In intramurals last week the league changed places as the injury-riddled Sophomore Selects dropped two contests as well as the league lead.

The Sophie's with injuries galore lost out Marian, 4-3, and to Korakin, 5-3. The Sophies, even though injured, will still play hockey with players like Paul MacDonald with goal-hog-itis, Kenny Baker with blubber-itus, Steven Bishop, Blaine Burdette, and Irwin Dawson all with smiley-osis. Of course, Kirk MacRae is still out resting his lips after the disease he picked up before Christmas. We agreed to take Kirk back is he brings his own water bottle and buys himself a face mask. Larry LeBlanc is also out because a barbell fell on his toe.

But I understand other teams have their problems also. Marian Hall lost Tim Sears with a dislocated shoulder as a kleenex full of his tears fell on his shoulders. Also, Korakin lost two players due to Sophomore flu. These players are Steve Drummond, who makes a great spectator, and Blair Smith, who recently called the Selects gutless: well, Blair, I was there and I did not see you.

In other action, we saw "Square" Hedly MacDonald's freshman squad humbled JR's squad 12-4. Kenny MacDonald, whose favorite passtime is eating corn through a picket fence, scored 5 goals for the freshman. The game featured everybody'd friend, Scott "Heartbreaker" MacDonald, who makes friends by dancing at the Avenues and nobody's friend, Scott "Beer Thrower" Purdy, whose pass time is getting his hair messed up by the C.P.'s.

The freshman lost their second game to the heated M&M squad 7-4. Two players could not play for the freshman in this game. Mike "Clearsil" Jones could not play because Tracy C. would not let him go out to play with the boys. So Mike had to stay home (GJ's) and play kissy face all night. The other freshman who could not make it was Darren "Brag Bag" Riggs, who knows everything. He was out due to injuries sustained in the elephant contest at the Barn. The contest was to see how many peanuts you could stuff up your nose. But Darren had so many up there that the judges made a whole jar of peanut butter after the contest. The big star for M&M was David "Beaver" Beaton. David, a Jamie Farr lookalike contest winner, is doing a commercial for Dristan. But in one take they lost the bottle.

In the obly other game to report on, the Juniors defeated the Engineers 8-4. Dave Deacon of the Engineers, said that he will keep growing that peach fuzz moustache until the Engineers win a game. Looks like he'll be growing it for awhile.

Now I will go back to my favorite topic-- the Selects. This team has been in a slump as of late and I know the problem - we are thirsty. Since the standings have no bearing on the playoffs there is no challenge. Since we have alcoholics and dope freaks, we demand that some team put some beer up.

This week's feature will be player of the week and team of the week.

The first recipient of the Chapped Lips Award will be Michael James. He scored 4 goals, assisted on 2 others, and kissed from lights on, 9 p.m., to lights off, 1 a.m., on GJ's dance floor. So I think he is deserving of this award. Congratulations, Mike, you are the Chapped Lips player of the week.

The team of the week is, of course, the Selects. Even though they went 0-2 on the week, they still managed to play better than any other team in the league. So better luck next week everyone and way to work Mike.
