WE draw the attention of the Electors to the time of closing the Poll on Tuesday next. Under the Dominion Law the Poll closes at Five o'clock, in the afternoon. The Liberal Conservatives should bear this in mind and vote early and see that their friends do the same. Elsewhere in this paper will be found full directions to Voters.

The suspects still imprisoned number 263.

WE regret to learn that at the time of going to press, our townsmen, Mr. Jas. S. Crossman is at the point of death. Mr. Crossman has been for sometime 1st Clerk in the Customs' department in this town, and for efficiency in that situation, we venture to say that the Dominion Government has had no official to surpass him. We are sincerely sorry that our neighbor is pronounced beyond recovery.

It was suspected that the list of Laird and Davies' nominators, as published in the Patriot, was not altogether genuine; and the letter of Mr. P. P. Gillis shows that there were good grounds for the suspicion. A party reduced to such mean shifts bragging about "the certain prospect of an overwhelming majority! Well! Well!!"

FRANCIS DOUGHERTY, of Port Hill, received the sad intelligence, on Saturday last, of the death of his son Albert, who was accidentally killed while working on the North Pacific Extension Railroad, Lakota, on the 5th April. He was a young man of industrious and sober habits and his genial disposition won friends for him wherever he went. He was not only deeply lamented by his near relatives, but by all his acquaintances in the community where he belonged.

ALEX. MCKINNON, Esq., in moving a vote of thanks to Senator Howland, in the Market Hall, scored a good point against Laird and Davies. These men he said fairly bled for the poor man. His clothes were taxed, his flour was taxed, his sugar was taxed, and Davies and Laird lifted their eyes in holy horror and trembling exclaimed: "Oh the poor man!! But what have they ever done for the poor man? He might starve on the street, but they would not give him work. They would sooner invest their money in mortgages at 10 per cent. interest, than risk it in an industry which would give the poor man employment. But when an election approaches they cry "Oh! the Poor Man!"

It cannot be said that St. Jacobs Oil, the Great German Remedy, is ever demonstrative over a case of rheumatism; quietly he performs his mission, leaving the relieved one to tell of its result. Mr. Carl Siegmund, corner Congress and Washington sts., Ypsilanti, Michigan, writes:—My daughter had suffered from rheumatism to such an extent that she was unable to walk or to get up. I tried all kinds of medicines, but in vain. At last we decided to try the St. Jacobs Oil, and this wonderful remedy effected the happiest results. It cured my daughter and the little girl is now well and strong. Such facts, plain and incontrovertible, are always in order and are convincing; and it gives us no small pleasure to add our endorsement of the article which has accomplished such results.

Irish National Land League.

The Charlottetown Land League held its regular meeting on Monday evening, in St. Patrick's Hall. The President, M. P. Hogan, Esq., in the chair. Several matters of business were transacted, and the acknowledgment of contributions to the funds of the League were made, for which a unanimous vote of thanks was passed.

An address from the Central Council of the Land League of the United States was read, asking those who are living in freedom and peace to be united with their people in Ireland, and enable them to live as freemen on the soil where God planted them.

Mr. J. L. Trainor delivered a very good address on the present attitude of English rulers towards unhappy Ireland.

Mr. James W. Mullally next addressed the meeting at some length on the policy of the Government in reference to Ireland. While he believed that the Gladstone Government would do more than any other for Ireland, still he thought the new Repression Bill would submit the Irish people to a severe ordeal.

After brief remarks from the President, the meeting adjourned. RICHARD WALSH, Secretary. June 14, 1882.

Who attempted to disfranchise every P. E. Island voter, who did not own one hundred pounds worth of real estate?

Summerside Notes.

The nomination here yesterday was very quietly conducted, although a large number of people from the rural districts were present. The nominators of Hackett and Rogers were very numerous, and contained scores of the most influential men from all parts of the country. The body guard which surrounded Yeo and Perry, and had them nominated, were a crowd which bore on their very countenances the signs of despair. Perry and his most intimate friends here, admitted, on the streets of Summerside, that he had not the slightest chance of being elected, and their only hope is centered on Yeo.

Instead of a grand public meeting in Ludlow Hall, last evening, as first intended, each party held a meeting of its own supporters in their respective headquarters. The greatest enthusiasm prevailed at the meeting held by the popular candidates—Rogers and Hackett—and most satisfying accounts were received from all parts of the country. Our fellow electors of Kings and Queen's County may be assured that the Government candidates here will sweep this county on the 20th, without the shadow of a doubt.

The Supreme Court formally opened yesterday—Judge Hensley on the bench. The Grand Jury were only detained a few hours, having no criminal business whatever to dispose of.

To-day the trial of Civil Causes commenced, but none of any great interest is to be disposed of.

The unsophisticated and asthetic nominal proprietor of the Journal attempts to get off a joke on your correspondent. He has the audacious impudence to say your correspondent wrote falsehoods in reference to Mr. Perry. Might I suggest that if he really desires Yeo and Perry to be elected (which I have no hesitation in doubting) that he shut up his establishment till after the election is over, as it is the general opinion, that the Journal hurts the interests of the Grits more through its barefaced falsehoods, than if they were shut down altogether? a la "Progress"

The following is a sample of the Journal lying which appeared in last week's issue. "A number of our townsfolk left for the West, on Monday last, among whom were Alex. Allan, Esq., Reginald Graves, and Messrs. Hugh and John Ramsay, late of Rose Hill, Lot 16." Your correspondent saw three of the above named parties walking in the streets of Summerside to-day, and was told by one of the Messrs. Ramsay "that it was just like the Journal to publish such lies."

Who voted for a duty of 6 cents a pound on Tea?

Laird, Yeo, Perry, McIntyre.

We learn that the lower flat of the Temperance Hall on Steadman street has been leased for a term of years by the Moncton Knitting Factory Company. The work of putting in the machinery will be commenced immediately. The hall is probably large enough to hold 75 machines, which means the employment of that many hands. This industry will be a direct benefit to the farmers, as it will give them an excellent cash market for their wool. Times.

DEED.

Died of Red River Fever, at Pembina, Dakota, May 26, 1882, Mrs. Henrietta Clow McLeod, aged 19 years 11 months and 21 days.

The departed was the youngest child of George Clow, of North Wiltshire P. E. Island, where she was born June 5, 1862. She was married to Charles McLeod, at Emerson Man. July 5, 1880. They made their home in Pembina, where she won for herself a host of warm friends. Here, too July 5, 1881, she became the proud mother of a beautiful boy, whom she named Garfield in honor of the then suffering President. She was intending to revisit her native land and spend this summer, with her boy, at her old home. But alas a few days ere the time fixed for her departure, the fatal fever seized upon her. All that affection could prompt was done for her but in vain. After five weeks of extreme suffering, near the midnight hour she "fell asleep."

Asleep in Jesus! blessed sleep. From which none ever wake to weep. A calm and undisturbed repose, Unbroken by the last of foes.

The funeral services were held at the Presbyterian Church, May 28, at 4 p. m. Rev. R. J. Gresswell, her pastor preached from "Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord" (Rev. 14. 13). The church was thronged with her kindred and friends, who afterwards followed her to her last resting place in the cemetery near Pembina. She leaves her aged parents, a young husband and infant son, six brothers and four sisters and a very large circle of other kindred and friends to mourn her early death.
