later in Seoul, the U. S. president-elect apologized for keeping all the troops waiting and said "I can understand how these soldiers must have felt."

OTTAWA, Dec. 8.—(CP)—Official forecasts issued tonight by the Dominion Public Weather Office here and valid until midnight Tuesday.

Synopsis: A disturbance west of the Great Lakes is moving northeast and is expected to result in rain in Southwestern Nova Scotia and wet snow in Western New Brunswick and Gaspé Tuesday evening. In the remainder of the district there will not be much change in the weather.

Regional forecasts: Prince Edward Island: Cloudy with a few clear intervals. Mild. Light winds becoming southeast 15 by evening. Low and high Tuesday at Charlottetown 30 and 35.

High tide today at Charlottetown at 3:02 A. M. and 4:15 P. M. High tide on the North Shore at 11:25 A. M. and 11:19 P. M. Summerside tide eighteen minutes later than Charlottetown. Sun rises today at 7:39 A. M. and sets at 4:31 P. M.

OTTAWA, Dec. 8.—(CP)—Official forecasts issued tonight by the Dominion Public Weather Office here and valid until midnight Tuesday.

Synopsis: A disturbance west of the Great Lakes is moving northeast and is expected to result in rain in Southwestern Nova Scotia and wet snow in Western New Brunswick and Gaspé Tuesday evening. In the remainder of the district there will not be much change in the weather.

Regional forecasts: Prince Edward Island: Cloudy with a few clear intervals. Mild. Light winds becoming southeast 15 by evening. Low and high Tuesday at Charlottetown 30 and 35.

High tide today at Charlottetown at 3:02 A. M. and 4:15 P. M. High tide on the North Shore at 11:25 A. M. and 11:19 P. M. Summerside tide eighteen minutes later than Charlottetown. Sun rises today at 7:39 A. M. and sets at 4:31 P. M.

OTTAWA, Dec. 8.—(CP)—Official forecasts issued tonight by the Dominion Public Weather Office here and valid until midnight Tuesday.

Synopsis: A disturbance west of the Great Lakes is moving northeast and is expected to result in rain in Southwestern Nova Scotia and wet snow in Western New Brunswick and Gaspé Tuesday evening. In the remainder of the district there will not be much change in the weather.

Regional forecasts: Prince Edward Island: Cloudy with a few clear intervals. Mild. Light winds becoming southeast 15 by evening. Low and high Tuesday at Charlottetown 30 and 35.

High tide today at Charlottetown at 3:02 A. M. and 4:15 P. M. High tide on the North Shore at 11:25 A. M. and 11:19 P. M. Summerside tide eighteen minutes later than Charlottetown. Sun rises today at 7:39 A. M. and sets at 4:31 P. M.

OTTAWA, Dec. 8.—(CP)—Official forecasts issued tonight by the Dominion Public Weather Office here and valid until midnight Tuesday.

Synopsis: A disturbance west of the Great Lakes is moving northeast and is expected to result in rain in Southwestern Nova Scotia and wet snow in Western New Brunswick and Gaspé Tuesday evening. In the remainder of the district there will not be much change in the weather.

Regional forecasts: Prince Edward Island: Cloudy with a few clear intervals. Mild. Light winds becoming southeast 15 by evening. Low and high Tuesday at Charlottetown 30 and 35.

High tide today at Charlottetown at 3:02 A. M. and 4:15 P. M. High tide on the North Shore at 11:25 A. M. and 11:19 P. M. Summerside tide eighteen minutes later than Charlottetown. Sun rises today at 7:39 A. M. and sets at 4:31 P. M.

OTTAWA, Dec. 8.—(CP)—Official forecasts issued tonight by the Dominion Public Weather Office here and valid until midnight Tuesday.

Synopsis: A disturbance west of the Great Lakes is moving northeast and is expected to result in rain in Southwestern Nova Scotia and wet snow in Western New Brunswick and Gaspé Tuesday evening. In the remainder of the district there will not be much change in the weather.

Regional forecasts: Prince Edward Island: Cloudy with a few clear intervals. Mild. Light winds becoming southeast 15 by evening. Low and high Tuesday at Charlottetown 30 and 35.

High tide today at Charlottetown at 3:02 A. M. and 4:15 P. M. High tide on the North Shore at 11:25 A. M. and 11:19 P. M. Summerside tide eighteen minutes later than Charlottetown. Sun rises today at 7:39 A. M. and sets at 4:31 P. M.

OTTAWA, Dec. 8.—(CP)—Official forecasts issued tonight by the Dominion Public Weather Office here and valid until midnight Tuesday.

Synopsis: A disturbance west of the Great Lakes is moving northeast and is expected to result in rain in Southwestern Nova Scotia and wet snow in Western New Brunswick and Gaspé Tuesday evening. In the remainder of the district there will not be much change in the weather.

Regional forecasts: Prince Edward Island: Cloudy with a few clear intervals. Mild. Light winds becoming southeast 15 by evening. Low and high Tuesday at Charlottetown 30 and 35.

High tide today at Charlottetown at 3:02 A. M. and 4:15 P. M. High tide on the North Shore at 11:25 A. M. and 11:19 P. M. Summerside tide eighteen minutes later than Charlottetown. Sun rises today at 7:39 A. M. and sets at 4:31 P. M.

OTTAWA, Dec. 8.—(CP)—Official forecasts issued tonight by the Dominion Public Weather Office here and valid until midnight Tuesday.

Synopsis: A disturbance west of the Great Lakes is moving northeast and is expected to result in rain in Southwestern Nova Scotia and wet snow in Western New Brunswick and Gaspé Tuesday evening. In the remainder of the district there will not be much change in the weather.

Regional forecasts: Prince Edward Island: Cloudy with a few clear intervals. Mild. Light winds becoming southeast 15 by evening. Low and high Tuesday at Charlottetown 30 and 35.

High tide today at Charlottetown at 3:02 A. M. and 4:15 P. M. High tide on the North Shore at 11:25 A. M. and 11:19 P. M. Summerside tide eighteen minutes later than Charlottetown. Sun rises today at 7:39 A. M. and sets at 4:31 P. M.