Sawmill Burns, 30 Unemployed

CHIPMAN, N. B. (CP) — Fire early Tuesday destroyed the sawmill of W. D. McLeod here involving 30 men out of work and causing damage estimated at $12,000. Fire officials said the blaze started in a Dutch oven in the centre of the mill.

PERTH, N. B. (CP) — RCMP said Tuesday night Shirley May Arenburg, 19, found in a ditch here Saturday night, leaped from an "unknown vehicle" in fear because the driver molested her.

The girl was found lying in the ditch in a semi-conscious condition, facial injuries and bruising. There was considerable improvement in her condition Tuesday.

It was not known how she went to Toronto or how long she was there.

The Schofield girl was reported missing from her home by her family a week ago. Mr. Arenburg earlier said he thought his daughter was working in a Kentville, N.S. sanatorium.

U.S. Gov't May Charge Steel Makers In Anti-Trust Case

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Justice department intends to prosecute the United States steel industry on anti-trust charges if it can find evidence of a conspiracy to raise prices.

Victor R. Hansen, assistant attorney-general in charge of the anti-trust division, reported this Tuesday to the Senate anti-trust and monopoly subcommittee.

Members of the subcommittee, opening an investigation into the general increases in steel prices announced last week and this, raised the possibility of more drastic action, including federal price controls.

"Nobody likes price and wage controls," Democratic Senator James Kefauver of Tennessee remarked. "But with this thing going along as it is at the present time the people are becoming alarmed."

Argus Cost 5 Million Each

OTTAWA (CP)—The 33 Argus submarine-killing aircraft being produced by Canadair Limited, Montreal, for the RCAF will cost at least $169,000,000, it was learned Tuesday. This works out to more than $5,000,000 apiece.

The price of $169,000,000 includes engineering and development of the plane as well as tooling, production and spare parts, but does not include much of the plane's electronic gear or any of its armament, which consists, in the main, of homing torpedoes.

The Argus is being delivered to the two RCAF Maritime reconnaissance squadrons at Greenwood, N.S.

Details on contracts awarded Canadair in the last five years were given recently by Defence Production Minister O'Hurley for Guy Rouleau, Liberal member of Parliament for Montreal Dollard. They show these costs for the Argus since the first contract was awarded.

Rowdy Debate On 'Leak' From Report Is Concluded

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Tuesday night the Liberals "are frustrated in their souls because the depression they predicted was not achieved."

He spoke just before the government's Commons forces beat down two opposition non-confidence motions against the administration.

The OCF motion, which said the recession has been prolonged because the government ignored the trade department's 1958 economic forecast, was defeated by a vote of 149 to 43. The Liberals sided with the CCF.

The Liberal motion, which concerned the government's actions concerning the 1957 and 1958 economic reports had jeopardized relationships between civil servants and ministers. There was beaten by a vote of 150 to 43.

Eisenhower Snaps Up New Khrushchev Meeting Plan

MAY EXCHANGE STUDENTS

Conference Talks Bigger Flow Of Food Products

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP) — Increased flow of food products trade between the New England states and the Atlantic provinces, exchanges of college students and faculty members, and a complete study of existing freight rates by APEC-NEC were suggested during a three-day economic conference of the Atlantic Provinces Economic Council and the New England Council which ended Tuesday.

An APEC spokesman said the suggestions and decisions of the conference will be referred to APEC and NEC councils for study. Steps will be taken to bring appropriate recommendations to the attention of governments, universities or other bodies affected.

Chairman Richard L. Bowditch of the Canadian-New England relations committee termed the meeting a "complete success." He hoped to see the Atlantic provinces employ the "blessing of automation" in their development and a study of freight rates by the two organizations "would be rewarding."

Mr. Trotter, board chairman of the Rhode Hospital Trust Company in Providence, said economic "stresses and strains" discussed with Canadian government officials by President Eisenhower in a recent visit to Ottawa might never have occurred if Canada had been consulted before certain economic steps were taken.

Canadians sometimes felt American attitudes were too arbitrary and that Americans took action without regard for feelings of friends and neighbors. "If this is true," he said, "we Americans can and should make amends without receding from the course of action we feel necessary to our own economy."

Walter R. McLachlan, executive vice-president of A. V. Roe Canada Company Limited told the more than 150 delegates and their wives Canada must do more of her own brainwork. Canada had borrowed brains, talent and technological know-how for too long. Greater research on the part of Canadian firms was urged.

CLEARING HOUSE

C. T. Fitzrandolph, APEC agricultural officer from Halifax, said a "clearing house" for fisheries information was a recommendation of a panel on food production and trade patterns. Others were a program of exploitation of brand names, especially of lobster.

There had been general agreement that "Maine lobster" should be promoted even though much of the lobster was Atlantic provinces origin. The high quality of Maine lobster in New England was already well known.

An education panel said the shortage of university teachers and scientists and money for colleges and individual students were the chief problems. "There must be increased sympathy and understanding of businessmen for the financial needs of colleges," said chairman Dr. C. F. Phillips, president of Bates College of Lewiston, Me.

LOAN PROGRAM

The panel recommended a private loan program arranged by businesses and private individuals through the respective Canadian and American banking systems.

Earlier in the sessions, board chairman Raymond H. Trotter of the New England Council urged there by the wishes of the Lebanese government.

Asked about his impressions during his recent trip to Iraq, Murphy said "the talks were very satisfactory and we had a good deal of understanding about problems which are bothering us."

Is Fined For Dragging Cow

YARMOUTH, N. S. (CP)—Raymond White of nearby North Chezzeggin was fined $10 Tuesday on a charge of dragging a cow behind a tractor.

Known as the Elm Haven Dairy Company, the farm had been operated by the late Allan E. Larrier and his widow and children continued ownership.

It was stocked with prize cattle. How many animals perished was not known immediately, but it was found necessary to shoot some because they were severely burned.

Huge Loss In Dairy Farm Fire

DUNSTABLE, Mass. (AP) — Fire Tuesday night ravaged one of the finest dairy farms in New England.

With loss climbing toward $1,000,000, fire departments from eight communities were striving to overcome the flames two hours after a general alarm was sounded.

Mr. Trotter, board chairman of the Rhode Hospital Trust Company in Providence, said economic "stresses and strains" discussed with Canadian government officials by President Eisenhower in a recent visit to Ottawa might never have occurred if Canada had been consulted before certain economic steps were taken.

But Leaders Wide Apart On How U.N. Should Proceed

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower Tuesday night snapped up Nikita Khrushchev's proposal for a discussion of the Middle East crisis in the United Nations General Assembly rather than at a summit session of the UN Security Council.

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said General Assembly sessions normally are not attended by heads of government. But, he added, "I would not rule it out."

But he and Premier Khrushchev, who proposed that procedure some six hours earlier, remained wide apart on how the 81-nation General Assembly should approach the problem.

Khrushchev proposed action on a Soviet resolution calling for UN moves to force withdrawal of U.S. troops from Lebanon and of British troops from Jordan.

Eisenhower, while calling Khrushchev's bid for an assembly session completely acceptable, said the assembly should take up instead a U.S. resolution. It calls on the assembly to arrange for a UN force to replace U.S. troops to ensure Lebanon's stability and independence.

The development appeared to have wiped out prospects for any early summit talks, such as Eisenhower had been advocating within the framework of the 11-nation Security Council.

U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge and the Soviet delegation at the UN already had moved to convene the Security Council, which could call an assembly session. The council will meet Thursday.

Neither Eisenhower nor Dulles had shown great enthusiasm for the idea of an emergency summit conference, which many observers have felt would result only in a war of words.

Khrushchev said the U.S., by landing troops in Lebanon, had bypassed the Security Council and the end result was that "fait accompli" had been placed before the council.

"Can it be said that such actions strengthen the council?" the Soviet premier asked.

REGRETS MOVE

At the same time, Eisenhower said he regrets that Khrushchev turned down his proposal for a summit meeting within the UN Security Council.

U.N. Security Council Is Scheduled To Meet Tomorrow

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Both Russia and the United States Tuesday demanded an emergency meeting of the 81-nation General Assembly to discuss Middle East problems.

Chief U.S. delegate Henry Cabot Lodge disclosed the American position soon after Soviet delegate Arkady A. Sobolev formally asked for a meeting of the Security Council to set up an assembly session.

The council meeting was set for 4 p.m. ADT Thursday. Sobolev submitted his request to the president of the council for August, Guillaume Georges-Picot of France, in line with an announcement by Premier Khrushchev that he favored an assembly session in place of a summit conference.

Lodge said the United States not only welcomes a full debate on the Middle East, but would move at the earliest possible moment in the council for an emergency assembly. The United States already has such a proposal pending in the council.

American sources said the United States would insist that the proposed emergency session deal with a long-range solution to Middle East problems and not be limited to the immediate future.

The regular general assembly session opens Sept. 16. The Soviet proposal already in the council calls for a discussion of "the question of the withdrawal of the American troops from Lebanon and the British troops from Jordan."

Khushchev Shelves One Plan, Produces Another

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Premier Nikita Khrushchev Tuesday night shelved his own plan for a summit conference on Middle East issues and called instead for a special meeting of the United Nations General Assembly.

He was understood the U.S. delegation felt this was broad enough to include discussion of the entire Middle East problem.

Under Security Council procedure, an emergency assembly may be called if the request is backed by any seven of the 11 members.

Khrushchev's reply to President Eisenhower's note of Aug. 1 was released by the Soviet news agency Tass. Similar letters were sent to Prime Minister Macmillan and Premier de Gaulle.

ESCAPE ENDS AT 36 MARK

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Jeanne Brown, a 35-22-36 cocktail waitress, tried to leave a jail cell through a small opening by which food is passed to prisoners.

BRING CALM

His letter to Eisenhower—fourth since Russia first called for a summit conference on the Middle East 17 days ago—stressed that discussion of the Middle East in the 81-member UN assembly would enable both big and small states to find ways of bringing calm to the area.

The message indicated the Soviet leaders now are prepared to wait for a summit conference until after a General Assembly meeting—apparently in the belief Russia would command better support in the large assembly.

Communist China's influence appears in Khrushchev's charge that the Security Council is ineffective as an instrument of peace because the council "is practically under the influence of U.S. foreign policy."

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Jeanne Brown, a 35-22-36 cocktail waitress, tried to leave a jail cell through a small opening by which food is passed to prisoners.

The 28-year-old waitress squeezed her 35 through. The 22 was a cinch. But at 36 her escape attempt came to an end.

Mr. Diefenbaker said that wherever Mr. Pickersgill spoke during the last election campaign the candidate of the other party was elected.

Mr. Pickersgill said he spoke 30 times in his own riding and received 76 per cent of the vote. "They'd sooner elect you than listen to you," an unidentified Conservative shouted.

Soviet hopes to broaden the proposed Middle East summit conference to all matters at issue between East and West emerged clearly for the first time in a communique published here Sunday following Khrushchev's meeting with Mao Tse-tung.
